Girl emerges as key figure in Hearst kidnap

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The father of kidnaped Patricia Hearst Saturday ordered his newspaper to print a letter received last month explaining the philosophy of the terrorist group holding her captive.

"Maybe it will give people some insight into the organization," Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner, said at a news conference at his home in Hillsborough just south of San Francisco.

Hearst said the text of the 3,000-word Jan. 17 letter would be printed in today's editions of The Examiner.

He also told reporters that he hoped that a lack of communication from his daughter's abductors did not mean she was no longer alive. The SLA had said in this week's letter that there would be further communiques.

The January letter was written by fugitive Nancy Ling Perry, 26, who as a teen-ager campaigned for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and later worked as a topless card dealer in San Francisco.

Miss Perry was sought on charges she tried to burn down a home in nearby Concord where the SLA apparently maintained a headquarters. Authorities said she took the action after two associates, Russell J. Little, 24, and Joseph Remiro, 27, were arrested for a shootout with police.

Little and Remiro were later charged with murder in the Nov. 9 assassination of Oakland School Superintendent Marcus A. Foster. The SLA in a letter to news media claimed responsibility for the killing. It said it opposed him because of his position favoring use of police on school building patrols.

Authorities said they felt the SLA would ask for the release of Little and Remiro in return for Miss Hearst's release. The two men were being held in San Quentin Prison for security reasons. Their trial date has not been set.

In the January letter Miss Perry said she had changed her name to "Fahizah." She said the name means "one who is victorious...I am a freedom fighter."

Miss Perry said the nation was being governed by a military dictatorship.

"The experience of living in Amerikkka (sic) has since taught me the realities of what fascism, imperialism and genocide mean; and I have discovered the truth about it in college, but because I see it everyday, and because truth is something that is honestly known as easily as beauty seen."

She also said that all SLA members were "offensively armed with cyanide bullets in all weapons."

Foster was killed with bullets laced with lethal cyanide.

In another development in the kidnap case, Steven A. Weed, 26, also a UC student and Miss Hearst's fiance, was released from the school's Cowell Hospital, where he had been under treatment for a savage beating at the hands of her kidnapers.

FBI agents escorted him from the campus hospital and drove him to the home of Miss Hearst's parents. He looked in good health except for a swollen eye.

Weed told newsmen outside the Hearst home, "If Patty is returned unharmed, neither Patty nor myself will be involved in the case in any way.

"I hope the leaders of the SLA believe that for the following reason: if we break our word or are forced to testify, it would seriously jeopardize any future negotiations that might come up."

As for the FBI's composite drawings of the kidnapers, he said, "I'm not particularly pleased with them."

Hearst, son of publishing giant William Randolph Hearst, told reporters in his morning news conference that his family had expected to hear something from the kidnapers Friday.

Get those rigs back on road--Nixon

Worst of truck strike appears over

By United Press International

Independent truck drivers voted to return to work in growing numbers Saturday, apparently ending the worst of a 10-day drivers strike that had halted critical food shipments and threatened some industries with virtual shutdowns.

Authorties in a dozen states, while cautiously keeping National Guard troops on standby alert, reported traffic near normal.

However, pockets of dissatisfaction were apparent in some votes rejecting government pledges to freeze fuel prices, and scattered violence continued.

Mike Parkhurst, editor of Overdrive magazine, said government proposals to end the strike were "unworkable" and termed talk of an end to the walkout "a giant smokescreen." Parkhurst predicted the walkout would continue.

A key group in Pennsylvania, the Pittsburgh chapter of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers (FASH), voted overwhelmingly to return to work. And representatives of a major truckers group in Florida agreed to resume citrus shipments Monday.

However, the Cleveland chapter of FASH turned down the back-to-work plan, and the group's Youngstown, Ohio, chapter was evenly split on the issue. Other drivers in Louisiana, Iowa and Alabama rejected the plan, and one group of defiant drivers in Batesville, Ark., named themselves "The boys who haven't given up yet."

President Nixon, in a nationwide radio address, termed the truckers essential "to provide food, fuel and other supplies to all Americans," and urged them to return to work.

"Now is the time to get all the trucks back on the road," Nixon said.

In East Texas, independent truckers stalled en masse at Lone Star announced Saturday they had agreed to contracts with 23 trucking companies and will be back on the roads by Tuesday.

And in Tennessee, drivers in several areas said Saturday they were cranking up their rigs and at least temporarily ending their part in the 10-day old truckers strike.

Driver groups in Pennyslvania, Ohio, Illinois, California, Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota accepted the plan. And Mid-West Truckers Association Vice President Orville Tombe said the decision of his 20,000-member group to get back on the road was "a major breakthrough."

Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar reported truck traffic up sharply on major highways in the last 24 hours. He said traffic in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan was 80 to 90 per cent of normal, while "violent incidents were down sharply."

Nixon made the appeal at the close of a nationwide radio broadcast in which he announced he would ask Congress next week for a six-year, $16 billion federal aid commitment to improve public transportation in metropolitan and rural areas, from highways to mass transit.

He also said he would simultaneously ask Congress to authorize $2 billion in federally guaranteed loans to help modernize railroad operations and equipment. "Today our railroads are more necessary than ever," he said.

Nixon added a personal note to the independent truck owner-operators two days after tentative agreement was negotiated to provide them financial relief from soaring prices and short supplies of diesel fuel vital to their livelihood.

The government, he said, has acted to "provide relief for...their legitimate concerns."

"The trucking industry plays a critical role in our economy, and it is essential that the truckers continue to provide food, fuel and other supplies to all Americans."

While acknowledging understandable grievances among the truckers, Nixon warned that "in no instance will we tolerate violence from those with grievances."

He said: "Those who wilfully break the law can expect no sympathy from those who enforce the law. We intend to enforce the federal laws, and we will give state and local officials the assistance they need to enforce their laws."

Nixon thanked Teamster President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and others for "their responsible actions during this period," and promised the administration would "act promptly to find a responsible and just solution" in comparable instances of acute hardships in other industries caused by the energy crisis.

Seven presumed dead

Planes collide in mid-air;

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A jet trainer carrying seven servicemen from McClellan Air Force Base, Calif., collided in mid-air Saturday night with a larger jet and exploded. The seven men aboard the trainer were presumed dead.

The larger NKC135, based at Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M., landed safely. Authorities said it had been on a classified mission.

The trainer, a twin-engine T39, hit the tail section of the four-engine celestial observation craft at 23,000 feet and blew up, according to a Federal Aviation Administration official.

No identities of the dead were available immediately. A search party was organized shortly after the collision near Peterson Air Field, an air base located here.

The NKC135 was crippled in the collision but returned to Kirtland, located near Albuquerque, N.M. without further incident.

Two men jailed in theft of 4 paintings at Scripps College

CLAREMONT — Two men are in jail charged with the theft last week of four paintings, one of which, taken from Scripps College, was valued at approximately $15,000.

Sources at the Claremont Police Department report Michael John Kiedrowsk, 24, and Sammy Gene Harrison, 23, were arrested Friday night by detectives from the Orange Police Department after the two reportedly attempted to sell the paintings to an art dealer in that city.

Although police sources indicated the four paintings were taken from Scripps, a college spokesman said only one, "Old Town Terrance," by George Beal, has been definitely identified as college property. It has not yet been determined whether the other three are college-owned or were even taken from the campus.

According to reports, Kiedrowsk, a Scripps custodian who rents a room at 1464 Lynoak, approached the Orange art dealer about three weeks ago with an offer to sell a canvas painted by an old master. The dealer, suspicious, notified Orange police.

This week, Kiedrowsk returned to the gallery—not identified by police in the company of Harrison, who lives at 234 E. Pasadena St., Pomona. They did not have in their possession the old master, which the college says does not exist, but did offer the other four art works for sale, police say.

Both men were arrested and charged with conspiracy to solicit commission of a crime and grand theft.

Hit-run death charge sought

CHINO — Police will seek a felony complaint Monday against a driver, whom they declined to identify, in the alleged hit-and-run death of a 17-year-old youth Friday night.

The dead youth, Arthur Sandoval of 13050 3rd St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital after he was struck and dragged several feet in the parking lot of Alpha Beta Market on Walnut Street.

Hurt in collision

ONTARIO — A 49-year-old Cucamonga man seriously injured Thursday afternoon when a dirt truck and a pickup truck he was driving collided broadside at Vineyard Avenue and D Street, was listed in satisfactory condition Saturday in San Antonio Community Hospital.

James Stanley Longstreet of 9256 Calle Vejar, Cucamonga, was admitted to the Upland hospital with internal injuries.

SIMON STOKES ENERGY CRISIS

Federal energy czar William Simon adds a little fuel to the fireplace in his office, in stocking feet, after reallocating gas supplies Saturday to improve distribution to states where service station pumps are running dry.

Simon orders gas reallocated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy director William E. Simon Saturday ordered a mass re-allocation of gasoline to relieve acute shortages in 12 states and the District of Columbia.

Simon acted to "provide a better balance" of gasoline supplies across the country by ordering changes in the original mandatory fuel allocation formula to divert gasoline from "well-supplied areas" to others running chronically short.

Simon directed major oil companies in a telegram to reduce the original allocations for 10 states, most of them in the Middle West, and to increase shipments into the dozen predominantly Mid-Atlantic states where needs are greater than originally estimated.

"Today's measure is a redistribution, not an increase in available supply," Simon said. "It will not relieve the over-all shortage."

He said the effects of the new allocations, to be felt in about a week, would be monitored closely and further steps would be taken to redistribute supplies "if severe shortages persist."

Besides the District of Columbia, the states getting heavier gasoline supplies will be Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Maine, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas, Virginia and Tennessee.

States getting reduced shipments will be Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Simons' Federal Energy Office had no immediate, specific figures on how much each area would gain or lose.

As foreign and finance ministers from a dozen major oil-consuming nations began arriving here for the extraordinary two-day parley starting Monday at Nixon's request, the President conferred at the White House with the three officials who will present the U.S. position.

They were Simon, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz. The President's objective was reported to be a united effort to drive down world oil prices.

The Washington Post, quoting oil industry analysts, reported Saturday that petroleum prices on world markets already had begun dropping from record levels in the face of buyer resistance.

Vehicles burned in garage fire

POMONA — Flames destroyed a motorcycle and damaged two autos Saturday afternoon in a blaze that engulfed a garage and portions of a dwelling at 1028 E. Lexington Ave., city firemen report.

Initial reports, which identify neither occupant nor owner of the residence, say the fire burst out in a breezeway from an undetermined reason, then spread to the garage and living room. Firemen, called to the scene at 12:58 p.m., say total damage to the home and contents was about $5,000—which includes about $1,000 damages to television sets.

Thought Nixon blaming him

Kissinger nearly quit in '71 over documents leak

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger almost resigned in 1971 because he thought President Nixon was blaming him for the leak of secret White House documents to the press and the Pentagon, the Chicago Sun-Times reported in its today editions.

The newspaper quoted sources close to Kissinger as saying he was ready to quit when the President refused to defend him publicly for four weeks after documents about the war between India and Pakistan were published. Kissinger interpreted the lack of support as a sign he was being blamed for the leak, the SunTimes said.

The newspaper said Kissinger changed his mind about resigning when an investigation into the leak absolved his National Security Council staff and put the blame on Navy Yeoman 1C Charles E. Radford.

Radford, a former clerk in the military liaison office at the White House, has been formally accused of turning over secret documents to the press and of passing Kissinger's private papers to the Pentagon. He met for 2½ hours Saturday with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and is expected to testify before the committee.

The Sun-Times said Radford accompanied Kissinger on part of his first trip to China in 1971 and was accused by the White House "plumbers," in their investigation of the case, of going through Kissinger's briefcase.

But before they accused Radford of leaking the documents, the plumbers reportedly tried to investigate Kissinger's Security Council staff, the Sun-Times said. They gave up when Kissinger's former assistant, Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Jr., threatened to resign, the Sun-Times said.

The Sun-Times sources said Kissinger was convinced the plumbers investigation was part of an effort by White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. "Bob" Haldeman to weaken his influence with the President.

The newspaper's sources said Kissinger had determined that Ehrlichman and Haldeman were succeeding with their tactics when press secretary Ronald Ziegler refused almost daily for four weeks to come to Kissinger's defense after papers on the India-Pakistan war were published.

Ford sees 'no alternative'

Rationing almost sure if embargo continues

DETROIT (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Saturday night there may be "no alternative" to gasoline rationing if the Arab embargo on oil exports to the United States goes on much longer.

Ford also said the administration has decided to propose additional unemployment assistance for persons out of work in high jobless areas, with no requirement that beneficiaries show that they lost their jobs because of the energy shortage.

The vice president made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a Michigan Republican dinner during a three-city tour that was expected to raise $400,000 for the state party organization. He took the opportunity to appeal for support of President Nixon in the current "period of transition and trial at home."

Ford maintained that the Republican Party "is alive and well" despite the pressures of Watergate, the energy situation, the sagging economy and other "terrible problems".

In assessing the energy situation, Ford said the administration is doing all it can to minimize the shortages and to develop domestic resources so that gasoline rationing can be avoided.

"We do not want gasoline rationing," he said. "With rationing, we might find ourselves standing in line in the Post Office instead of waiting in line at the gas station. Rationing would escalate the bureaucracy and big government that Republicans abhor.

"But unless the oil embargo ends soon, we may have no alternative."

As for the economic impact of the energy shortage, Ford said: "I am very pleased to be able to announce tonight that the administration is asking for special assistance to areas of high joblessness by extending 26-week unemployment benefits an additional 13 weeks through federal-state joint action."

He said the administration also was recommending a broadening of unemployment compensation to include workers in agriculture and other areas not now covered. "Individuals would be included regardless of whether their job loss was caused by the energy crisis," he said.

A Labor Department spokesman in Washington said a decision was reached Friday to propose legislation that would allow unemployed workers in high jobless areas to collect benefits for up to one year if they are covered by unemployment insurance. The administration also will propose that benefits be offered for 26 weeks to jobless individuals who are not covered by unemployed insurance.

Upland election issue

Police retirement plan update gaining support

UPLAND — Support for a revised police retirement system is growing in the city, according to members of a citizen's committee organized to promote the March 5 ballot issue.

During an open forum held this week in the city council chambers to discuss the issue, committee members reported good results from their presentations before business, church and civic leaders.

Committee chairman Richard R. Riley, Valencia School principal, told about 30 persons at the meeting that he is "confident we'll get a majority vote" on the issue.

The committee, which includes Robert Nolan, principal of Upland Junior High; James H. Smith, principal of Baldy View School; Harold W. Cook, former superintendent of the Upland School District; C.V. Thompson and Mrs. Bette Morgan, as well as off-duty police officers, have been busy for several weeks distributing bumper stickers, making public appearances and canvassing the city in support of the measure.

The new retirement system, which would cost an additional $44,000 a year or an additional 5.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation on the city's tax rate, eliminates inequities in the present system, which promoters say hampers the police department's efforts to attract and retain qualified young police officers.

The present system, they say, discriminates against those officers who spend the longest time on the force. For example, an officer who joins the force at age 21 and retires at ages 60 now receives 57 per cent total retirement benefits. An officer who begins service at age 35 and also retires at age 60 receives 62.5 per cent compensation.

The new system, similar to that used by the California Highway Patrol, creates a uniform retirement benefit rate of 2 per cent per year of service regardless of the age the officer enters service.

The plan also provides for a minimum retirement age of 50, instead of the present 55, and requires compulsory retirement at age 60, instead of 65.

The plan discourages the earlier retirement, however, by providing slightly increased benefits, 2.7 per cent, to those retiring at ages 55 to 60.

Officers can receive a maximum of 75 per cent of the average of his three highest years of annual pay .

Widows of retired officers would be given a special benefit of one-half of the officer's retirement benefit.

The new program would also inrease an officer's contribution to the retirement program from the current -7 per cent to 9 per cent of his annual salary.

B52 wracked by explosions in runway crash; seven die

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — A giant B52 stratofortress veered off the runway during a night takeoff at Beale Air Force Base, flipped over in a muddy field and was blown to bits by four massive explosions. Seven of the eight crewmen burned to death.

The plane skidded through the field for 1,500 feet before the explosions were triggered by fire in an abortive takeoff late Friday.

The huge aircraft was headed for a base trailer court where about 30 families live as the blasts destroyed it, authorities said.

The sole survivor, Capt. Paul L. Baldy, 29, Yuba City, Calif., was flown Saturday to the Brooks Medical Center in San Antonio, Tex., for treatment of severe burns.

Only the tail section of the plane was left intact. Melted steel debris and rubble were scattered over a 500-yard area and large chunks of engine were knocked hundreds of feet by the force of the blasts.

The Air Force said no weapons were aboard the eight-engine craft but the plane's load of jet fuel caught fire and exploded.

"The plane lifted off and suddenly veered to one side, ran into the field and exploded," an unidentified airman witness told authorities. "It was like a great big mushroom."

The Air Force said the plane, which is half the length of a football field, had been in the air two hours on a routine training flight before the crash and had landed to take on another crewman.

That crewman went aboard to give a "standardization" check to the pilot.

The victims were identified as 1st Lt. Neal D. Kass, 26, copilot, of Orange, N.J.; Maj. Toney V. Peter, 36, navigator, Goodland, Kans.; Capt. Lee F. Knudsen, 27, an electronic warfare inspector, Oregon City, Ore.; Capt. Michael W. Forster, 29, instruction pilot, Stockton, Calif.; and Sgt. James W. Troutman, 33, aerial gunner, Grand Coulee, Wash., and Capt. Thomas E. Cannon, 25, navigator, Newark, N.J.

The seventh victim's name was not released pending notification of next of kin.

Baldy, the survivor, apparently was knocked free from the wreckage before the craft came to a halt, a spokesman said.

Motorcycle flips; driver is injured

MONTCLAIR — An 18-year-old Chino youth was in satisfactory condition Saturday in Doctor's Hospital with injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident Friday by a flood control channel near Philadelphia and East End Avenues.

Michael Dean Delzell of 11760 Monte Vista Ave. suffered serious head injuries said investigating Highway Patrol officers, when he flipped off the motorcycle he was riding on a dirt path next to the channel.

Stop harassment of President, says Rockfeller

ROCKTON, Ill. (UPI) — Former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller Saturday defended the accomplishments of the Nixon administration and warned against attempts to harass the President into resigning.

"If we look at the record, and I deplore the events of Watergate and their destructive ramifications as much as anyone in this country, we must not lose sight of the fact that the Nixon administration has a tremendous record of accomplishments to its credit," Rockefeller said.

The former New York governor made his comments in a speech prepared for a Rockton, Ill., dinner honoring Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill.

Anderson is chairman of the House Republican Conference, second-ranking member of the Rules Committee and a member of House Judiciary Committee which will decide whether the House should act to impeach Nixon.

Man injured on freeway still in serious condition

POMONA — Jimmy Hollinger, 31, injured in a traffic accident on the San Bernardino Freeway Thursday night, remains in serious condition, according to Pomona Valley Community Hospital spokesmen.

Hollinger, of Los Angeles, was taken to the hospital with head and chest injuries following a mishap near Ganesha Boulevard in which he was ejected from his auto and run over by another which had stopped to protect him from traffic but was itself struck from the rear. Two men leaped over a freeway fence to drag Hollinger from beneath the burning hulk of the second auto.

Female president in 10 years

Self determination is woman's right, says Julie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower Saturday advocated the "total right of self determination" in lifestyle for women and said she thought the nation might have a female president within 10 years.

Julie spoke of women's rights and their role in a prepared speech for a luncheon of the Mortar Board Alumnae, a national honorary organization of female college seniors. It was the organization's 40th annual founder's day celebration.

"In short," the President's daughter said, "it's the total right of self determination that we're talking about."

"That is what women's rights is all about. Not a threat but an option. Not a fixed role, but a choice.

"The freedom to make the choice of a lifestyle that is most comfortable to you as an individual and the knowledge that you can make that choice with confidence that society will not limit the satisfaction you can derive."

Fielding questions from luncheon guests, Julie said the prospect of a woman president is not so remote, adding. "I can see it happening in the next 10 years."

Asked whether she had any presidential aspirations herself, she said, "I'm not even planning to run for Congress, and you need a stepping stone."

In her speech, she said that in her travels with her father it has become apparent to her, especially in the past few years "that women as a whole are taking themselves more seriously."

"They are much more aware of their capabilities for significant achievement —in their communities, in government, in industry."

She said this is the "key to the future achievement by women" and is going to make the difference in not how others look at them "but how women look at themselves."

Julie said that women's legal rights and the opportunity for equal salaries for the same work should be guaranteed.

France, Iran in $5 billion deal

PARIS (UPI) — France and Iran Saturday announced a $5 billion deal under which France will build nuclear plants, factories and pipelines in Iran in return for natural gas and oil exploration rights.

The agreement was signed by Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Iran's Minister of Economic Affairs, Houshang Ansary, after two days of talks by members of a mixed Franco-Iranian economic commission.

They outlined the principle areas of cooperation as follows:

—Nuclear Energy: Iran said it was prepared to order from France five nuclear power plants under conditions to be arranged between the companies and competent authorities of the two countries.

—Oil: French companies expressed their desire to secure further exploration rights in Iran. It was agreed common exploration could be carried out (by Iran and France) in third countries.

—Natural Gas: French companies were prepared to construct a pipeline in association with other European interests to bring natural gas to Europe.

U.S. envoy tells of mission to Mideast

Oil confrontation avoided, but at ever-rising price

By KIM WILLENSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Undersecretary of State John N. Ervin said in secret testimony published Saturday he was sent to the Middle East three years ago to halt a confrontation between oil producers and the U.S. industry with no real understanding of American objectives.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Ervin's testimony Jan. 31 "reveals an appalling lack of governmental expertise in the area of international oil and the failure of the U.S. government to come to grips" with its issues.

He said Ervin's story contains a lesson for the international conference of 13 oil-consuming nations opening Monday in Washington on President Nixon's invitation.

Ervin told Church's Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations he was dispatched to the Persian Gulf on one day's notice Jan. 16, 1971, after a meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and John J. McCloy, attorney for the U.S. oil industry's joint negotiating group. Rogers also had conferred with President Nixon.

Ervin said he thought his primary mission was to prevent an open confrontation between the two sides and thus avert a possible oil embargo.

He was to visit the leaders of Iran, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait with personal messages from Nixon.

When he arrived in Tehran, he said, he found the shah of Iran adamantly opposed to single joint negotiations between the industry on one side and all members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries on the other.

U.S. industry wanted one negotiation to avoid a whipsaw action in which the Persian Gulf countries and Mediterranean oil exporters demanded alternating price increases.

Ervin said the industry already had cleared the single negotiation proposal at the highest levels of the U.S. government, through former Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

But once at the scene, Ervin decided the best course was to accept the shah's demand and split the negotiations. He said he told the State Department not to support the industry's position and told the Iranians of this, but did not bother to consult U.S. industry representatives in Tehran, he acknowledged.

The confrontation was avoided, but only at the cost of holding separate "parallel" negotiations for the Persian Gulf and Mediterranean countries —permitting the price whipsaw to continue to this day.

'The Exorcist'—mass hysteria sweeping the country

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Exorcist" is breaking all box office records in the United States, and its producers predict it will surpass the $155 million earned by the most successful picture of all time, "The Godfather."

The movie dealing with demonic possession has spurred a national craze over the ancient rites of exorcism and a preoccupation with the devil.

Lines in front of theaters are the longest in memory. Scores of fans have vomited and fainted while watching the film, a screen version of William Peter Blatty's novel about a 12-year-old girl who undergoes the Catholic exorcism ritual in chilling scenes of violence, filth, sex and the worst vulgarity heard on the screen.

From across the country doctors and the Roman Catholic church, along with other denominations, report virtually hundreds of cases of demonism, poltergeists, possession and hysteria.

Director William Friedkin denies it is mass hysteria.

"People are just over-reacting," he said. "Some are just trying to draw attention to themselves. I heard a report some people in Chicago and Detroit were put under restraint in hospitals because of the picture. I don't believe it."

But there have been sufficient incidents to encourage national news magazines to devote columns of space to the phenomena. So far "The Exorcist" has earned $10 million in only 20 cities.

Most publicized case of possession and exorcism came from the San Francisco area where the Rev. Karl Patzelt performed exorcism rites to expel a devil from a couple and their 2-year-old child.

"There are more persons possessed than we think, and many of those in mental institutions do not belong there —they belong in the hands of a priest," Father Patzelt said in a television interview.

Author Blatty, himself educated in Catholic schools, said his book is based on a well-documented case of exorcism in the eastern United States in 1949. His research into church archives was approved by Catholic officials, and some priests actually worked in the film.

The case involved a 14-year-old boy from Maryland who suffered unaccountable spasms and mouthed curses in ancient languages he could not have known. The ceremony of exorcism eventually freed him of possession.

Most Protestant leaders call the interest absurd. The Rev. Billy Graham has denounced the picture without having seen it.

In Los Angeles Bishop John Ward said the furor over exorcism borders on mass hysteria and is being blown out of proportion.

"I'm not approving or disapproving of exorcism," he said. "It's a fact that the devil does exist and there is a Roman Catholic ritual using prayers to exorcise the devil."

The priest who acted as technical advisor to the film, Father John J. Nicola —now on assignment in Rome—said, "I don't think I would release the film to the general public if it were up to me because of the dangers of hysteria.

"I think it could rival what we had in Europe in the Middle Ages with the St. Vitas dance."

Gas company shuts off heat; man freezes

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Everybody is awfully sorry about what happened to Harold Radtke.

The Wisconsin Public Service Corp. turned off the gas at Radtke's Peshtigo, Wis., home Jan. 28 because he had not paid his gas bill for three months.

The 71-year-old bachelor's frozen body was found this week lying face up on the floor of his home. The body was dressed in five shirts. There were several blankets on his sleeping couch. Radtke had apparently also been trying to get warmth from a vacuum cleaner motor and an electric heating plate.

1 above zero

The temperature outside was 1 degree above zero. Inside it was 20. Pans of water on the stove were frozen. So were the toilet and the kitchen sink.

A spokesman for the PSC said Friday it was "a horrible tragedy." But he denied the PSC had done anything wrong.

The trouble was that Radtke had not paid a $128 gas bill in three months. He had been warned about it and had indicated he would pay. But he didn't.

The last time Radtke's heat was turned off was in June. Then, his brother, Wilbert, of Lewistown, Idaho, paid the bill. The brother says he told the PSC if there was ever any trouble again to let him know. The PSC said it has no record of that.

Didn't act

Wayne Schuete, the collections manager who ordered Radtke's heat turned off, said, "I was out of town over the weekend and when it got cold I was concerned about Mr. Radtke. But I didn't do anything.

"If he had called and complained it's possible we would have decided to turn the heat back on. But he idn't."

District Attorney Daniel Miron said, "The company had a record of prior payment from the brother in the last six months. They could have written to the guy before they shut the heat off in the dead of winter."

Wilbert Radtke said his brother was retired and "he was getting old and forgetful."

"But he was a good old guy," Radtke said. "It would have been more human for them to give him a gun and shoot him. At least it would have been fast.

"You should have seen that house. You should have seen how my brother scrambled around trying to get blankets to keep warm. You could just tell he was trying like hell to get some heat somewhere."

Set broken leg of Booth

Effort to clear name of Dr. Mudd continues

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The Oklahoma Legislature is debating a request to Congress to exonerate Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, the physician who set the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Abraham Lincoln, 108 years ago.

"This may appear frivolous but to the (Mudd) family it's still very serious," said State Rep. Bill Gooden.

"The good name of the Mudd family has suffered enough in the past century for the wrong and injustice done to their ancestor."

Mudd, a Virginia doctor, was convicted of conspiracy in the April 14, 1865 assassination of President Abraham Lincoln and sentenced to life in prison.

Mudd argued he was unaware of the assassination or of Booth's identity when he set the actor's leg, broken in a jump from the presidential box onto the Ford Theater stage following the shooting.

President Andrew Johnson pardoned Dr. Mudd after four years because of the physician's work among prisoners suffering from yellow fever.

The Oklahoma measure says although Mudd was pardoned "A pardon does not admit innocence but merely indicates forgiveness."

Gooden said he believes the expression, "your name is mud," can be traced to the highly emotional atmosphere at the time of the doctor's trial.

Gooden introduced the resolution at the request of Mrs. Harvey Brown, a Kingfisher, Okla., housewife whose grandmother's name was Mudd.

Gooden said the drive to clear the name of Mudd is headed by Dr. Richard A. Mudd, 72, of Saginaw, Mich., who has been working on the project for 50 years.

Kenneth Nance, an Oklahoma City representative, delayed consideration of the measure this week saying he needed time to "research to determine the man's innocence."

L.H. Bengston Jr., another Oklahoma City representative, suggested the name of Mrs. Mary E. Surratt be added to the requested declaration of innocence. Mrs. Surratt, who ran a boarding house where Booth lived, was hanged for her part in the conspiracy.

Seal finds his romances by commuting 40 miles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — L.P. Bonus wasn't being treated too well by the big bulls on the beach at home so he commuted to the islands outside the Golden Gate and found 200 unmarried female elephant seals.

Other young romantic male seals are catching on, commuting the 40 miles through the Pacific to the Farallones Islands. Now the rookery there is beginning to grow, helping to bring back the elephant seal, which in the 1890s was nearly extinct.

L.P., his name is painted on his back, isn't necessarily the father of all of the 14 pups born this month on the Farallones, but he is the first romantic commuter spotted by researchers stationed at the Point Reyes bird observatory.

As a 5-year-old, L.P. evidently wasn't quite mature enough to take on the big bull elephant seals controlling the herds in the Ano Nuevo rookery, about eight miles south of Santa Cruz.

So he took to commuting.

Observatory director John Small says L..P gets the credit for being the first young romantic bull elephant seal to make the 40-mile commute to the island. "Having a male hanging around regularly foreshadows the coming of a colony," he said.

L.P. was named and marked by scientists at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Researchers sneak up on the 4,000-pound beasts while they sleep and paint names on their backs with roller brushers. They say it doesn't hurt the seals and it makes them easier to track for study purposes.

Fancy footgear tripped him up

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Sergio Enrique Escobar Inostroza grabbed a briefcase containing nearly $6,000 from a construction firm employe who had just left a bank and fled down the street clattering on his six-inch-high heel shoes.

Escobar tripped on the fashionable footgear and fell. Passersby held him for police.

Preserves for whole family

The big trend in shooting preserves in America is to cater to the whole family, with the addition of fishing, archery, clay target shooting and nature trails, according to the National Shooting Sports Foundation.

Thomas Lambert

HEMET — Former Pomona resident Thomas Henry Lambert, 77, of Hemet died Thursday in the Hemet Valley Hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Lambert was born in New London, Conn., on Aug. 19, 1896, and was a Pomona resident from 1925 to 1969 when he moved to Hemet.

He was a member and past commander of the Charles P. Rowe American Legion Post in Pomona and a member of the First Baptist Church of Hemet and World War I Barracks 549 in Hemet. Mr. Lambert served with the Army during World War I.

He was employed at Convair Aircraft in Pomona before his retirement and had also owned a tire service business at one time.

Surviving are his widow, Nellie; a daughter, Mrs. Don Cude of Oklahoma; a son, Thomas E. of Colton; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Dimmitt of Newport Beach and Mrs. Lillian Dodd of Corona Del Mar; four grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Virgin Mortuary, Hemet. World War I Barracks 549, Hemet, will conduct graveside services in San Jacinto Valley Cemetery.

Hugo Schmid

MONTCLAIR — Hugo Schmid of 9760 Bolton Ave. died Thursday at Doctors' Hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Schmid was born Sept. 6, 1897, in Germany. He was a retired bricklayer. He had lived in Montclair 12 years.

Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth; a son, Herbert, of Desert Hot Springs; a sister, Mrs. Ida Takahashi of Liberty, Mo.; a sister and a brother in Germany; and two grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Draper Mortuary Chapel. Burial will be in Highland Memorial Park in New Berlin, Wis.

Walter W. Goss

POMONA — Walter W. Goss of 408 Gretchen Place died Friday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Mr. Goss was born Nov. 24, 1901, in East St. Louis, Ill. He came to California in 1960 and had been a resident of Pomona for the past five years. He was a retired employe of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad.

Besides his widow, Eleouise, he is survived by two sons, George W. of Pomona and James G. of Dupo, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Thelma Embrich of Dupo, Mrs. Betty Reeves of Belleville, Ill., Mrs. Dorothy Wood of Waynesville, Mo., and Mrs. Shirley Kent of East St. Louis, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Burris of Port Charlotte, Fla.; 19 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Shipment will be made to Dupo where services will be held in the Harold Dashner Funeral Home. Interment will be made in the Valhalla Cemetery, Belleville. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of local arrangements.

James K. Swanson

POMONA — James K. Swanson of 459 County Road died unexpectedly Wednesday at his home.

Mr. Swanson was born July 16, 1944, in Kent, Wash., and had lived in the Pomona area for the past 11 years. He attended Mt. San Antonio College, was active in 4-H for many years, and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Swanson of Bonita; two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Lamb of Imperial Beach and Miss Jane Swanson of San Diego; and his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret J. Neve also of San Diego.

Services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. in the First Baptist Church, National City. The Rev. Milo Wood, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in Glenn Abbey Memorial Park, Chula Vista.

Florence H. Barnhart

LA VERNE — Mrs. Florence H. Barnhart, wife of Rev. Earl Barnhart, of 2739 Hillcrest Drive, died Thursday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital after one week of illness.

Mrs. Barnhart was born Feb. 3, 1899 in Falls City, Nebr. She attended La Verne College and returned to La Verne in 1943 from Chico and had lived here since. She was a member of the Fellowship Church of The Brethren in La Verne.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Larry of Westminster; three daughters, Mrs. Lucile Hollinger of Norwood, Mo., Mrs. Bernice Metzger of Fountain Valley and Mrs. Rosella Brunet of Maywood; two brothers, Homer Kreps of Claremont and David Kreps of Brea; three sisters, Miss Eunice Kreps and Mrs. Esther Lemon, both of La Verne, and Mrs. Alice Mishler of Citrus Heights; 17 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the Brethren Hillcrest Chapel, La Verne. The Rev. Herbert L. Ruthrauff, pastor of the Fellowship Church of the Brethren, and the Rev. John R. Blough, of the Brethren Hillcrest homes will officiate. Private interment will be made in the Evergreen Cemetery, La Verne. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Brethren Hillcrest Homes Benevolent Fund, 2705 Mt. View Drive, La Verne 91750.

Montclair girl, 2, hit, killed by car

CHINO — A 2-year-old Montclair girl died early Saturday in Chino General Hospital of injuries sustained when she was hit by a car after wandering onto Vernon Avenue Friday afternoon.

Carol Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith of 5160 Bandera St., Montclair, was struck by a car driven by Elizabeth Beach of 11910 S. Benson Ave., Ontario.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Beach was driving south on Vernon Avenue near Clair Street when the child suddenly stepped into the car's path. The child had apparently toddled into the street to pick up a shoe, officers said.

The child was born Aug. 29, 1971 in Pomona. Besides her parents, she is survived by a brother, Michael, at home; and her grandmothers, Mrs. Ceile Smith of Montclair and Mrs. Geraldine Garrett of Chino.

A Mass of the Angels will be celebrated Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont.

CHAINS BREAK IN FREEDOM DANCE—Girls at Hamilton Elementary School, Pomona, perform a freedom dance during a Black Awareness assembly Thursday. From left, they are Grace Munford, Corliss McCowen, LaTonka Fowler, Tammy Kay, Jackie Jenkins and Darlene Hines. Black History Week will be observed in public schools this coming week.

Hamilton holds program

Schools to observe Black History Week

POMONA — Students and teachers at Hamilton Elementary School have prepared a series of Black Awareness programs in anticipation of Black History Week which will be observed this coming week in all public schools here.

The Hamilton children had their first programs Thursday and Friday. Additional programs are scheduled next Thursday and Friday.

These Black Awareness programs are directed and supervised by three faculty members, Endy L. Farrow, Seleta T. Johnson and Linda Sneed.

One highlight of last Thursday's program was the "African Alphabet," presented by Sharon L. Blake's combination class. These children, one at a time, explained "A is for Africa," "B is for beautiful," "E is for education," "F is for freedom," "K is for King, Martin Luther," "L is for love, brotherly," "M is for me, I'm somebody," and so on through the alphabet.

Four Pomona High School girls — Anita Stiger, Madeline Hodges, Angeles Rogers and Roberta Stiger—performed a rhythm dance for the Hamilton students.

Friday's seembly included "A Dream of Freedom" danced by Roger Bell, and songs and a history of spirituals.

Next Thursday there will be more dance and rhythm, and Johnny Soul will tell black stories in history.

On Friday, Afro fashions designed by Barbara Hodges and stitched by the students will be displayed. There will be poems, directed by Delsina Frey, and banjo music.

Kevin Davis, president of the Black Student Union at Ganesha High School, said highlights of the observance there would include the appearance of the Co-Real Artists Thursday at 9 a.m. in the gym. This is a music and drama group. It is scheduled to present "Life," a chronology of the black experience written by Genie Jackson and adapted from "Where Are We Going?" It will be told in poetry, prose, song and dance.

At noon, Harriet Marshall, a model whose photographs have appeared on the covers of Ebony and Vogue magazines, will speak on personal improvement. Her presentation is geared toward the black woman.

Davis said that other activities during the week would include a program of slides and literature on Africa by C. Russell Martin, supervisor of Afro-American programs at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut; an art exhibit by Al Wingfield and Ganesha students; a field trip; and a presentation on Langston Hughes.

Other BSU officers at Ganesha, serving with Davis, are Vickie William, vice president; Joyce Anderson, secretary; and Zephyr W. Owens, adviser.

GM's popular V-8 engine to meet clean air standard

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. revealed it has adapted its most popular V8 engine to meet 1975-76 clean-air standards without using the chemical smog-control device that will be on most cars next year.

The engine uses the stratified charge concept which Honda and Datsun of Japan say they have developed for the small engines. Their achievements had been dismissed earlier as unsuitable for the bigger engines needed to power U.S. cars.

However, even at its best, the 350-cubic-inch V-8 engine still cannot meet the 1977 standard for emissions of oxides of nitrogen. If the standards are frozen at the 1976 level, GM can develop the stratified charge engine for general use, Trevor O. Jones, director of advance product engineering, said.

GM engineers also revealed development of a 225-horsepower engine that can even meet the 1977 standards because of a new combustor concept that burns the fuel without developing a great deal of nitrogen oxides. The engine, however, has very poor fuel economy and much more development is needed.

Basically, the stratified charge engine is a version of the conventional piston engine. It has a different cylinder head and combustion chamber and allows automakers with huge investments in present power plants to adapt them.

A rich gasoline-air mixture is ignited in a prechamber which, in turn, ignites a much leaner mixture at a lower heat level, creating fewer oxides of nitrogen. The final cleanup is accomplished with an exhaust gas reactor mounted on the side of the engine.

The GM stratified charge engine requires the exhaust gas reactor, an additional valve, a prechamber, a complex carburetor and a complex mixture preparation system. But it does not require the catalytic converter, exhaust gas recirculation, air injection and high energy ignition system needed to meet 1975-76 standards with present engines.

In its tests on the 350-cubic inch engine. GM said it developed 1.7 grams per miles of nitrogen oxides, just below the 2.0 grams per mile allowed in 1976. But it cannot meet the 0.4 grams per mile required for 1977.

China attacks Confucius belief

HONG KONG (UPI) — Stepping up attacks on Confucius, currently China's No. I historical villain, the government said Friday the late Lin Piao tried to seize power and bring the country under Soviet domination before he died in a plot against Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Red Flag Magazine said in an article in its latest issue, broadcast Friday by the Hsinhua News Agency, that Lin used both Confucian doctrine and Soviet support in his power play. It described his attempt as an "idiot's daydream".

Lin, defense minister at the time, played a key role in the Cultural Revolution which ousted Liu Shao-chi as chairman (president) of the republic in 1966.

In 1969 Lin was elected vice chairman of the party and designated as "successor" to Mao in a new constitution adopted at the party's 9th National Congress.

He died in September of 1971 when a plane in which he was fleeing the country crashed in an Outer Mongolian desert at Undur Khan.

After his elevation in the party in 1969 Lin began citing Confucian classics about "restoring the rites" to convince his comrades that state affairs, disrupted during the Cultural Revolution, should be put in order and a new head of state appointed, the magazine said.

"In 1970, Lin Piao resisted Chairman Mao's instructions again and again and turned out his anti-party political program," the article said.

"He was desperately anxious to become 'head of state' and schemed to usurp party leadership and seize state power. Following that, he launched an abortive counter-revolutionary coup d'Etat at the second plenary session of the 9th National Congress of the Communist Party."

"He aimed to climb onto a throne as a vassal-king under the 'nuclear umbrella' of his master, the Soviet revisionists, but crashed to his death in the desert. Holding the broken (Confucian) banner of 'restraining onself and restoring the rites', he went to meet Confucius..."

"If the plot of Lin Piao, the super-spy, had succeeded, the beautiful land of China would have been trampled upon by the tanks of Soviet Revisionism, the social-imperialist gangsters would have run amuck in China, and the Chinese people would have been subjugated and enslaved," the article said.

The article fitted into the pattern of a large-scale anti-Confucius and anti-Lin campaign that has been sweeping the nation in recent weeks. Observers speculate it may become a new cultural revolution.

Confucius for 2,500 years has been the model of an intellectual to the Chinese. But the stress on education in Confucian philosophy has been attacked as running counter to Mao's precepts that the proletarian viewpoint is essential to a proper outlook.

Party's over for 'hostess with mostess'

WASHINGON (UPI) — The party's over.

An ailing Perle Mesta, Washington's "Hostess with the Mostest" for two decades, put on dark glasses one day this week and left town under an assumed name—the better to go gracefully—to take up retirement with oil-rich relatives in Oklahoma, a family member disclosed Friday.

By this account, the flamboyant hostess of 'Call Me Madame" movie fame got away from it all in just the style she wanted—unrecognized in her wheel chair, and without a tear. A commercial airliner took her to Oklahoma City Wednesday.

'We just tried not to make a reality of her leaving," Mrs. Mesta's niece, Mrs. Lewis N. Ellis, said Friday.

"We knew it would be an emotional wrench. There were no tears.

"I've never heard her complain. She doesn't give up. I know she'll come back for visits now and then."

Mrs. Mesta, who blossomed as the queen of political society salons at the time of Harry S Truman's presidency, broke her hip 18 months ago and has since been confined to a wheelchair in her elegant Sheraton Park Hotel Suite.

That was where she dispensed the last of her champagne and glitter at small luncheons and soirees for friends. But the final leave-taking was altogether different.

Mrs. Ellis said she read Mrs. Mesta, a devout Christian Scientist, a final Christian Science lesson on "spirit" before they departed for the plane Wednesday morning. She said they had had such a reading every morning during Mrs. Mesta's convalescent period.

Mrs. Mesta, believed to be in her 80s although she keeps that information to herself, never smoked or drank at the lavish bashes she threw over the years. Her guests did the revelling, Perle the presiding.

Perle Mesta, born in Sturgis, Mich., grabbed her "Hostess with the Mostest" title in the Washington salon world in 1948 when she raised major funds for Truman's seemingly hopeless presidential campaign against Thomas E. Dewey—and Truman won.
sc

He appointed her ambassadress to Luxembourg, and while many deplored the appointment and her fun-and-games style, she attracted headlines and filled gossip columns with entertaining that included both royalty and homesick American GIs on the guest list.

Energy crisis spurs British oil boom

LONDON (UPI) — The mournful strains of a Scottish nationalist ballad mingle these days with the shattering sound of construction crews building giant oil rigs along the bonnie banks of Scotland.

"Scotland is waiting, North Sea waves breaking

"Oil rigs are taking the wealth from our shores."

The ballad, sung by conservationists and Scots protesting exploitation of the North Sea by American and British oil companies, laments the day when oil gushed forth from a lone wildcat well off Aberdeen on a stormy October day in 1970.

So unlikely was the location that more than three years later Britons and continental Europeans, long accustomed to drawing 80 per cent of their oil needs from the Middle East, are only now beginning to grasp the idea of an oil boom on their very doorstep.

The oil companies, urged on by the world energy crisis and the prospects of huge profits, are redoubling efforts to transform the North Sea shores into what oil men say will be the "Texas of Europe."

Vast oil basin

Geologists estimate that beneath the North Sea lies a vast basin of oil with commercially recoverable reserves of at least 1 billion tons, and probably much more.

Peter Odell, professor of economic geography at the Netherlands School of Economics, estimates that by 1985 the North Sea will supply at least 44 per cent of western Europe's total energy needs, making Europe far less vulnerable to the dictates of Arab states prepared to use oil as a political weapon.

The British sector alone, according to government estimates, is expected to yield an annual 103 million tons by 1980, rendering Britain nearly selfsufficient.

The first piped oil from the British sector is expected to reach shore early next year at Cruden Bay, north of Aberdeen, from British Petroleum's Forties field, where the sector's first commercial deposits were discovered in 1970.

Smaller quantities of oil will probably start coming ashore by tanker later this year.

Foreign dominance

The smaller Norwegian sector, where the first North Sea oil was discovered in 1968, is already providing Norway with more than 40,000 barrels a day.

By 1980, the Norwegian sector is expected to provide between 50 and 70 million tons annually, enough to supply Norway's needs and 42-62 million tons to other European countries.

American and other foreign-owned oil companies hold about 58 per cent of the exploration and production licenses granted by the British government since 1970, with the rest allocated to British companies.

Such foreign dominance, the relatively modest 12½ per cent royalty the government says it will charge on production oil and liberal tax concessions for companies operating in the North Sea, have brought the government under fire from a parliamentary watchdog committee and Scottish nationalists.

Spurred by such incentives and potentially big profits, the oil companies and firms providing support facilities on shore are pumping about 300 million pounds ($700 million) annually into Scotland, one of Europe's poorest regions.

New jobs

The oil boom is expected to create 100,000 new jobs in Scotland over the next 10 years. More than 10,000 men are already employed in North Sea jobs, including 2,000 on offshore rigs.

Much of the money is swallowed up by the high cost of building and operating giant rigs lashed frequently by 100 mile-an-hour winds and 70 foot waves.

"Weather conditions out here are rougher than anything I have ever seen," said Carter Hughes, a veteran oilman from Tulsa, Okla., supervising Occidental Petroleum's Ocean Victory exploration rig off the Scottish coast.

At least 20 persons have been killed so far in the search for North Sea oil. A Mobil rig operating off the Orkney Islands sank during a recent gale shortly after its 56-man crew was evacuated by helicopter.

On shore, the gladed glens and copper-green lochs of the Scottish Highlands and lowlands that once echoed to the wail of bagpipes now ring with the sound of construction crews building steel and concrete production rigs needed to get the oil flowing in commercial quantities.

Conservationists worried

In the headlong rush for oil, conservationists fear the region's scenic beauty will be spoiled, sea birds will be driven from nesting grounds, oil spillage will blacken beaches.

On Scotland's west coast, conservationists are fighting plans to establish a huge rig-building yard on the banks of Loch Carron near the village of Drumbuie, where life among the handful of white-washed crofts has remained virtually unchanged down through the centuries.

The Chicago Bridge and Iron Co., abandoned plans to build a rig yard on the scenic shores of Dunnet Bay in the Highlands, although a government inquiry ruled against conservationists who opposed the project.

Plans to transform the Shetlands Islands, off Scotland's northern tip, into a maland's northern tip, into a major oil firm base have met with strong opposition from many of the 17,000 islanders.

"We prefer to remain uncivilized and remote," said Edward Bruce, a Shetland barber. "You canna buy peace. You canna buy quiet. We would be far better off without these oil people."

Reception hostile

Molly Murray Threipland, a housewife from Yankton, S.D., who with her Scottish cattlebreeder husband helped lead the fight against the Dunnet Bay project, says:

"It will be monstrous if the government lets the oil companies spoil the beauty of Scotland."

In areas where rig-building firms have been allowed to operate, the reception from local residents has been generally hostile.

An American firm operating a yard at Nigg Bay, north of Aberdeen, has been forced to house its 700-man work force on board two old Greek liners anchored in Cromarty Firth because local authorities have refused permission for new housing in the area.

"There are no recreational facilities on board and the men spend a lot of their time drinking and brawling," a worker billeted on one of the ships said.

Prices soarding

In Aberdeen, base for most firms operating in the North Sea, the oil boom has sent real estate and other prices soaring.

American oilmen sporting ten gallon hats and cowboy boots saunter along Abendeen's sidewalks. A men's underwear shop catering to Americans flies the Stars and Stripes. The city's 1,000-strong American community has established its own school and country club, giving rise to civic criticism that the Americans should mix more with the local population.

Surveying the bustle of a rig yard from a heath-clad hillside near Inverness, Jock McTavish, a local game warden, shook his head sadly and said:

"Maybe it's a wee price to pay for progress, but I canna stop hoping things would stay as they were."

Bottled water big business in Europe

PARIS (UPI) — It's unthinkable to many people in the United States, England or Scandinavia to buy water. It comes free right out of the faucet.

Not so in continental Europe where bottled mineral water has boomed in recent years to a billlion dollar business.

From Russians drinking bubbly Narzan to farmers swearing by Agua de Luso in Portugal, Europeans pay for bottled water in restaurants (just try to get free tap water) or take it home in bottles from food stores.

It is quite safe to drink water out of European faucets. But Europeans don't like the taste of tap water laced with chlorine. The rate of bottled water drinkers in Spain, for example, has soared in recent years in direct proportion to the increasing addition of chlorine to tap water.

Another reason why 10.6 billion quarts of water were sold in Western Europe alone last year was health. According to the ads showing the cool Alps or slender girls, mineral water soothes every single part of your body.

Water cure-all

Yugoslavs swear sexual potency is all yours if you drink magnesium-loaded Mushka Water that bubbles out of a mountain spring near the Kladanj magnesium mine.

Every self-respecting French citizen has a "crise de foie" or liver trouble from eating all that good food and the way to calm it is to drink Vichy, say the ads.

Italy's water companies —27 in Rome alone —claim their products are insurance against gout and indigestion. At Fiuggi a collection of kidney stones allegedly removed by Fiuggi mineral water is on display. Italian doctors prescribe mineral water to reduce high blood pressure and the bottle labels are signed by various professori (although Fiuggi's bears a testimonial signed by Michelangelo).

Soviets with stomach problems drink Yessentni while those with ailing kidneys swear by Naftusaya.

The joys of bottled water do not stop with drinking. French women buy mineral water in spray cans for face washing — who would use tap water that leaves a crust like cement in the sink?

Strict French laws

Bulgarians irrigate hothouses with mineral water. The French give it to asthmatic race horses. Spain's matador El Cordobes soaks his cape in mineral water to make it heavier.

The biggest producers and consumers of mineral water are the French. France abounds with underground natural mineral springs and centuries ago somebody got an idea: bottle it. The first recorded law on mineral water came when Henry IV named supervisors for the mineral water business in May, 1603.

"French laws are strict for water," said Maxime Skimazi, secretary general of the Mineral Water Producers' Association. "Mineral spirngs are protected from pollution. Plastic used for bottles is tested."

Plastic bottles helped the water boom because they are easier to carry home, according to Miss Skimazi.

Complaints surface

Complaints about bottled water surface occasionally. A scandal broke in Spain when one brand turned out not to come from a spring. The Lorraine Consumers' Union of France recently charged that five French brands were "too strong in sodium and sulfates." The Hygiene Institute of Gelsenkirchen, Germany, pronounced 11 still mineral waters unfit to drink because they "become alive with bacteria in storage." French television has pronounced all mineral waters dangerous.

Skimazi insists, "Mineral water is a pure, natural product. The bacteria in it are good bacteria. And the underground springs are not in danger of running out like oil. They are constantly replenished by rainfall."

Not long ago a Soviet official just back from his first visit to New York was asked by an American friend in Moscow what astounded him most about the United States.

"Waitresses serve you a glass of water the minute you sit down," he marvelled. "Imagine, free water!"

Assembly kills mandatory seat belt buckling

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly today rejected a bill requiring California motorists to buckle their seat belts or face a $25 fine for failing to do so.

Assemblyman W. Don MacGilliray, R-Santa Barbara, insisted the requirement would greatly reduce traffic deaths and said half the persons killed last year in United States automobile crashes would have survived if they had worn seatbelts.

But other argued motorists should have the choice of whether to buckle up or not. The bill (AB1262) was defeated on a 28-34 vote.

"I don't want to be fettered by mechanical contrivances," argued Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento. "If I am convinced it is a good idea, I'll wear it. But if not, I don't want to be forced to put the darn thing on."

Bayh believes papers belong to the public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has urged Congress to require all official papers of an elected federal official to be turned over to the National Archives within 180 days after he leaves office.

Bayh said a bill he introduced recently would "resolve the question of who owns the public papers of presidents, vice presidents and members of Congress."

He said that while the law no longer allows tax deductions such as President Nixon claimed for giving his vice-presidential papers to the archives, the ownership of such documents has not yet been resolved. Bayh contends the papers of elected public officials belong to the public.

Bill seeks $4 billion for jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to authorize $4 billion for emergency public service jobs —to be automatically released if unemployment exceeds 6 per cent—has been introduced by Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Javits, in a Senate statement, said his bill would give Congress itself the power to release funds from the Emergency Employment Assistance Fund upon a congressional determination that public jobs were needed.

"I do not believe that Congress can simply leave this job to the administration," Javits said.

"The President, for example, may have his own criteria about the need for jobs, but we should be allowed to have ours, too," he said.

The New York Republican said his bill contained a "fail-safe" provision which would release the funds automatically in the event the unemployment rate went beyond 6 per cent for any three consecutive months.

The bill would establish an emergency employment assistance fund in the Treasury and would authorize $4 billion for the current fiscal year and fiscal year 1975.

Javits said the money would provide approximately 500,000 jobs which would "cover one-tenth of all those unemployed if we begin to be in a recession."

Men's wear

A revolution in socks

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — For years the hosiery industry has tried to sell men on the idea of wearing livelier socks and for years men have resisted, preferring solid black, navy blue or brown. The industry is beginning to win and predicts that 20 to 35 per cent of spring hosiery will be in patterns.

The youth of America, the blue jean generation, already has started wearing wild and kicky socks with their wild and kicky high-heeled shoes or their faded sneakers, but the prediction now is that come spring the more mature man will take a timid step toward pattern and color.

Such famous designers as John Weitz have been producing lively patterns for the past five or six years, and although the fashion-conscious men snapped them up, the great silent majority stayed with the solids, perhaps wearing an argyle on weekends since they could remember them from their childhood.

The manufacturers are turning out vibrant plaids, checks and argyles and in bright combinations such as deep green, rust and beige, but they also are knitting some muted designs that are both new and stylish —simple tone-on-tones or solids with knit-in texture like ribbing suitable for the most conservative banker.

The step above that leads to lighter colors for spring with small neat patterns and tidy checks in summer weight blends and pastel colors that coordinate with pastel shirts, and all faintly reminiscent of the styles of the 1920s and 1930s.

As a matter of fact an organization called The Color Association of the United States has teamed up with the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers to produce socks that team up with other fashion accessories, either matching or contrasting.

A man can now match his trousers, sweater, shirt or jacket in a monochrome effect or to match such items as sweater and socks, another reminder of the roaring 20s. Or he can use bright-colored and patterned socks as an effective fashion accent to an otherwise drab-looking outfit.

And since the Color Association is pretty excited about the whole prospect it has come up with some fancy names for the new colors —such as Filbert Brown, Sporto Vino and Patrol Navy to Red Spark, High Volt last three undoubtedly in-Green and Mazda Gold, the spired by thoughts of the energy crisis.

There are also a few builtins to improve comfort. If you walk a lot in these short-fall gasoline days there are socks with cushion soles made of extra layers of yarn to cushion feet from hard sidewalks and rocky trails. There are also hose with reinforced stretch yarn to give mild support to the leg or ankle.

Travel topics

A busy trip to Leningrad

LENINGRAD, USSR (UPI) — They don't pull in the streets at night in Leningrad but if you should be out late, be careful — you might have to swim if you're in a hurry.

For they raise the bridges across the Neva Riva, which divides the city, for Soviet warships and other water traffic between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. and you could get caught on the wrong side.

And if you're driving, remember to remove the windshield wipers and outside mirror if you have to leave the car unattended for a while. They are "collectors items" and hard to replace.

Individually, Russians can be warm and friendly. Collectively, they can be grim and suspicious.

Window on Europe

These tidbits of information were provided by fellowpassengers aboard the Finnish cruiseship SS Bore III who had visited Leningrad before. The Bore operates visa-free cruises between Helsinki and Leningrad from May to October.

It was my first visit and I didn't have time to check out the accuracy of the tips during our busy two-day stay. But I did find much of interest in this historic city which was one of the most brilliant capitals of the world under the Czars.

Peter the Great founded the city he called St. Petersburg at the easternmost tip of the Gulf of Finland in 1703 as a "window looking on Europe" —a Europe he admired greatly for its artistic and cultural achievements.

And despite wars, reolutions and other calamities, the city, whose name was changed first to Petrograd and then to Leningrad, is still an outstanding center of art and culture.

Paintings fill museum

Many of its ornate palaces, monumental cathedrals and elegant museums were destroyed by the Nazis during the nearly three years siege in World War II. But the Soviet authorities have since restored most of them.

They stand in sharp contrast to the austere giant box-shaped apartment complexes and other post-revolutionary buildings in this city of nearly 4 million population.

Most popular with foreign visitors as well as Russians is the Winter Palace or Hermitage which houses one of the world's greatest collections of art treasures —equal if not superior to the Louvre in Paris.

There are more than 2 million paintings, sculptures and other works of art scattered through the six buildings which comprise the musuem. And the palace rooms themselves with their furnishings and decorations are almost as fascinating.

Stone-studded map

We had four hours, spent mostly hurrying through poorly lighted rooms in the West European section hung with priceless works by Michelangelo and Titian, Rembrandt and Rubens, El Greco and Murillo, Gauguin and Picasso and other old and contemporary masters.

We did manage to get a quick look also at some of the exhibits in the Russian culture section —including a huge map of the Soviet Union made of precious stones in the Large Throne Room and the engraved silver tomb of Prince Nevesky.

Other outstanding attractions include the Russian Museum, featuring icons and other works of Russian artists over the past 1,000 years, St. Isaac Cathedral with its 330-foot high golden dome, now a museum of religion; the fortress of St. Peter and Paul; Decembrist Square and Palace Square, rich in revolutionary memories; and the cruiser Aurora which fired the first shot in the 1917 Revolution.

Gas allotments to dealers should be spaced--Brown

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., said Tuesday the state should act to smooth out the gasoline shortage that strikes as dealers run out of their allocations at the end of the month.

"The major oil companies often deliver the bulk of a dealer's monthly allotment at the beginning of each month rather than pacing the allotment smoothly over the entire period," said Brown, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"Because of this, many stations are running short of supplies by the end of the month and they will soon begin running out of gasoline toward the end of each month," he said, talking to labor leaders at his campaign headquarters.

He cited the long lines at gasoline stations in the East in the last week of the month and said "this situation will occur here in California within the next few months unless immediate state action is taken to prevent it."

He proposed:

—A meeting between state officials and oil company executives "smooth out" deliveries throughout the month.

—A law to protect small dealers from being "short-changed" by oil companies giving preference to larger dealers.

—A ban on station owners giving special treatment to "favorite" customers at the expense of the general public.

—Hoisting colored flags over gas stations coded to tell to passing drivers whether or not the station is out of gas.

Addressing a seminar of city and county clerks, Brown told them the state's new election laws "are among the toughest in the nation, but they will be meaningless pieces of paper unless election officials and law enforcement agencies throughout California take a tough stand and fully prosecute guilty persons.

"Local officials must now carefully examine the statements filed under these laws to insure full compliance," Brown said.

He urged "the fullest prosecution of persons who violate" laws requiring full campaign fund disclosure and barring financial holdings hat conflict with official duties.

Fuel-saving ideas for airlines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Airlines do have some hope of reducing fuel consumption other than by cutting flights. the Air Transport Association says.

Reduced speeds, flying at optimum altitudes will save fuel. The association says much fuel can be saved if the Federal Aviation Administration curbs air traffic control delays which keep airliner standing on runways with their engines running.

'Incurious British'

'Shiekh' visits London Jewish deli in sham

LONDON (UPI) — The Arab sheikh's first stop was Cohen's Smoked Salmon Ltd., in London's most Jewish neighborhood. He bought some salmon and the reaction was as if Arabs drop in all the time.

By the time it was over, policemen and doormen were all ready to bow him into No. 10 Downing Street, the official residence of Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The whole idea was to dress up in a burnoose at the height of the oil crisis and see what the public's reaction would be to an Arab sheikh going here and there in London.

But little happened, "Sheikh" Alan Coren wrote in Punch, the humor magazine which commissioned his exploit.

Although he was given access to No. 10 Downing Street on the strength of his disguise alone his appearance did manage to bring the Stock Exchange to a momentary halt, with every broker on the floor crowding around to shout up at him "Oil! Oil! Oil!" and "Out! Out! Out!"

"I did the town," Coren wrote. "And it has to be reported that the average Englishman is a polite, generous, fairly incurious soul....

"He is also incredibly gullible. One has only to appear plausible to be plauded."

As for his visit to the Jewish salmon store in Golders Green district, Coren said, "Of the thirty-odd people in the shop, perhaps half a dozen gave me a second glance."

A policeman saluted his borrowed Rolls-Royce, removed the barricades at Downing Street and waved him up to the prime minister's residence. No questions were asked.

"Two constables stepped forward...they saluted, wordless. The chauffeur opened my door, I got out, and before I could stop him one of the policemen pressed the magic doorbell, the door opened, and a footman appeared to usher me in.

"It was at this point that I decided enough was enough," Coren said.

Yugoslavia may be 1st East European nation with hard currency

By BARRY WATERS

BELGRADE (UPI) — One of the first lessons learned by the Western traveller in Eastern Europe is that he can't take the local currency with him when he leaves for home and can't change any of it back into Western money.

For the visitor to Yugoslavia this problem could be over in 1974 as the nation becomes the first Eastern European state with a convertible or so-called hard currency.

Official sources said the government plans to make the dinar convertible by the end of this year in line with the current five-year plan which provides for convertibility by the end of 1975.

The only factor which could hold up this progress toward convertibility is a financial recession caused by the unstable world economic situation. Such a domestic recession caused the government to shelve its intentions to make the dinar convertible in 1970 as proposed in the economic reform plan of 1965.

Branko Colanovic, governor of the National Bank of Yugoslavia, said: "After a good start to the 1965 reforms we had a short-lived recession, then a serious inflation as well as a large foreign trade deficit. So the question of convertibility became a secondary priority. But since 1971 we have achieved a large turnover in the economy and the question of convertibility has again become an issue of the moment."

The nation is currently battling hard against a 20 per cent inflation rate and insufficient production, but the economy is in better shape than it has been for some years. At the end of 1973 foreign exchange reserves totalled $1.7 billion and invisible earnings including tourism and money sent home by migrant workers more than made up for a trade deficit.

On foreign exchange markets the dinar is already close to being a convertible currency.

A Western economic analyst in Belgrade said: "Although there is no obligation on the part of central banks in the West to support the dinar, the Yugoslav currency has been fluctuating at within 3-5 per cent of the price you could expect if it was supported. That means it's pretty solid."

Unlike some other Eastern European nations there is no black market in Yugoslavia for Western currency. The pay packets Yugoslav migrant workers sent home from the West made Western currency easy to come by in Yugoslavia.

In order to become fully convertible the dinar has to fulfill five conditions laid down by the International Monetary Fund (IMF)—a stable domestic economy, a healthy balance of payments, strong enough foreign currency reserves to pay for imports within three to five months, no foreign currency restrictions in current payments and abolition of clearing system payments when dealing with IMF members.

Diplomatic experts said that though the Yugoslav economy could not yet be considered stable, neither could the economies of several IMF members with convertible currencies. As to the other conditions none present any real problem provided the country goes ahead with plans to loosen controls on foreign currency payments.

Turkey cooked while en route

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If the turkey that someone mailed to somebody in the Mar-Vista neighborhood ever reaches its destination, the recipient will not have to cook it, postal inspectors said today.

The turkey was part of a truckload of mail that mysteriously burst into flames recently as it was being driven to a branch post office, the inspectors said. Hundreds of first class letters and parcel post packages went up in smoke.

Among the ashes, the inspectors said, was the very well done carcass of a turkey, a melted glob that was once a radio and charred pages from a Japanese newspaper. The post office is trying to read the burned addresses to determine who gets what ashes, inspectors said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1972, the American Kennel Club registered a record 1,101,943 pure-bred dogs, of 120 different breeds, The World Almanac says. The most popular breeds were: poodles, 218,899; German shepherds, 101,399; beagles, 57,050; dachshunds, 55,149; Irish setters, 43,707; miniature schnauzers, 43,280; St. Bernards, 35,559; Labrador retrievers, 32,251; collies 28,459; and doberman pinschers, 27,767.

Phillips rolls back prices on oil products

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) — Phillips Petroleum Co. has announced a price rollback on all major petroleum products in its marketing territory.

Phillips marketing Vice President G.J. Morrison said wholesale gasoline prices would be reduced 1.8 cents a gallon, heating oils one-half cent, diesel fuel one-half cent and liquefied petroleum gas 1.5 cents effective today.

An accompanying 1.8 cent per gallon reduction in retail gasoline prices at Phillips operated stations also will go into effect.

Morrison said the new prices reflected government price formula levels and were possible because of reduced quantities of high priced foreign crude used by Philips' refineries, lower purchases of high cost finished petroleum products and the recovery of prior crude oil and finished product cost increases.

Rachmaninoff centenary is year of recorded treasure

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

NEW YORK (UPI) — For Sergei Rachmaninoff, his self doubts would have been vanquished could he have seen the outpouring of records of his music in 1973, the centenary year of his birth.

The most ambitious and welcome project of all in a year full of Rachmaninoff recordings is the issuing by RCA of almost every known recording of Rachmaninoff performing his own and others' music as a pianist and conductor.

These five albums of his performances repesent the first integral collection by any recording company of the complete recordings of a Classical artist, the one who extended the great Romantic tradition into our own century.

Signs With Edison

Rachmaninoff was first of all a composer, an artistocrat who was born and grew to nearly middle age in the Russia of the Czars.

The October revolution which brought the Bolsheviks to power in 1917 was the end of his world. But he was also one of the greatest of pianists, and coming to the United States at the age of 45, that is how he earned his living.

First he signed up with the Edison company and then with Victor, which RCA took over in 1929. Except for some piano rolls, the five albums of three records each now being issued represent everything he ever recorded.

Vol. I (ARM 3-0260) includes the acoustic recordings made for the old Edison company between the years of 1919 and 1924. The sound is sometimes poor but enough it there.

Historic project

Vol. II (ARM 3-0261) are electrical recordings of his own transcriptions, original solo works, Russian piano music and other post-classical selections in which the sound, of course, is much better.

That is as much as I have heard, but Vol. III contains Romantic piano solos including previously unissued performances of Chopin's A-minor Mazurka and A-flat Ballade. In all, the whole series contain a number of previously unpublished Rachmaninoff recordings.

Vol. IV contains recordings of Rachmaninoff as accompanist and conductor, and Vol. V his own performances of his four piano concertos and the Paganini Rhapsody.

Choir masterpieces

A notable Rachmaninoff recording is an Angel-Melodiya two-record set (SRB-4124) of his Vespers, OP. 37, an addition to the current catalogue.

This is Rachmaninoff's liturgical masterpiece, written for the Moscow Synod Choir in 1915. Now we hear its magic come to us in the voices of the U.S.S.R. Russian Chorus under Aleksander Sveshnikov — an artistic reconciliation, at least, of the new Russia with the old.

Among other Rachmaninoff records still piled on my desk are:

— Preludes from Opus 23 and 32 by Sviatoslav Richter (Angel-Melodiya SR-40235) — The famous Soviet pianist in an excellent performance.

— Rachmaninoff's Complete Piano Concertos played by Agustin Anievas with the New Philharmonia Orchestra (Angel SCB-3801).

— Piano Concerto No. 3 played by Rafael Orozco with the Royal Philharmonic Orchesta (Philips 6500 540).

Before the centenary year is out, there will be others.

For water systems

Shortage of chlorine may hit some cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Environmental Protection Agency official said Tuesday some municipalities will be hit this year by a shortage of chlorine to purify drinking water, but that the supply should improve in 1975.

Deputy Administrator John T. Rhett urged approval of legislation giving the government standby authority to impose a mandatory allocation system on the industry "to cope with serious shortage situations if such should develop during 1974."

Rhett told a Senate Commerce subcommittee that chlorine was forecast "to be in short supply throughout most of 1974 if current economic conditions continue."

But he added the shortage "will potentially affect only some fraction of these users, since many producers have chosen to continue to provide supplies in spite of the shortage."

Rhett said, however, that EPA projections showed that "by early 1975 the chlorine shortage should be over."

The manager of the Denver Water Department said he has had difficulty obtaining an adequate supply of chlorine and warned that the health of "literally millions of ... Americans is threatened unless immediate action is taken" on a mandatory allocation bill.

J. L. Ogilvie said that municipal water utilities throughout the country "continue to obtain inadequate supplies of chlorine on a hit and miss basis, sometimes obtaining additional supplies only days before running out completely."

Rhett said EPA surveys showed that as of a week ago at least 24 municipal water treatment facilities were down to a 1 to 10 day supply of chlorine and that eight waste treatment facilities were experiencing outages.

Interest rate on Cal-Vet loans upped

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Veterans Affairs has announced an increase in the interest rate on Cal-Vet farm and home loans from 4 ½ to 4 ¾ per cent subject to approval by the Veterans Finance Committee.

Veterans Affairs Director Frank D. Nicol Tuesday said the "current value of money" and "bond market conditions" are behind the proposed increase.

Gls buy up Texas land

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — More than 43,000 armed forces veterans have purchased 3,359,367 acres of land in Texas since 1949 when the state set up a special program to help former soldiers.

The state has invested $387,417,446 in loans to veterans under the program, which operates at no cost to the taxpayer.

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

1 of every 4 autos flunks CHP smog-emission test

CLAREMONT — Has your car got "bad breath"?

If so, you had better correct this problem before it flunks a California Highway Patrol vehicle inspection. Officers report an average of one of every four vehicles passing through the inspection lanes is guilty of excessive exhaust emissions.

Many times, corrective measures include only a basic tune-up with new sparkplugs, points and carburetor and timing adjustments.

Some vehicles, however, may require more extensive "surgery" such as replacing valves inside the engine. A recent study showed the average cost for corrective repairs was $32.12.

Officers are equipped with precision measuring devices to determine emissions being passed through the car's exhaust system.

These machines, costing $3,000 each, are called smog analyzers. By inserting a small tubing inside the exhaust pipe, the analayzer gives readings on the amount of hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide being emitted. Both vehicle inspection teams operating from the Claremont office have been equipped with these machines for the past three months.

"This is a part of a statewide program designed to reduce pollutants getting into the air," said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander.

"As we all know, vehicles are our biggest smog producers. These analyzers are a move in the right direction in clearing the air."

Reducing vehicle emissions will take a long time since there are many vehicles on the roads with varying degrees of smog controls, he added. "But anything we do now will have a long-term impact."

Jack Brown, the inspection team's automotive specialist, said 90 per cent of the motorists whose cars flunk the analyzers don't realize they have a problem. "Those most surprised are those with new cars. They feel that with all the smog control devices mounted on their engines there should be no emissions."

Brown praised the new smog control devices as doing an excellent job in removing smog pollutants. "The new model cars may not get good gas mileage but the engines are burning all the gasoline rather than pushing it through the exhaust system.

"They are not yet smog free, but they are getting close," he added.

Brown said those cars built from 1970 which are in good operating condition may have an emission of one-half per cent of carbon monoxide and 100 parts per million of hydrocarbon.

This compares to the older model cars—built from 1955 through 1969—which have an average of four or five per cent carbon monoxide and 500 parts per million of hydrocarbon.

The highway patrol started the smog control program last year. The analyzers were initially assigned to inspection teams in metropolitan areas.

"These are now being extended to the outlying areas," said Jones. "The goal is to check 1.5 million vehicles this year." Of these, officials estimated that 351,000, or 23 per cent, will be in violation and require repairs.

In an effort to meet this goal, smog analyzers were recently issued to 43 additional inspection teams. This increases to 71 the number of teams so equipped.

Before operating the analyzyers, inspectors must undergo a four-hour training period at the manufacturer's plant in Maywood, said Jones.

CARL H. LORBEER

Cemetery group names Lorbeer to eighth term

POMONA — Carl H. Lorbeer was elected recently to his eighth term as president of the Pomona Cemetery Association. He also was re-elected board chairman of the endowment care fund.

Also re-elected at the association's annual meeting were C. R. Goff, first vice president; Gaius L. Keiser, second vice president; Sam C. Gist, assistant secretary; Robert S. Hickson, director-trustee; and Robert J. Ranck, secretary-treasurer.

Eugene C. Ballman was retained as auditor and Hickson as attorney.

Ranck, who has served the cemetery for 10 years, was reappointed manager for his seventh term.

The association's annual report, presented at the meeting, showed the cemetery had revenues of $217,000 last year, and expenditures of $203,000. Surplus revenue is retained for expansion and improvement of the cemetery, said Ranck.

The cemetery recorded 884 services in 1973, of which 385 were ground burials, 201 crypt entombments, 10 niche placements and 288 cremations.

Pomona renewal agency to ponder big downtown commercial project

POMONA — The City Council, acting as the Community Redevelopment Agency, Monday night will consider an agreement giving the Spanish-Speaking Management and Construction Corp. a 180-day exclusive right of development for some 60 acres in the downtown area.

Fred Sharp, the agency's executive director, said the corporation is exploring the possibility of an international commercial, cultural, trade and recreation center in Pomona.

The area under consideraton is bounded by White, Holt, Towne avenues and 1st Street with an additional area south from First to 3rd Street between Park and Garey avenues.

Sharp said the 180 days would permit the corporation, headed by Rudy V. Linan, to make market analyses and other studies to determine the feasibility of creating an International Village in the downtown area.

Other matters included in the agenda for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Staff report on funds available for a library branch.

—Issuance of a proclamation designating Feb. 17 to 23 as National Engineers Week.

—Presentation of service pins to seven city employes.

—Final reading of an ordinance rezoning 1295 E. Fourth St.

—First and only reading of an ordinance submitting to the electors an amendment to the City Charter to change the date of municipal primary elections to conform to the recently changed school election date.

—First reading of an ordinance on the selection of city employes.

—Resolution authorizing an agrement with the Pomona Valley Quarter Midget Racing Association for use of water department property at 1776 E. 1st St.

—Resolution determining that the public interest and necessity require easements upon certain real property for reservoir and water line purposes.

—Staff report on grading and erosion control in the Phillips Ranch area by the Pardee Construction Co.

—Claim for damages filed against the city by Linda Lee Hunt.

Kaiser fined $3,600 in air pollution case

FONTANA — The Kaiser Steel plant here has been fined $3,600 for 24 alleged violations of air pollution acts discovered by the San Bernardino County Air Pollution Control District between June 23 and Dec. 2, 1973.

The fine was levied against the steel corporation following a recent plea bargaining session in Fontana Valley Municipal Court between San Bernardino County counsel's representatives and legal representatives for the company.

The complaint citations were issued because of smoke violations from the sinter plant stack, open hearth furnace stacks, coke oven doors and standpipes, blue vacuum vents, blast furnace stack and casthouses, scrap cutting operations, and soaking pit stacks.

It was agreed that Kaiser Steel would enter a plea of nolo contendre (no contest), to 24 cases and that the remaining 23 cases would be dismissed. The company was fined $120 plus $30 penalty on each of the 24 cases for the $3,600 total.

The violations were found by the APCD despite the millions of dollars spent by the large steel company to reduce air pollutants in the past five or six years.

YMCA hits 33% of goal in first campaign week

POMONA — The Pomona Valley YMCA has reported that over $33,000 was raised during the first week of the organization's annual membership and fund-raising drive.

A breakdown of the figures showed that the $7,064 had been raised for the metropolitan staff, $10,861 for the central branch, $2,700 for the Diamond Bar-Walnut branch, $9,600 for the San Dimas-La Verne branch, and $3,400 for the Claremont branch.

The total of $33,625 is about one third of the organization's overall goal of about $100,000 for 1974.

The YMCA is offering two types of memberships during the annual drive. Active memberships are available for persons who wish to take part in the YMCA's various classes and athletic programs, while sustaining memberships are available for persons who wish to help finance the YMCA programs but do not intend to participate personally.

GUTTED BUILDING RAZED IN POMONA

A crew uses wrecking ball swinging from a crane to begin demolition work Friday on the two-story, city-owned building at 101 S. Gordon St., Pomona. This building was gutted by a fire Dec. 1, that caused an estimated $110,000 damage. The building at that time housed the Case Thrift Store, part of a chain of such thrift-store operations which employed handicapped persons. Firemen said the fire had been set.

Understanding plant manager stops bad vibes

We have a big problem with the foundry across the street from us.

Beginning at 1 a.m., the foundry starts up. The windows begin to shake and the noise gets so loud that it awakens our children. They have to be in school early and need their sleep.

We would be thankful if there is anything you can do. — Mrs. B. R., Chino.

You told us that your family was one of four getting bad vibrations from Chapman Metals Corp.

When we talked with Ronald Reich, general manager, about your problem, he wistfully told us that he wanted the plant to be an asset to the community.

He said thousands of dollars had been spent in the past year and a half to improve the plant which employs local people and buys goods and services from local merchants.

Reich didn't know that the plant was giving neighbors the early morning shakes until you and we informed him of it, he said.

He and the night crew worked out a new schedule for smelting operations. You and your children are sleeping through the nights.

I am writing this letter as a last resort in trying to get my Veterans Administration checks. I have been attending Mt. San Antonio College since September 1972.

Until this school year, I received my checks regularly but I haven't received my payments for the past two months and another is almost due.

I have called the VA, and the school office has sent out letters to no avail.

Today I received a check for $198.66. I am supposed to be getting $298 a month. I called the VA office and was told to cash the check and the people there would look into my problem again.

I can't put up with this anymore. I need the money and I'm entitled to it, so what's the big deal?

My bills are due and I am starting to hurt. I hope you can do something about my problem. — D. A., Pomona.

We had to contact the VA office in Los Angeles twice to get results, but you have now received a check for $695.

Then I wrote for a refund. No answer has come. I hope you can help me get my money back. — Mrs. I. S., Claremont.

Taxes and IRS, a moral obligation

The respected Judge Leonard Hand has often been quoted on the subject of a taxpayer's obligation, specifically in reference to the federal income tax.

"Anyone may so arrange his affairs," he said, "that his taxes shall be as low as possible; he is not bound to choose that pattern which will best pay the Treasury; there is not even a patriotic duty to increase one's taxes . . ."

This hardly means, however, that there is not a patriotic duty to pay one's fair share of taxes, or that this duty no longer holds when someone else may "so arrange his affairs" that he evades his fair share.

Yet on the basis of a flood of indignant letters from his constituents, Ohio Democratic Rep. Charles A. Vanik recently expressed fear that just such a taxpayer revolt may be brewing.

It is quite apparent, he warned, that "the voluntary income tax system established over a long period in the United States is now being threatened to the peril point by the moral indiferrence to the President to his own tax obligations and his postion as national leader."

According to a lengthy article in the Wall Street Journal, the same worry is being entertained in the upper reaches of the Internal Revenue Service, not only because of wide-spread outrage at the President's tax returns for two recent years but because of a growing popular belief that the whole system is unfairly weighted in favor of the wealthy and the privileged.

It could be catastrophic for the nation if millions of Americans decided to withhold or to shade their taxes this year, either out of resentment at what a few are getting away with, or what it is thought they are getting away with, or to "get even" with the system."

Even if the IRS had the manpower to audit and to follow up every return, which it does not, the lost income could in the meantime seriously impair the operation of the government.

That would truly be a case of cutting off our national nose to spite the faces of those who have engaged in questionable behavior.

There is a better way of doing it. Keep those indignant cards and letters coming. Keep up the pressure on Congress to correct the unfair aspects of the system that exist. Demand that the Internal Revenue Service administer the laws evenly.

But make no compromise with ethics, or flirtation with illegality. Rather, let the rule be to render unto the IRS in the manner in which every American, from the President on down, should render for the good of all Americans.

A misquote twixt presidents

In his State of the Union message, President Nixon quoted one of his predecessors, Thomas Jefferson, as saying, "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance". This, of course, nicely buttressed his point that "the price of peace is a strong defense," and no one is likely to contest that.

However, in the interest of historical accuracy, it should be pointed out that Mr. Jefferson was misquoted. In fact, Jefferson may not have said anything like that at all.

According to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, John Philpot Curran (1750-1817), an Irish politician, said in 1790:

"The condition upon which God hath given liberty to man is eternal vigilance; which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilt."

This, over the years, has been transmuted to the familiar, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and it is this quotation, Bartlett's says, which has been "attributed" to Jefferson. Since Jefferson read widely, he may have seen and refined Curran's remark. In any event, Mr. Nixon got it wrong.

To wonder what Mr. Nixon would do to the following Jefferson quote, beloved of journalists, is arrant speculation:

". . . were it left for me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

The missing links

The Senate staircase in New York State's capitol building in Albany depicts the chain of life, from one-celled animals through fish and birds to mammals.

The staircase ends with an elephant and a camel because, it's said, at the time the capitol was a-building (1867-1899), Darwin's theory of evolution was such a controversial issue that the designer was afraid to continue the progression on up to man.

He should at least have included the lower primates. This would have been highly appropriate in a building where politicians engage in monkeyshines and certainly wouldn't have offended anyone.

Caudle's ghost may haunt Nixon

WASHINGTON — The ghost of Theron Lamar Caudle may rise from an obscure grave in Wadesboro, N.C., to haunt President Nixon.

Caudle was the assistant attorney general in charge of prosecuting tax cases in the Truman Administration. He was an effusive fellow, with a touch of the Claghorn; a "po' boy," as he was wont to proclaim, from below the Mason-Dixon line.

He was offered up by the Republicans in the 1950s as a sacrificial lamb. Lacking bigger game to show they had carried out their campaign pledge to clean up "the mess in Washington," they tried to nail Caudle for "bribery, perjury and knowingly making false statements."

Unhappily, an exhaustive, five-year investigation failed to produce any solid evidence to support the charge. So he was convicted and imprisoned for depriving the government of his "faithful service." He had failed, the jury agreed, to provide "proper administration of the Internal Revenue laws."

Precedent

Now the Republican members of the House Judiciary Committee, after caucusing behind closed doors, have sworn to oppose any attempt to impeach President Nixon for the criminal acts of his subordinates. The President should not be impeached, they agreed, except for his own criminal conduct.

The Caudle case, overlooked in the dust of the Justice Department, could provide the precedent.

Ironically, Richard Nixon led the assault on the Truman Administration, which he called the "scandal-a-day Administration." While Dwight Eisenhower, with much clanking of the crusader's armor, traveled the high road in the 1952 campaign, Nixon took the low road. His harping on the "greedy, gouging, grumbling history of the Truman regime" helped bring the Republicans to power.

They immediately unleashed the Justice Department to prosecute the alleged scandals. From retirement, Harry Truman complained that the Justice Department "has put investigators on me and everyone around me to find something wrong."

Won case

The most the investigators could come up with was evidence that Truman's appointments secretary, a bright Boston Irishman named Matthew Connelly, had made telephone calls from the White House to Caudle in behalf of Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe stylist, who faced prosecution for tax fraud.

Caudle showed leniency toward Sachs, an epileptic, but secured an eventual guilty plea. It would have been "sadistic," Caudle pleaded, to put a sick man like Sachs through a public trial.

Thereafter, Sachs' grateful attorney, Harry Schwimmer, gave Connelly a $110 topcoat and two suits worth $315. Schwimmer also bought small oil royalties in the names of both Connelly and Caudle.

Schwimmer acted, however, without their knowledge. When they discovered what he had done, Connelly paid $750 for his oil share. He wore this was the price he had been told, although it was actually worth $3,600. Caudle angrily rejected the gift.

Convicted

The Republicans, with no convictions to show for their charges of corruption against the Truman crowd, brought Connelly and Caudle to trial on the eve of the 1956 GOP convention. The judge threw out the bribery charges, but the jury found them guilty of unfaithful service and improper administration of the tax laws.

Caudle was released on probation after serving part of a two-year sentence. He went back to Wadesboro to raise money to pay off his lawyers. Soon thereafter, his faithful wife, Fairfid, died. The once ebullient Caudle, old and tired after his jail term, also faded fast.

Caudle was buried in a forgotten grave not long after Richard Nixon moved into the White House. But their fates may again cross.

Caudle was jailed, essentially, for failing to give the government his best services. The verdict was that he didn't administer the tax laws properly.

Broke records

Yet Caudle broke records for tax prosecutions. The integrity of the lawyers who worked under him was never questioned. In contrast, 20 of Nixon's most trusted aides have already pleaded guilty to crimes or have been indicted for crimes.

And the special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, has scarcely started bringing indictments. The Watergate crimes were not the isolated acts of a couple of miscreants but the modus operandi of the Nixon presidency.

There was no proof that Caudle ever took a tainted nickel. His codefendant, Matt Connelly, accepted a couple of free suits and some oil shares below cost.

In contrast, Nixon's associates raked in huge sums from campaign contributors who received government favors. Much of the money was delivered in cash, often in outright violation of the campaign laws. Some was used to bribe the Watergate defendants to keep their mouths shut.

Bebe's role

The President's closest friend, Bebe Rebozo, collected cash from several contributors, although he was never authorized by the GOP to raise funds. He has sworn that he turned the money over to the campaign, but no record of this has been found. He has admitted that at least one cash gift of $100,000 from billionaire Howard Hughes was never given to the campaign.

Rebozo has sworn that he kept the $100,000 in a safety deposit box for three years. Charges have been made — but not proved — that he spent some of this money himself and distributed some of it to Nixon for "walking around" money.

The final irony is that Caudle went to jail for his handling of a tax prosecution. Sworn testimony has now come to light that Nixon claimed a $576,000 tax deduction based on a backdated deed.

If Caudle could be convicted for not giving the government his best services, the House Judiciary Committee might view the President's record in the same light.

Gossip for today

The time has come — in fact is probably long overdue — for us to pause and re-evaluate the campaign promise wonders our political masterminds assured us would be forthcoming.

They promised us two cars in every garage and we got them—along with two gallons of gas for each car.

They promised us a chicken in every pot and again they have lived up to their guarantee—provided we settle for a wing and a prayer that we can meet the time payments.

They told us to ask not what our country can do for us but what we can do for our country. Well, these days we don't even have to ask. At the rate government Big Wigs are resigning there are job openings available for anyone brave enough to take one.

They assured us we had nothing to fear but fear itself. And they almost got away with it. —It took us quite a while to realize that was just another way political masterminds have of putting the blame on something other than themselves.

Oil firms plead case through ads

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A once proud industry, responsible in large part for the most mobile, active nation in the world, has been reduced to pleading its case through advertisements.

Critics say the oil companies are attempting to justify profits that have soared exorbitantly during the energy crisis.

Oil companies claim the ads are necessary to inject an element of objectivity into the controversy.

The truth probably lies somewhere in between.

For sure, oil companies are doing well while most of the rest of tne nation's economy suffers. Profits for the industry are up substantially. The long-range outlook is that petroleum products will continue to demand premium prices, at least until alternative sources are fully developed, to ease the energy load.

The scarcity of supply and the sudden price surge scares consumers. Violence bred by the truckers' strike seems directly linked to oil companies' bid to make more money.

In rural areas, people living on minimal fixed incomes find themselves paying 300 to 500 per cent more for butane and propane. They have little alternative but to pay. Public utility services are beyond reach, in most cases, and will probably stay that way because utility companies are hesitant to add customers when they can't be sure of supplying those already served.

The whole case against industry excess profits is made public nearly every night, as network news broadcasts interview the current public defender on Capitol Hill. Scarcely a word is heard from those "sinister conspirators" who are responsible for our predicament.

Oil companies do suffer from an embarrassment of riches. But they suffer even more from the kind of journalism that makes headlines out of scare charges.

Pitted against advocacy journalists who record diligently every word of an outraged senator, but nearly ignore industry officials' replies, oil people really do begin to look like "sinister conspirators."

Distorted facts presented by publicity seeking congressmen don't help. One of Sen. Henry Jackson's committee staffs prepared a report showing that Mobil was holding back maximum production in Illinois, even though a new refinery had been built there.

What the report did not say is that new refineries do not produce at their peak on Day One. It might take a year before the new complex is stockpiled enough, and geared-up to capacity, for maximum production to begin.

The industry is largely responsible for its own public image. For years, it has failed to tell its story with any sense of reality. Experts have been warning just as long that you cannot take it out of the ground forever. Nature only brewed so much oil — the supply has always been exhaustable.

But publicity departments have preferred to push the good life, with little apparent thought for the future. Well, the future is now, and full-page ads notwithstanding, it is a little late to begin conciliation — the public won't buy it anyway.

The media can change its tactics to produce fairer coverage. No one disputes the New York Times' right to a 93 per cent profit increase. Nor is ABC chastized for a 45 per cent hike. But ink won't power cars and diesels can't run on electric images, so it doesn't matter that they are making the same kind of money as the oil industry.

Thought for today

We are afflicted in every way, but not crushed; perplexed, but not driven to despair; persecuted, but not forsaken, struck down, but not destroyed; — II Cor. 4:8,9.

San Antonio Council of the Camp Fire Girls listen as Christine Pruitt, 13, a member of the Pomona Northside Teen Post, reads poetry in preparation for the Afro-American Mini-Expo Day of Ethnic Culture which will be held today from 1 to 4 p.m. in the community building at Palomares Park. Admission is free. The event is jointly sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls and the Teen Post. Visitors will see artists at work, cooking demonstrations, creative dancing, and slides of Africa.

West End court may get 4th judge

ONTARIO — A fourth judge may be appointed to the West Valley Municipal Court before the end of the year, according to presiding Judge David C. Merriam.

Judge Merriam, appointed presiding judge of the Municipal Court in January by fellow judges, said, "It is expected tha. the next evaluation from the California Judicial Council will justify the addition of one more municipal court judge in our district."

Judge Merriam explained that in 1972-73 the West Valley Municipal Court's three judges had more than their share of cases. He said in 1972-73 the three judges did the work of 3.43 judges. Merriam said the Judicial Council will probably show that our work load in 1973-74 will be enough for an equivalent of 3.75 judges. "The figures reflect that another judge is needed now," said Judge Merriam.

Judge Merriam said in the interim the court will rely on sporadic assignments of other county judges to help out.

Merriam added: "The space needs not only for the West Valley Courts but also for the associated law and justice agencies are reaching a crisis point.

"We expect that within 90 days additional space will be made available by the transfer of other county service offices to other locations. This will be only a temporary solution.

"We have received assurances that significant additions to the facilities will be made as part of the capital improvements program funded by federal revenue sharing funds."

Explaining the transfer of other county offices, Merriam said that it is likely that the veterans, safety, assessor, and agriculture offices will be moved "closer to the center of Ontario" from their present location in the south wing of the courts building at Sixth and Mountain.

He said the exact location of the new county offices planned for West End has yet to be determined.

New karate, gym, yoga classes at Y

POMONA — New class sessions in gymnastics, karate and yoga have been scheduled by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The gymnastics class will meet starting Monday and will include sessions for both beginning and intermediate students. Beginners will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. with intermediate students meeting on the same days from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Class fees will be $5 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers.

Karate will be offered starting Tuesday. The class will meet on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and Saturdays from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Cost will be $10 for YMCA members and $10 for non-members.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

LVC to award $25,000 in study aid when counselors visit campus

LA VERNE — La Verne College's admissions office will be awarding $25,000 in scholarships to high school students during Counselor's Day Open House at the college Wednesday.

More than 500 counselors, representing schools throughout Southern California, have been invited to be present when 50 schools are selected as the first-time recipients of $500 scholarship for outstanding seniors who would like to enroll at La Verne for the fall semester.

According to Paul Kammeier, director of admissions, the purpose of the scholarships "is to help fine students from middle-income families get the financial assistance they need to attend a private institution such as La Verne College."

Other activities planned for the open house program include an address by La Verne President Leland B. Newcomer on the college and its educational philosophy, tours of the campus and the new Student Center building and discussions with faculty and administrators on educational and financial aid programs.

S.D. bosses will treat secretaries

SAN DIMAS — Bosses will have the opportunity to wine and dine their secretaries in San Dimas next Thursday.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Valentine Day luncheon at 12:15 p.m. at the Via Verde Country Club. Cost of the meal will be $3. Reservations should be made at the chamber office by Monday.

Jay Ambrose, manager of the Pomona Sears Store, will speak on the topic "A Secretary Is."

He has been an employe of Sears for the past 33 years. He is a vice president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

The music department of San Dimas High School will also present a program.

Cultural panoply in new issues

By GUSTAV DETJEN, JR.

On January 23 Papua New Guinea released a set of six stamps, multi-colored, depicting more scenes in the life, culture and natural beauty of a further six districts. The values and designs are:

Wig Makers of the Southern Highlands, three cents. The distinctive triangular shaped wigs worn by the tribesmen of this region form part of their ceremonial dress from young bachelorhood through adult life.

Arawe Mother from West New Britain, eight cents. Beauty is said to be in the eye of the beholder. In the south-west portion of this district a unique custom is carried out shown on this stamp. Here, a highly elongated skull is the ideal, and for this reason babies have their heads bound with bark cloth right after birth.

Tifalmin Hunter from the West Sepik District, 10 cents. Personal decoration worn by the hardy tribesmen of this area include quills through each side of the nose and some other item to the septum, in this case the popular rhinocerus beetle horns.

Canoe Racing in the Manus District, 20 cents. Being an island race, Manus men are excellent seamen. Canoe racing is a spectacular feature on the annual show when thousands of visitors view as many as 350 canoes.

Tapa Cloth from the Northern District, 60 cents. This region is renowned for the beautiful traditional designs featured on the locally made tapa cloth, or bark cloth. The cloth is made from the inner bark of the fig or breadfruit tree. Designs are applied with local dies.

Asaro Mudmen from the Eastern Highlands, $1. Shown are the famous Mudmen of Asaro whose unique apparel is now only seen at the Highlands Shows or during ceremonial gatherings. The past, however, the unearthly grey pallor of the mud used for the rather grotesque masks and body covering brought fear to their enemies during night raids.

Mint set of six stamps $3.05, six stamps on first-day cover $3.12. Order from Philatelic Bureau, Port Moresby, Papua New Guinea.

Every year on January 2 Egypt celebrates "Post Day." The year 1974 coincides with the centenary of the Universal Postal Union and a set of four airmail stamps was issued in the values of 20, 30, 35 and 110 mils. Shown are the emblems of the Egyptian, Arab, African and Universal Postal Union.

—AUSTRALIA: February 13 — four values featuring Australian animals. Shown are the Wombat, Spiny Anteater, Brushtail Possum and Feather-tail Glider.

Other stamp issues in 1974 will include: A series of Prime Ministers, portraying J. H. Scullin, J. A. Lyons, Earle Page, Arthur Fadden, John Curtin and J. B. Chifley. Another issue will feature ships prominent in the history of Cocos Islands, well-known Australian paintings, non-Olympic Sports, Centenary of the U.P.U.

—FINLAND: February 12 — 10.00 mk — New definitive, featuring the historical coat of arms of Finland, the oldest known national coat of arms (Arma magni ducatus Finlandiae) that for the first time appears on King Gustavus I Vasa's tombstone in the Uppsala Cathedral in 1581.

—COSTA RICA: January 14 — Six values — National musicians of Costa Rica: Manuel Ma. Gutierrez; Rafael Chaves; Julio Fonseca; Julio Mata; Alejandro Monestel; Jose Joaquin Vargas.

—SOUTH WEST AFRICA: February 13 — Four values — Scarce birds of Southwest Africa.

The 1974 U. S. Specialized Stamp Catalog has now appeared. Usually, the prices of U.S. stamps in Volume I agree with those in the Specialized edition, but this year there are many differences, as a result of the many rapid increases in U.S. stamp prices. The 52nd edition of this invaluable reference work for the U.S. collector offers 18,696 changes and there are many significant revisions in listings. "On Cover" valuations have been restored from 1895 through the 1920 Pilgrim series.

Considerable attention was also given to the Stamped Envelope section, Revenue stamps, Narcotic stamps, Stamped Paper, Die and Plate Proofs. The catalog sells for $8.25.

Information on membership in the Croatian Philatelic Society is available from dent, c-o C. P. S., 1512 Lance- Thomas E. Gaughan, Presi- t Road, Borger, Texas 79007.

Stamps Information Associates, Inc., 675 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, MA 02139 will hold a Mail Sale on February 13.

Police chief fired for not firing 3 men

BRISBANE, Calif. (UPI) — The police chief of this town's 10-man force is out of a job because he won't go along with the firing of three patrolmen for economy reasons.

"The new city manager just fired me," Bill Beard, 41, father of five boys, said this week.

Beard had told the city council that he would quit if the three lowest ranking patrolmen were dismissed to save money.

Beard said the Brisbane Police Employes Association would file civil lawsuits demanding that the council show cause why the three should be fired.

He said the three officers earn only $745 a month and asserted there was a $500,000 reserve fund to provide for their salaries.

Returnable bottles save

According to a University of Illinois study, returnable bottles use about 28 per cent of the energy consumed by the throwaway bottle system..

Anniversary exhibit has selections from donations

CLAREMONT — Selections from more than 200 art works donated to Pomona and Scripps colleges last year are on exhibition at the Montgomery Art Gallery, Pomona College, through Feb. 24.

The exhibit, entitled "New Acquisitions 1973," celebrates the founding of the galleries of the Claremont Colleges, which officially came into existence last June, when Pomona and Scripps colleges concluded a cooperative agreement for the joint administration of their galleries and art collections.

Dr. David W. Steadman is the newly-appointed director of the galleries and assistant professor of art, Pomona College. Mrs. Ann LeVeque is associate director of the galleries and curator of the Scripps Collection.

Among the new art works in the galleries' inaugural show are four Chinese cloisonne enamels from the Dorothy Adler Routh Collection of Asian Art donated to Scripps College. This collection, comprising more than 70 pieces of cloisonne enamels ranging in date from the 17th to the 20th centuries, soon will be permanently on display in the Founders Room in the Honnold Library.

The featured painting will be "Christ and Mary Magdalene," attributed to the 17th century Flemish artists, Peter Paul Rubens and Jan Breughel. It was given to Scripps College by an anonymous donor.

Included in the numerous graphic art works acquired by Pomona College are a complete first edition of Francesco Goya's "Disasters of War," given by the Norton Simon Foundation.

Contemporary graphics and photography are represented in works by Jasper Johns, Andy Warhol, Sam Francis, Richard Diebenkorn, Helen Frankenthaler, Robert Rauschenberg, Jim Dine, June Wayne, Robert Motherwell, and Wayne Thiebaud.

Photographs by Harry Callahan, Ansell Adams, Lee Friedlander, Jerry Uelsman, Paul Camponigro, Immogen Cunningham, Naomi Savage, and Robert Heineken form the nucleus of the contemporary photographs in the exhibition. The purchase of these examples of different media and styles was made possible through a grant by the Charles E. Merrill Trust.

Several examples from a large number of contemporary lithographs donated to Pomona College by June Wayne also will be on display. The entire collection will be featured in an exhibition next fall.

The hours of the Montgomery Art Gallery are 1 to 5 p.m. daily. Admission is free.

Troubled days in Bangladesh

DACCA (UPI) — The days are cool and clear as Bangladesh drifts toward the end of what passes for winter in these latitudes. But the barometer says stormy weather lies ahead for the two-year-old nation born in the blood of rebellion and repression.

"The Awami League was born in struggle, lives in struggle, and if it must die then it will die in struggle," Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman told his party members at a recent conference.

The sheikh spoke from a fancy lectern beneath a huge colorful tent. Not long ago he spoke from whatever platform was handy and his Awami League followers marched the streets, facing violence and death, to bring independence from Pakistan.

Today the sheikh and his Awami League are the establishment and many of the radical young who once worshipped him march the streets in a campaign to bring him down.

Once they all cursed and fought the razakars, a home guard created by the Pakistanis. Today the youngsters feel the gun butts of the Rakhsmi Bahini, a home guard created by Sheikh Mujib. On a recent Sunday I stood in Dacca and watched the Rakhsmi Bahini troops reverse their rifles and, swinging like baseball players, wade into a crowd on the steps of the country's largest Moslem mosque.

"Burn, burn, burn"

A bystander murmured, "I wonder if a Bengali rifle butt feels better than a Pakistani rifle butt."

On the streetcorners nearby hundreds of young demonstrators chanted the clarion call of revolution—"burn, burn, burn it all down."

The price of rice, that most sensitive barometer in this part of the world, is at a record high. City people and landless peasants suffer accordingly. The government admits average daily rice consumption has fallen from the 14½ ounces of 1971 to about 13 ounces today. If the new five-year plan succeeds it may get back to the 1971 figure by 1978.

In the last general elections Sheikh Mujib's Awami League took all but one of the National Assembly seats. This month people across the country voted for their local ruling councils. Although it was technically a non-partisan affair and sympathies of the candidates were well known, it appears that over 60 per cent of those supporting the Awami League were defeated.

Since 1972 the United States has provided $450 million in aid, India has provided $300 million and the Soviet Union $130 million.

Population problems

"No one can foresee the day when Bangladesh will stand on its own feet without foreign aid," a resident diplomat said.

Bangladesh has a population estimated at 76 million. The health minister says it increases at the rate of 2.25 million per year. Sheikh Mujib says that if something isn't done about it his people will be eating each other by the end of the century.

Seventeen years ago the death rate here was 47 per 1,000 people, the health minister says. Today it is 17 per thousand. The average population density is 1,400 people per square mile, according to government figures.

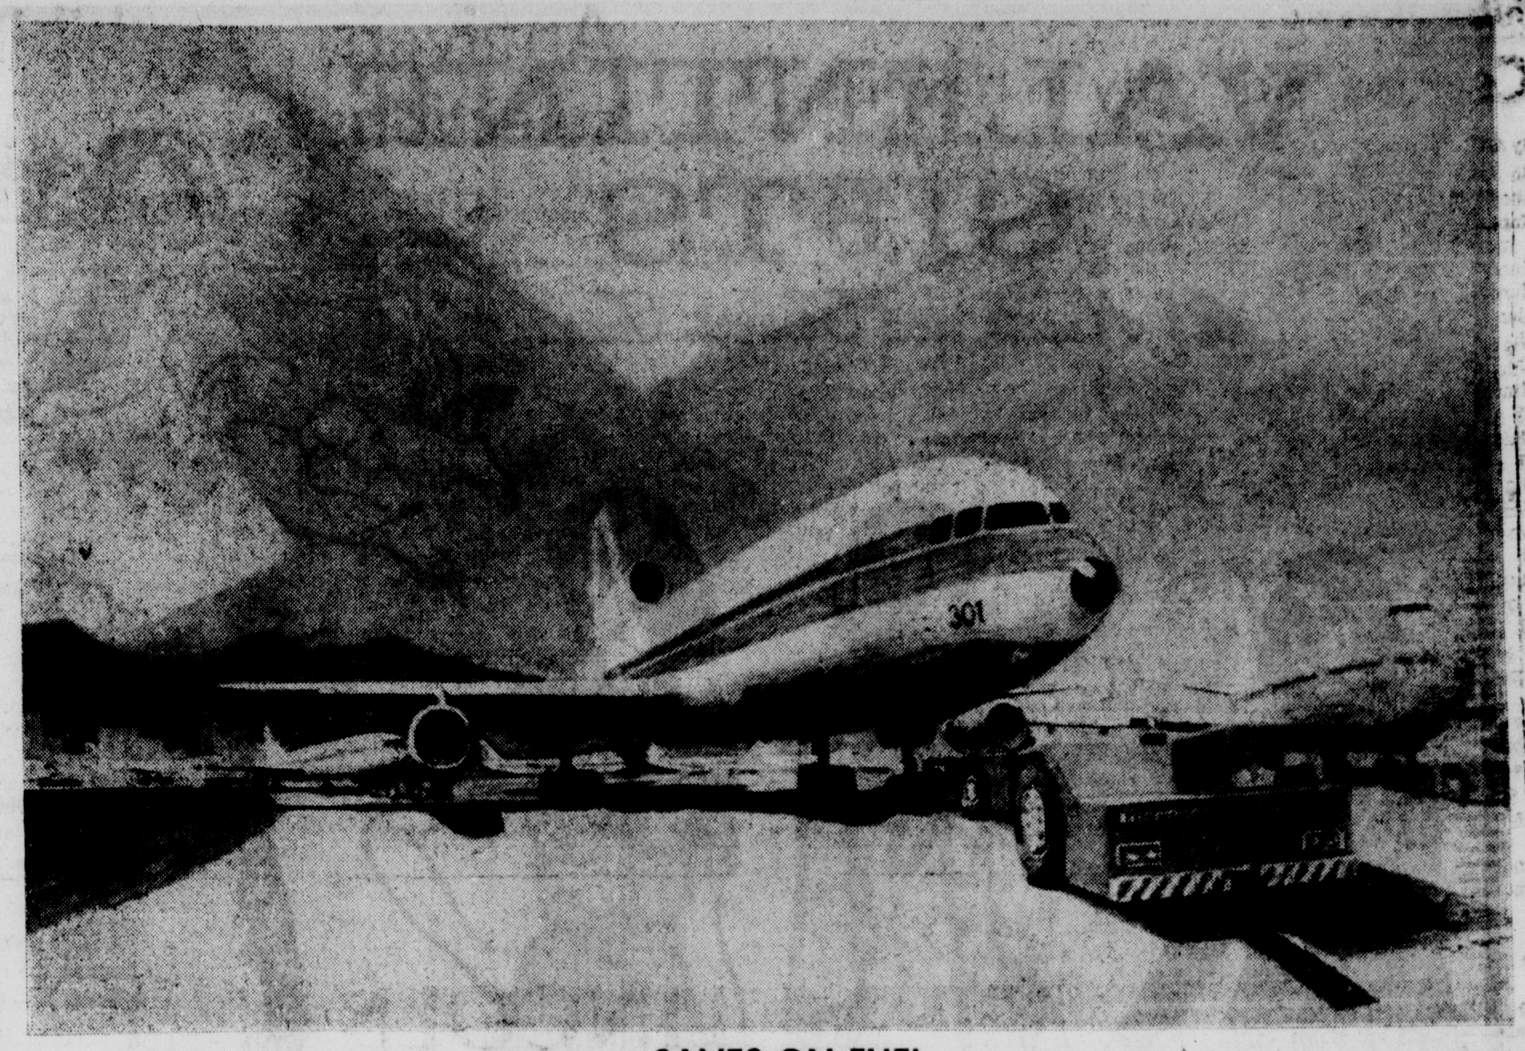
The pot bubbles and boils while Sheikh Mujib sits on the lid.

Democratic methods

"We will prove to the world that it is possible to achieve a socialist, exploitation-free society through democratic methods," says Sheikh Mujib.

"Ayub Khan (former Pakistani president) was a democratic dictator," one Bengali said. "Sheikh Mujib's a dictatorial democrat."

"Sheikh Mujib can't make a decision," says Major M.A. Jalil, leader of the radical JSD National Socialist party. "He couldn't make a decision in March of 1971 and thousands of people died as a result. He couldn't make a decision when he returned from prison in Pakistan and corruption and political urder is the result."



SAVES ON FUEL

This drawing shows one of the concepts for an aircraft ground mover system submitted for valuation by the Lockheed Aircraft Service Co under a Federal Aviation Administration contract. The system would reduce noise and air pollution at airports and could save 600 million gallons of fuel annually.

Airport awaits FAA word on ground mover

ONTARIO — Officials at the Lockheed Aircraft Service Co. here are awaiting a decision from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) before proceding with development of an aircraft ground mover system.

The firm recently completed the initial study phase for the system, aimed at reducing noise and air pollution at airports and also aircraft fuel consumption.

LAS officials presented the findings of their preliminary study to FAA executives in Washington, D.C. The FAA will evaluate the study and determine which method should be pursued.

Depending upon funding and FAA approval of one of the systems proposed, LAS could be authorized to develop a prototype system. There is a possibility the system could be built at Ontario International Airport in connection with a proposed second main runway, noted one LAS official.

This would be a satisfactory location for LAS, which has its operation located at the airport.

Purpose of the initial 12 month effort was to develop conceptual systems and equipment that permit commercial aircraft to be moved from the terminal building to the runway without the need to operate the airplanes' engines.

Several designs developed include modified versions of current-generation aircraft tugs, along with new-generation articulated aircraft movers and guidance systems.

The latter type of automated system would involve the ground movement of aircraft during periods of extremely poor visibility and complement the automatic landing systems of advanced commercial aircraft such as the Lockheed L-1011.

The LAS initial study also included the rapid removal of disabled aircradt from runways and taxiways. Several existing and advanced approaches were reviewed or developed, and a unique "mobilizer" was conceived, officials said.

Relatively minor incidents such as blown tires are the major cause of runway closures and have closed active runways at major airports for periods from one to seven hours.

The mobilizer, when developed, could reduce this time to minutes, they said.

Italians want no change in their pasta

ROME (UPI) — Italian pasta comes in more than 12 shapes and sizes, each with its own name, and Italians want things to stay that way.

A pasta maker's spokesman said a market survey a few years ago showed housewives were overwhelmingly against a suggestion to reduce the variety of pasta to six or eight types.

"Everyone chooses sizes as if it were a vital matter," he said.

Venice's bronze horses take pollution cure

ROME (UPI) — Last time it was Napoleon, this time it's pollution that is plucking the fabled bronze horses from over the main portal of Venice's St. Mark's Basilica.

The first of the 2,000-year-old sculptures came down Jan. 1. The others will follow one at a time, each to be examined by a panel of Italy's foremost experts on art restoration, probably washed with plain water, possibly coated with wax.

Then, if all goes as the Procuratia of St. Mark's hopes, the prancing horses will return to their centuries-old perch to overlook in perpetuity as symbols of Venetian grandeur the city's most famous square.

After more than a decade of debate the action was ordered by Giovanni Favaretto Fisca who, as first procurator of St. Mark's, is the chief overseer of the golden basilica and its treasures.

Documents dating to the 14th, 15th and 16th Centuries record the concern of the "Serenissima" (Republic of Venice) over preservation of what is now the only existing example of an ancient quadriga — team of four horses abreast.

Originally the worry was over the effects of raw sea air on the patina that spreads like velvet over aging bronze.

Today the fear is more acute as the petrochemical plants of Porto Marghera next door to Venice on the mainland belch chimney-loads of pollutants into the air.

Scientists discovered that the dew that settled on the horses contained corrosive sulfur dioxide that eats into their hides like a "bronze cancer." So as a first step they put fans behind the statues to keep dew from forming.

That helped—but not enough. Experts urged that the horses be moved to a restoration center in Rome or transferred permanently to the controlled atmosphere of St. Mark's Museum, leaving copies in their place outside.

But Fisca, a former mayor of Venice, decided differently. He created an air conditioned laboratory in a museum room only 10 feet behind the loggia and ordered only one horse moved there at a time.

"With this system that is based on the study of experts of the highest level we will have the possibility of curing the horses without depriving the loggia of the basilica of gold of their historic presence," he said.

The history of the horses began with their forging either on the Greek island of Chios around 200 B.C. or, as some experts contend because of a characteristic incision in the eyes, by a Roman artist.

They are believed to have come to glory first as ornaments on the triumphal arches of Nero and Trajan in Rome. They next appeared outside the great circus of Byzantium where they escaped the fire that devastated Constantinople in 1204 only because of the freight of the marble pillars on which they stood.

The Venetian doges, rulers of a rich and powerful empire, took the horses home as booty of war and for five centuries they decorated St. Mark's. Then it was Napoleon's turn. He packed them off to Paris in 1797 and set them in front of the Tuileries.

Napoleon fell and Emperor Franz I of Austria sent the horses back to Venice but a shipwreck off the coast of Ravenna plunged them into the sea. Volunteers from the city rescued them but with the outbreak of World War I they were sent for safety to Rome. During World War II they were hidden at the monastery of Praglia.

The doctor comments

See a periodontist for tooth problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — About five years ago a dentist discovered that the bone around my teeth was deteriorating, but he did nothing about it. He told me there just wasn't anything that could be done, that my teeth would just loosen and fall out.

Needless to say, this has just worried me sick. I just can't believe that there isn't someone who can help me. I have always taken pride in my appearance, and I am 33 years old. So, I sure don't want my teeth to fall out. I have been in the hospital for test and X rays to make sure the condition was confined just to my teeth. The doctors could give me no reason for the bone condition either. So, I'm hoping that you can tell me someone who could help me with my problem.

I have noticed that my teeth are shifting and seem to be getting loose, mostly my front teeth on the bottom.

DEAR READER — Your description fits a common dental problem. The bone, gingiva (gums), and supporting structures around the teeth degenerate and cause this problem. There are probably several different causes for this problem. I am happy to tell you that most dentists believe it can be, and most certainly should be, treated.

The ususal form of treatment is to remove all the deposits that have accumulated and hardened around the teeth just under the gingiva. The main goal of treatment is to eliminate the possibility of food particles and degenerated tissue cells that normally occur from accumulating around the root of the teeth, and eliminate any infection.

Often because of earlier deposits the gingiva is pulled loose from the root of the teeth and leaves little pockets at the root for accumlated material. The dentist treats this problem by removing the loose gingival tissue so that your remaining gingiva fit snuggly against the tooth root and there are no pockets. With these measures and the home treatments he usually prescribes, the process can often be stopped.

You need to see a dental specialist called a periodontist. He can and will do something about your roblem.

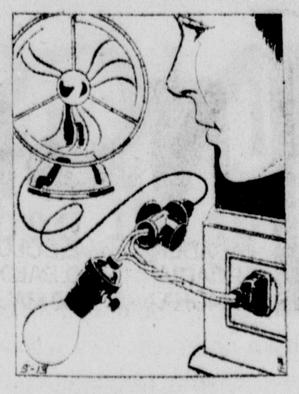
Science for You

By BOB BROWN



PROBLEM: Slow the fan down.

NEEDED: Two sockets and a plug, lamp cord.

DO THIS: Connect the sockets and plug as shown. When a lamp is screwed into one socket and a fan plugged into the other, they are in series. The lamp should burn dimly and the fan should run more slowly —and more quietly.

HERE'S WHY: When the fan and lamp are plugged in this way, and if each of them is rated at 40 watts, the voltage is divided between them, each getting only half the line voltage. If it is desired that the fan run a little faster, a slightly larger lamp can be used. To reduce the speed, use a smaller lamp.

NOTE: Do not try this method for reducing the speed of other types of motors. Some types could be damaged by it.

(A new collection of these experiments is in book form, $5.50. If not in your bookstore, order from Bob Brown, 20 Vandalia St., Asheville, N.C. 28806.)

Western singer on top--but keeps an eye on his son

N By WILLIAM P. OPPEL

DALLAS (UPI) — Charlie Rich has three gold records, three awards from the Country Music Association and a son at Memphis State University.

"I'm going to try to keep him there if I can," Rich said. "But he's getting dangerous. He's getting too talented."

Allan Rich, 18, is one of four children born to Margaret Ann and Charlie Rich. He plays piano, has written 30 songs under a copyright and has had a couple of recording sessions.

"he second session he had really knocked me out," his silver-haired 41-year-old father said. "He's a fine writer. He doesn't need me. He can make it on his own."

Charlie Rich knows enough about the peaks and pitfalls of the music business to help anyone. In 1960, in only his third time inside a recording studio, he recorded the million selling "Lonely Weekends" for Sam Phillips, the Memphis music master who founded Sun Records and discovered Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis, Carl Perkins and Roy Orbison.

Lucky breaks

"Lonely Weekends" was written by Rich for Jerry Lee Lewis, "but we cut the demo on it and it came out good and we decided to go ahead and cut a session on it. I got into this business as a writer and a studio musician and lucked into being a so-called recording artist."

After that it was mostly downhill for Charlie Rich. His losing bouts with success and the bottle got so bad at one point that Margaret Ann took their children and left. They reconciled a month later and she helped him sneak out of a YMCA where he couldn't afford to pay his bill.

But 1973 was Charlie Rich's year. His "Behind Closed Doors" was the No. 1 selling country music single of the year and the album named after it was also the year's best selling country LP. He won the Country Music Association's awards for best single, best album and best male vocalist He followed with the hit single "The Most Beautiful Girl" which not only reached No. 1 on the country charts but crossed over to become No. 1 on the pop charts as well.

Charlie Rich can indeed tell his son what's in store for him.

"It's kind of a wierd thing," Rich said recently. "You try to encourage and discourage at the same time. You want to encourage for the good points of the business and discourage the bad scenes like the tuttifrutti motels and that sort of thing. You have mixed feelings about it. But you can't change a kid's mind when that's all that's on his mind. He's gonna be really good."

Charlie Rich was born in December, 1932, in Colt, a town of 350 persons just outside of Forrest City in Eastern Arkansas, about 60 miles west of Memphis, Tenn.

"My father was a farmer and just a fantastic singer, but primarily a farmer," Rich said.

Rich sang at church functions and in the choir and his father whose strict Baptist beliefs, including that singing for money was a sin, he tried to pass on to his son.

"I started taking piano lessons in the third grade. I went through high school and played the saxophone in the band. When I was about 15 I started playing clubs in town — that sort of thing. At that time I knew music was all I wanted to be, all I wanted to do I just kind of went from there."

After high school he joined the Air Force and played in the Air Force band at a base in Enid, Okla.

"After I got out of the Air Force I farmed for a couple of years. I had a family by that time. And the farmin'—well, it wasn't like when you were a kid, so we dropped out of that and started working some clubs over around Memphis."

Charlie met Margaret Ann when they were in the seventh grade. Her family lives in Benton, Ark., and because he spends so much time on the road now, she has established the Rich family residence in Benton.

"We were always in it together as far as the music business is concerned," Rich said. "She is a fine writer herself. She wrote what I think is the classic of all times, 'Life's Little Ups and Downs'. I may be a little prejudiced, but I love that song."

Pride in Alan

In addition to Alan, Charlie and Margaret Ann have a daughter Renee, 19, in nurses training in Little Rock, Ark., a daughter Laurie in the 11th grade and a "young man, 6, who just started the first grade this year."

But Charlie, whose 6-2, 250-pound frame is hunched over the piano when he plays, beams when he talks about Alan.

"Man," he said. "That boy's going to be tough."

Medic receives $100,000 grant for heart work

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Western Pennsylvania Heart Association has awarded a Pittsburgh physician $100,000 to pursue development of an atomic-powered artificial heart pump designed to replace portions of a diseased heart.

The award, described as "the biggest single grant ever made by a heart organization," was given to Dr. George Magovern of Allegheny General Hospital.

Magovern said his work included both development of an atomic pump, powered by about 90 grams of plutonium, and development of an electrical system that would permit the body to signal the heart when to speed up or slow down.

Magovern said the key feature of his work is replacement of only diseased portions of the heart. A small polyurethane bag would be attached to the part of the heart from which diseased portions had been removed. The bag would be compressed by the pump, he said.

The pump would be about the size of a grapefruit and cost about $1 million to develop.

The Atlantic Community

Are Western Europe, the U.S. drifting apart?

Editor's Note: Each year confronts world leaders with great decisions to make. This is the first of eight weekly articles dealing with major international problems of 1974.

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The Middle East war closed with the United States sending arms to Israel and its West European allies backing the Arabs. Washington proclaimed its "disgust" with Europe and the Europeans, in turn, refused to endorse the concept of transatlantic "partnership."

Thus ended 1973, the "Year of Europe," in which the United States and the Europeans were to have revived their alliance, reformed their economic ties and pointed themselves into a new era of cooperation lasting until the 21st century.

It did not happen that way. Instead, as 1974 began, it was clear that only the most skillful and patient diplomacy could close the gaps—of money, defense, trade, detente, even soybeans and etiquette—that are driving the United States ever farther apart from its oldest friends and allies.

Even so, there was no real feeling of urgency. Rather, many scholars and officials felt that the stumbling alliance was in no shape at the moment to revive itself, let alone cope with a real crisis. And some thought the oil drought just might provide that crisis.

A good weathervane, all agreed, will be President Nixon's travel plans. Nixon was to have come in 1973 but, what with Watergate and the disarray in the alliance, he never made it. If relations can be patched up, he is expected to attend the 25th anniversary celebrations in Brussels in April of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and may go to other European capitals besides. If things go badly, that party probably will be held in Washington and will be a somber affair.

To many Americans, Europe is the ancestral home, the font of Western culture and birthplace of American ideas of liberty. To many Europeans, the United States remains the land of opportunity, a wealthy and generous nation that has twice in this century rescued Europe from war and poverty.

To such people, transatlantic ties run deep and any split would be tragic. Yet it is true that America has been deeply involved in European affairs for only 33 years. In many ways, the problems of today result from the depth of that involvement.

For instance:

—Europe and America are each other's best customer and talks were to have opened last autumn on liberalizing trade. But Nixon's trade bill stalled in Congress because of an amendment which would curtail trade with Russia. The Europeans refuse to open talks until the U.S. Government has a congressional mandate to negotiate. Meanwhile, the European Common Market refuses to compensate Washington for damage to U.S. trade allegedly caused by the Common Market's expansion last year to nine nations.

—To a large degree, U.S. postwar involvement in Europe resulted from the Soviet threat. Europeans fear that detente will weaken American interest. More important, Washington has taken to talking over really importanat matters with the Russians only and the Europeans feel ignored—and resentful.

—The West's postwar prosperity has been based on a common monetary system, worked out at Bretton Woods in 1944. That system has collapsed but hopes were high that a new system could be worked out in 1973. But the United States held off agreement until its balance of payments returned to surplus. By the time that happened, at the end of the year, the oil crisis had skewed currency values so badly that agreement in 1974 also seemed unlikely. As a result, Europe and America entered the new year with no great confidence in each other's money.

—United States sells the soybeans that provide 80 per cent of the protein for European livestock. So when the U.S. government imposed a sudden soybean embargo last summer in response to domestic shortages, Europeans protested lustily. As it turned out the U.S. decision was a mistake taken in haste and was quickly reversed—but not soon enough to keep Europeans from accusing Washington of breaking contracts.

—The defense of Europe rests on the U.S. nuclear umbrella, which in turn gets its credibility (at least in European eyes) from the 301,000 U.S. troops based in Europe. The United States, after years of asking the Europeans to pay more for these troops, has passed a law now saying some of them will be brought home if European governments do not make up the $1.5 billion deficit which the soldiers add annually to the U.S. balance of payments.

These are all basic issues (except for the soybean episode, which only symbolized to Europeans a U.S. thoughtlessness which has irritated them increasingly over the past decade).It is against this testy background that the damage which the Middle East war did to European-American relations must be seen.

The United States tried to route arms for Israel through NATO bases in Europe, but the European allies, except for Portugal, refused to give U.S. planes landing or overflight rights.

The U.S. administraion was livid. Nixon accused the Europeans of "not being cooperative" and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger muttered that "I don't care what happens to NATO, I'm so disgusted."

The European action was dictated by oil. Europe gets 71 per cent of its oil from Arab nations—the United States gets only 11 per cent—and the Europeans feared any Arab reaction. Indeed, the Common Market nations issued a joint statement supporting the Arab position while Kissinger was trying to work out a peace settlement.

Swim contest held over phone

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The national fuel shortage took its toll on amateur athletics when two private swim clubs had to conduct their competition over the phone.

The Coachella Valley Swim Club said his team didn't have enough gasoline to travel 125 miles to Pasadena, so the coaches reached a compromise recently.

The Coachella club swam in their swimming pool and the Cal Tech Swim Team swam in theirs. And, with the aid of the telephone, the starter guns were fired simultaneously.

When each race was finished, the coaches relayed the times over the phone and the results were posted on duplicate scoreboards — 125 miles apart.

At wit's end

My husband and his car

By ERMA BOMBECK

My husband and I have been married nearly a quarter of a century, have produced three children, survived three wars, comforted one another at funerals and dedicated ourselves to one another through sickness and in health.

The other day, I backed out of the driveway, turned too sharply, and hit the side of his car. He was a perfect stranger.

"Where are you going?" I asked as he left his dented fender and bolted toward the house.

"Don't move your car," he said, "I am going to call the police."

"THE POLICE!" I shouted, "for crying out loud, I'm your wife."

"This is no time for nepotism," he said stiffly.

I should have known better than to compete with a man and his car. For years, psychologists have been telling us that a man's relationship with his automobile supersedes even sex.

For you women who are skeptics, let me ask you a few questions.

Does your husband have an insurance policy on you that includes no-fault, comprehensive and is $50 deductible? Or do you have the basic $96 burial policy that puts you on a public bus and takes you to the edge of town?

Do you have a guarantee for a complete oil change every six months and-or 1,000 miles, whichever comes first? Or do you only visit a doctor's office for major surgery?

Does your husband fly into a rage if he finds someone stuck a candy wrapper in your pocket or a piece of bubble gum on your instrument panel?

Has your husband ever patted you on your trunk and remarked what a beautiful trade-in you'd make?

Does he take you to a restaurant three times a week and instruct the waitress to "Fill her up."

Does he care if the kids put their feet on your upholstery?

Does he object if your teen-agers drive you all over town?

Would he pay $8 to have you towed anywhere?

If you didn't start in the mornings, would he stay home from work?

If you answered "No" to any or all of these questions, then you have a four-wheel correspondent in your divorce suit.

As the policeman surveyed our situation, he turned to my husband and said, "Sir, you are illegally parked. Your car should be at least 15 feet from the edge of the driveway. Are there any witnesses to this accident?"

"Just my legal roommate," said my husband, smiling at me.

"I never saw this bum before in my life," I said.

Britons in eat, drink, be merry mood

LONDON (UPI) — Britons are getting ready for their Feb. 28 national election in a mood of eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you vote.

For the past few days, ever since millions of Britons realized a single union could stop the industrial life of the country, a curious spending spree has been under way.

It is most evident in luxury items, cuts across party lines and has nothing to do with whether the spenders believe the coal miners should win their pay demands.

A team of psychologists might come to a different conclusion, but less professional observers believe people so long on the precipice are buying as a hedge against inflation or simply for pleasure while they can.

Gambling clubs are packed and betting shops are reporting business even better than usual. One casino, recently tapped for $160,000 by a department store magnate playing three roulette wheels at the same time, said the big gamblers were not retrenching.

"I'm quite surprised that we're doing so well," the casino specialist for a major gambling syndicate said.

A woman clerk in one of a chain of betting shops said, "I don't know where ordinary people are getting the money if they're on a three-day week but all our regular punters are coming in and some even betting more than usual."

Rolls-Royce reported business booming and said production orders were filled for the next two years.

Tapestries by Spanish artist being displayed

LOS ANGELES — A retrospective exhibition of tapestries by Spanish artist Josep Grau-Garriaga is on display in the Ahmanson Gallery of the county Museum of Art through April 14. The exhibit includes 25 tapestries created during the past 10 years.

"Grau-Garriga is one of the first artists to change the tapestry from a woven fabric than hangs flat against the wall, to a three-dimensional hanging built up with many superimposed layers of varying weave and textural materials," says Mary Hunt Kahlenberg the museum's curator of textiles and costumes.

During the past 10 years Grau-Garriga has experimented with varying the thickness of the weave; with chemical fibers such as plastic tubing; with turning flat surfaces first into bas-relief, then into haut-relief; and most recently with near-environmental free hanging tapestries that can be viewed from both sides and in some cases include movable appendages. His colors are primarily bold reds and deep purples against earth colored backgrounds.

Each work reveals a simplicty and directness of pattern and a strong decorative quality which Grau-Garriga admits hark back to the great Catalan mural paintings which have surrounded him all his life. Consequently, he conceives his tapestries with an architectural setting in mind.

Grau-Garriga was born in the Catalonian village of Saint Cugat del Valles in 1919. As a youth he studied painting and drawing and worked on large wall murals in Catalan churches. In 1958 he traveled to France where he worked in the studio of Jean Lurcat, the great contemporary master of French tapestry. Upon his return to Spain in 1959 he became director of the Catalan School of Tapestry in the Aymat Studios in Sant Cugat, where he began to teach and direct the weaving of his own works, as well as those commisioned from other artists, including Miro and Picasso. Since that time his work has been exhibited extensively throughout Spain, South America, Europe and the United States.

The exhibition can be seen Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There is no admission charge and guided tours are offered Thursdays at 1:30 p.m.

Critique of art work scheduled

ONTARIO — Artist-critic Darwin Duncan will conduct a critique of the work of members of the Associated Artists at the group's meeting at the Ontario Public Library at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Members are asked to bring one of their paintings, preferably one that seems to need improvement.

Duncan, for many years an art instructor at Orange Coast College, stresses composition and the selection and organization of material in landscapes and seascapes. He is best known for his desert and ranch scenes.

Duncan maintains a busy schedule giving lectures, demonstrations and critiques and judging art shows throughout Southern California.

Measure aims at protecting rape victims

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorneys would be prevented from delving into the sex life of a rape victim under legislation introduced recently by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-North Hollywood.

Currently, Robbins noted, rape victims often are discouraged from bringing legal charges against their attackers because they fear that district attorneys will ask embarrassing questions about their prior sexual relations.

The bill (SB1678) would bar attorneys from referring to any sexual acts of the victim which occurred more than two days before the alleged rape.

"It is to be hoped that passage of this measure will cause more victims of this heinous offense to bring charges against their attackers," Robbins said.

New test offers better way for high-risk lung cancer detection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new blood or urine test for nicotine has been perfected to give doctors a better way to identify smokers with a high risk of developing lung cancer or heart disease.

The National Cancer Institute has reported the test also will contribute to research aimed at developing a less hazardous cigarette and may possibly be useful in other areas of cancer research.

The process was developed by Helen Van Vunakis and John Lagone at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., under a grant from the NCI. Tibor Brosos, associate chief of the biology branch at the institute, called the work "a real breakthrough."

Nicotine is not believed to be a cause of cancer but it provides a useful measure of an individual's exposure to cancer-causing substances in cigarette smoke. Nicotine has been linked to heart disease in a number of studies.

Previous methods of measuring nicotine in a person's blood were either too expensive or not accurate enough so instead doctors rely on estimates based on the number of cigarettes smoked daily. These do not measure how much of the cigarette is smoked, how deeply the smoke is inhaled, how long it is retained in the lungs or the strength of the tobacco.

The NCI said the new test may permit scientists to much more accurately assess a person's exposure to tobacco smoke by determining the exact level of nicotine, or a byproduct called cotinine, in the blood.

"It may be discovered, for example, that a very light inhaler of 40 cigarettes a day is exposed to fewer toxic effects than a deep inhaler of 10 cigarettes every two days," the institute said. "Less hazardous blends of tobaccos and filters can also be identified with greater accuracy because of the new test's sensitivity."

The test uscs antibodies produced specifically to bind with nicotine. By mixing the antibodies with a solution of blood from the patient and with radioactive nicotine prepared in the lab, technicians can measure the exact amount of nicotine in the blood urine.

By state legislators:

Housing bills submitted

SACRAMENTO — Two state legislators this year will seek passage of a housing package that would assist low and moderate income families obtain adequate shelter.

This would include creation of a California Housing Finance Corp. with powers to issue revenue and general obligation bonds and make loans to create housing for persons and families of moderate and low income.

Housing for the elderly and handicapped persons are also included.

The package consisting of three bills and a proposed Constitutional Amendment were presented by Assemblyman Peter R. Chacon, D-San Diego, and Sen. George Zenovich, D-Fresno.

One bill would place a proposition on the November ballot to authorize issuance of $500 million in general obligation bonds.

"When we place this legislation on the governor's desk, it will be one of the most comprehensive and fiscally sound housing finance programs in the nation," said Chacon, who is chairman of the Assembly's committee on urban development and housing.

"Although California is late in meeting this need compared to other states, we have had the benefit of their mistakes."

The proposed legislation will do the job of getting housing for those who can't otherwise obtain adequate housing, he added.

"It will do the job without cost to the general fund of the state. I don't see how the governor can refuse to sign it. This package has industry support as well."

Chacon had authored housing finance legislation last year that was vetoed by Gov. Reagan.

The new housing package differs from the previous proposals in two major ways, he added.

"First, it is a public corporation separae from normal state administrative agency control. It will be managed by an autonomous board whose main task is to run a fiscally sound housing finance loan program that meets the needs of low and moderate income families and the elderly in the state."

Board members will be appointed to seven-year terms and will not serve at the pleasure of the governor. Four members would be appointed by the Assembly speaker, four by the Senate's president pro tempore and six by the governor.

The second major change will be that private mortgage lending institutions in the state will originate and service many of the loans made by the public corporation.

"These institutions, like savings and loans and mortgage banks, will do what they do best," said Chacon.

The state won't need a big bureaucracy to see that loans are available in every area of the state where there is a need. It is intended to serve rural areas as well as urban centers, he explained.

The California Department of Housing and Community Development estimates that one million California households live in housing of substandard conditions and 16 per cent of all citizens live in overcrowded housing, reported Chacon.

On apartment houses:

Realtors set seminar Feb. 28 in Claremont

CLAREMONT — An educational seminar on apartment houses will be held Feb. 28 Griswold's Restaurant here.

This will be sponsored by the California Real Estate Association and its 26th District Education Committee, said J. Stan Heckmer, district chairman.

The program will have two sessions titled "Apartment House Analysis" and "Increasing the Value of Apartment Houses."

The all-day session is open to the public. Members of realty boards and the CREA can earn a unit of credit toward the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

Seminar speakers are Joseph L. Yousem and Jerome Segal. Registration is $15, which includes course materials, examination, coffee and lunch. This begins at 8:45 a.m.

For more information, persons may contact the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, 665 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. The telephone number is 623-1607.

The faculty and materials are furnished by the CREA with the local board making other conference arrangements, said Heckmer.

Contents of the courses are:

—Apartment House Analysis: An analysis of tax advantages in depreciation and interest in investment. Included are methods of comparing apartment house investment as to ownership with low equity, high equity, furnished and unfurnished. Also discussed are rates of return dependent upon risk, worry and work, price of ownership and spendable income.

—Increasing the Value of Apartment Houses: Methods and procedures for increasing the income of apartments and market value of the property. Included is "atmosphere rent," rental policies and manager relationships.

Area realtor is computer correspondent

POMONA — Charles Canfield of Canfield Realtors has been appointed an authorized correspondent for the Investors Forum's computerized financial analysis system.

Investors Forum of Anaheim has a computerized program that aids in determining the financial aspects of a wide range of projects and helps establish the basis for funding.

Canfield, president of his company, has been in business in Pomona for the past 20 years. The firm includes his two sons, Charles, Jr., and Robert. The new program will add to services offered to the commercial clients, said Canfield.

Claremont woman wins realty award

CLAREMONT — Deidre Fearey has won the Wheeler-Steffen Realtors annual associate-of-the year award.

This is given each year for best sales performance among the 32 member sales staff of brokers and associates.

Mrs. Fearey, most active in Claremont residential sales, has been employed by the firm for the past 16 months.

She was cited for her professional attitude, attention to detail, knowledge of the local market, and sensitivity to the needs and desires of her clients.

In recent months, Mrs. Fearey's activities have expanded to include farm land sales in the Coachella Valley.

Mrs. Fearey and her husband, Joe, reside in Claremont. Two of their children attend Claremont High School. Before entering the real estate field, she was a professional pianist.

Ten houses sold at Princess Del Chino

CHINO — Ten homes valued at $250,000 have been sold at the Princess Del Chino development here.

Seventy-two homes were built in the first unit of the $3.5 million project, with another 36 homes planned for later construction.

The homes are located near the intersection of Chino and Mountain avenues. They are priced from $25,200 with VA, FHA and conventional financing available. This includes a special $99 move-in loan for veterans.

Buyers have a choice of homes with three or four bedrooms, all with two bathrooms. The price includes dishwashers, continuous cleaning ovens, wall-to-wall carpeting in all rooms except the kitchens and bathrooms, attached two-car garages and concrete patios.

There are 19 floor plans and 17 exterior designs. Three furnished model homes are open daily.

Hawkins Co. sales top $150 million in 1973

TEMPLE CITY — "Despite increased interest rates and a fuel shortage, Herbert Hawkins Realtors didn't run out of gas last year," said Jim Papararo, general sales manager.

The company, with 28 sales offices, recorded a sales volume exceeding $150 million.

This represents the sale of 4,741 properties for an area extending from El Toro and Los Angeles to Upland and Chino.

The Alhambra branch office topped the roster with a volume of $16 million. This marks a 14 per cent hike over 1972.

Papararo, who also manages the branch, attributed the increase to appreciating property values. Most sales involved residential property.

The Ontario office recorded the largest increase with a $10 million sales volume. Offices in Pomona, Arcadia, Pasadena and Temple City also passed the $10 million mark.

"Prospects for expansion this year are good in spite of the energy crunch and interest rates," he said. "Recently lowered interest rates now range between 8-¼th to 8-¾ths per cent."

Open house schedules will include weekdays if the fuel shortage curtails weekend traffic, he reported.

The realty firm plans to expand this year by opening new offices in Orange County, San Fernando Valley and East Los Angeles.

Son's act no joke to father, police

TORONTA, Italy (UPI) — Carabinieri (national police) didn't have to look far to find the sender of an anonymous letter threatening to kidnap Mario Giordano's son unless he paid $5,000.

The culprit was Giordano's son, Massimo, 10, who told police he got the idea from a television film and only meant it as a joke.

ONE OF MANY — This drawing depicts one of the 54 homes in the Lewis Homes' Countryside residential development near Pipe Line and Chino Avenues in Chino. A grand opening is being held today.

Countryside project is open today

The 54 homes project valued at $1.7 million, is located near Pipe Line and Chino avenues, opposite Don Lugo High School.

Five model homes will be open. Refreshments will be served.

The homes with up to 1,928 square feet of living area, are built on lots with a minimum frontage of 75 feet.

Buyers have a choice of one and two story homes with three or four bedrooms and two or two and a half bathrooms.

Homes feature garden kitchens, cathedral ceilings and ceiling lights in all bedrooms.

They also contain window drapes, wall-to-wall carpeting and kitchens with self cleaning ovens and ranges, dishwashers and garbage disposals.

These homes are priced from $30,850 to $37,350.

Single home comfort, patios offered at Franklin-Webster

CHINO — Buyers of homes at the Franklin-Webster Square here will have the privacy of single-home comfort and garden patios that extend their living space.

The single level, split level and veranda level homes are available with two or three bedrooms and two bathrooms. Both the living and dining rooms are oriented to the patios.

Entrance to the homes is off Telephone Street between Walnut Avenue and Riverside Drive. They are priced from $22,950 to $25,950 with five per cent down payments permitted under conventional financing.

The homes feature kitchens with ranges and continuous cleaning ovens, garbage disposals, dishwashers and trash compactors. Each has laundry areas. In some plans, washers and dryers are provided.

Homes are carpeted. Decorator items include custom designed lighting fixtures, wrought iron stair railings, mirrored wardrobe doors, cultured marble counter tops and full mirrors in bath rooms and powder rooms.

Double walls serve as insulation and for sound cushions. All homes have individually controlled air conditioning and central heating systems.

Owners may enjoy "country club" living with a swimming pool and jacuzzi plus landscaped and garden areas.

Families may walk to a new shopping center. Schools for all grade levels are nearby, said officials.

Model homes opened at Villa de Palma

SAN DIMAS — Model homes are open at Villa de Palma, a 61-unit planned development here.

The homes are arranged in clusters of five to a building and staggered so each unit is only partly attached to neighboring units.

All homes are single story with two, three-and four-bedroom plans available.

The $2-million project was designed to combine the privacy and individuality of single-family homes with ease of maintenance and security of a condominium, officials explained. The K & W Development Corp. is the builder.

Recreation facilities include a two-acre recreation area with cabana, heated swimming pool, barbecue pits and a "tot" lot.

The homes are near shopping areas, schools, churches and Puddingstone Lake.

Four decorated model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at San Dimas Canyon Road and Palomares Street.

The homes feature wall-to-wall carpet, drapes, patio serving bars, gas appliances, dishwashers, ceramic tile counter tops and slumpblock masonry common walls.

The exteriors use Spanish stucco with rough-sawn wood trim on doors and windows plus Spanish tile roofs.

Warehouses being built in Pomona

POMONA — The E-Z Storage Co. has begun construction for a 50,000 square-foot office and mini-warehouse at 2680 N. Garey Ave.

This will offer low cost storage space for residential and business use. There will also be an enclosed recreational vehicle parking area with ump station washing facilities.

Forest moth destructive

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregan state forestry department officials estimate that more than 400,000 acres of forest land have been damanged by a tussock moth infestation in 1972 and 1973.

The majority of the timber lands affected are in the United States Forest Service holdings, but a substantial portion of the infested area, 109,000 acres, is on private and state-owned lands.

On income tax:

Realty costs deductible

WASHINGTON — Some real estate closing costs paid by home buyers last year can be deducted on the federal income tax returns.

"The Internal Revenue Service suggests persons keep complete records on closing cost payments just as other income tax items," said William J. McAuliffe Jr., executive vice president of the American Land Title Association.

Local property taxes paid in 1973 are deductible when itemized on federal returns, he added. But other closing costs are not allowable as deductions. These include special assessments for benefits tending to increase property value such as paving or sewer systems improvements; local government recording charges; land survey fees; mortgage lender charges for services related to setting up a loan; land title search and owner's or lender's title insurance charges; fee of attorney representing buyer: payment for hazard and mortgage insurance; and other charges for closing-related services.

"Interest paid by home owners on most conventional mortgage loans is deductible if itemized," said McAuliffe. "This includes points charged to buyers."

In general, if "points" are really interest they are tax deductible. Points paid by a seller to arrange financing for a buyer are not deductible as interest.

Not allowable as a federal income tax deduction is the loan originiation fee, commonly known as "points" that is paid by the buyer on an FHA insured or a VA guaranteed loan, he noted.

Also not allowable as a deduction are "points" paid by the real estate seller as a loan placement fee. But these can be claimed as a selling expense to reduce the taxable amount later on when the property is sold again, according to IRS.

McAuliffe advised those itemizing state or local real estate transfer taxes to consult IRS Revenue Ruling 65-313, which states:

— If a real estate transfer relates to business or trade, transfer taxes are deductible in reducing gross income to adjusted gross income for federal income tax filing.

— If transfer taxes are paid by an investor in a transaction entered into for profit, they are deductible if itemized.

— If transfer taxes are paid in connection with the purchase of a personal residence, they are not deductible; but they are a capital expense added to the cost of the home in such instances by the home owner when the property is sold again.

— If transfer taxes are paid by the seller in sale of a personal residence, they are not deductible but can be listed as an expense of sale to reduce the proceeds for tax purposes.

Home buyers with specific questions on deductible closing costs, such as the itemization of "points", should contact the nearest IRS Taxpayers Assistance Office or another expert source, McAulifee advised. He also suggested consulting the official IRS book, "Your Federal Incom Tax."

The ALTA executive also said that closing costs differ from place to place because of local law and custom, and include payment for services that protect home buyers and mortgage lenders while making it possible to properly complete a real estate transaction. He suggested that home buyers prepare for real estate ownership by learning in advance about closing costs they will be required to pay.

Fair distribution of fuel

ATLANTA — The nation's largest petroleum suppliers have been warned not to discriminate against independent marketers, said William N. Walker, general counsel of the Federal Energy Office (FEO).

Speaking at the National Association of Realtors meeting here, Walker said suppliers will be held strictly accountable for allocating scarce oil and gas supplies under FEO regulations on a fair and nondiscriminatory basis.

"We have received complaints that some major oil companies are giving preferential treatment to company owned outlets at the expense of independent marketers.

"But FEO rules make it clear that discriminatory practices are not allowed and FEO is serving notice that it will enforce its regulations where necessary to insure against disruption of supply or inequitable treatment during the period when the allocation rules are first being implemented."

Walker said he is mailing letters to the nation's 23 largest oil companies reaffirming FEO's determination to strictly enforce its regulations.

"Suppliers have an affirmative obligation to provide equal treatment to independent marketers, branded or unbranded, as well as to their own outlets.

"If the timing and method of a supplier's program for implementing the allocation requirements under FEO regulations has the effect of discriminating against any category or group of purchasers, the supplier may be subject to sanctions under the law.

Walker urged Realtors to set an example for the real estate industry by responding positively to the energy crisis.

He suggested a series of energy-saving ideas for the real estate industry to consider:

—Maximizing use of cooperative open houses.

—Creation of more efficient showing schedules.

—Voluntary restriction on showing hours of open houses, like voluntary Sunday closing of gas stations.

—Encouragement to prospective buyers to view as many properties as possible on a single trip.

—Carpooling several prospective buyers to outlying or remote properties.

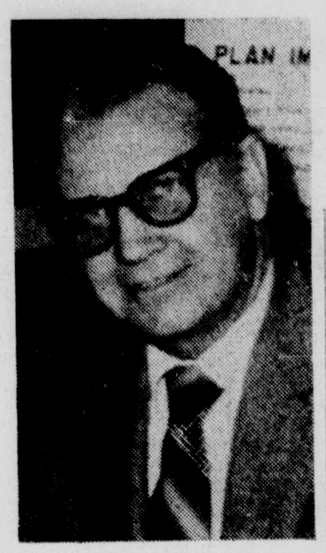
"I think you will find that the consumer will respond to efforts by those in the real estate industry to help adapt our economy from a low-cost, abundant energy base to a high-cost, scarce energy base. Realtors as community leaders and industry spokesman can be a positive force in this new industrial revolution," he said.

Also addressing the Realtors was Douglas M. Parker, special assistant to the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development for Energy Affairs. He alerted his audience to be prepared for determined action on the part of the Administration to minimize the disruptive effects upon the national economy of the energy shortage. Parker promised the Realtors that President Nixon's new budget, which will be released later this week, will contain convicing evidence of this determination.

Parker also reported that the energy shortage is not, at present, a major constraint on residential construction across the country, in spite of local shortages of some building materials, such as brick, because of lack of the fuel necessary for their manufacture.

Parker called the attention of the Realtors to bills currently before Congress relating to the development of solar energy, one of which would authorize $50,000,000 for a demonstration program. He pointed out that there was general agreement in the scientific community about the technical feasibility of the use of solar energy in the near future for home heating. "It must be shown," he said, "that the solar energy home is not only one that works from a technical standpoint, but is also a home that can be financed and resold if necessary." It is in this practical aspect of the appliance of technology, Parker indicated, that HUD and the real estate industry could make significant contributions.

"Industry itself," Parker said, "should be examining what can and should be done to label the efficiency of heating and cooling systems in houses. Is a house, in its entirety, a product that should be similarly labeled? What should the roles be of Realtors and real estate appraisers in providing home buyers with better information about the elements of location, design and construction of homes which affect energy use and conservation? These are the kinds of questions that can and should be addressed by the real estate industry independently of legislative of administrative action by the government."



LEON KEDDING..

Asst. planner appointed for S.B. County

SAN BERNARDINO — Leon V. Kedding has been appointed as San Bernardino County's assistant planning director.

He has held the post on an acting basis since September, 1972. Keding joined the planning department in 1955 as a planning technician.

Keding has served as chairman of the subdivision review committee, planning advisor to the City of Barstow, and chief of the current planning division and zoning division.

He also initiated a study in 1971 dealing with the effects of state and federal legislation on county planning. Keding was also instrumental in 1972 of establishing an environmental review process.

Kenneth Topping is the county's planning director.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Somewhere there may be a forgetful woman with an impressive collection of useless boots. Or perhaps a one-legged lady thief.

The mystery developed when James Paris noticed a box in the back of his pickup truck that he did not put there. In it were 21 women's boots—all for the left foot.

Paris had no notion where the boots came from or why they should be only for the left foot. He turned them over to police.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Most of the week's turmoil will have ended by today. Situations will be back to normal. It should be a relaxing day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will have plenty of time to put all the little things in order that have been out of their respective niches lately.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forget all your wordly woes for now and concentrate on having a good time. You're entitled to a day of fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is the kind of day when you're at your best. Have some friends over to share the warmth of your hearth.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A good day to get together with those you consider your very special friends. If they can't come to you, go see them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) More pleasant and harmonious conditions will prevail in situations that affect both you and your family.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It would be very hard for anyone not to go along with what you want if you lay on the old Librian charm today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your charitable instincts will come to the fore. You'll be doing something nice for one who needs help just as everyone who knows you predicted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone you'll be in contact with will have a good effect on you. This person knows how to awaken your ideals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone is talking behind your back today. Don't be upset, she's speaking of you in glowing terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a good "ideas" day for you. You're able to see a little farther ahead and a little clearer than you have been able to lately.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions look exceptionally good in an important area where you share a vested interest with another. Give. Expect nothing in return.

Your birthday
Feb. 10

This year will offer you a beautiful new hope that's more than an idle daydream. When the opportunity comes, grasp it firmly. Follow it through to its climax.

Monday, Feb. 11

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Think in terms of sharing today. Others will then be more willing to help your interests, knowing it will benefit them, too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be on your toes so you can take advantage of an opportunity that will pop up. It concerns your work or career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Situations that carry elements of chance are less risky for you today than most other days, provided you use sound judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Two apparently unrelated conditions are blending in a most satisfactory manner. They'll contribute to your domestic security.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A quick decision will be called for on a matter you've thought through. Act while others are till co-operative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) More opportunity than usual is now available where personal gain is a factor. Size things up quickly from a profit standpoint.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Dare to be different today if you're in a situation where you have to be assertive. Imaginative measures will prove effective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Share your thoughts only with your most trusted confidant, particularly if they relate to home or sex.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something you're involved in makes sense to you. It appears of dubious value to others. Don't let their opinions dilute your enthusiasm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It isn't to your advantage to wait where personal goals are concerned. Use your initiative now to make things happen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take stock of your present position from all angles. You're in good shape if you act on certain alternatives now open to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Work as closely as possible with your mate or partner. If the combination is harmonious a unique payoff will result.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Feb. 11

You'll be able to expand upon your ideas this year and create conditions more to your liking. Some lucky breaks will make things easier.

America and the future of man

Future rests on balance of reason, faith, love

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is vice chancellor for academic affairs and professor of biology at the University of California, San Diego. Herein he discusses human and social values as related to the future of man.)

By PAUL D. SALTMAN
Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California

Since the beginnings of civilization, man has attempted to predict his future. He has sought to foretell his destiny from the intricate patterns of the star-filled heavens, the entrails of sacrificed chickens, the residue of tea leaves in cups, the turn of tarot cards, and thousands of other signs, symbols and and omens.

Wise men, shamans, gurus, oracles, and yes . . . even priests, professors, and politicians . . . are looked to for their visions and foresight. Indeed, the series of articles "America and the future of man" is one manifestation of this concern with our individual and collective future.

How do we divine the future? What forces shape our behavior and thus, in effect, create the future reality? I see today, as never before, an intense and polarizing struggle for man's mind between the forces of faith and mysticism, and science and reason.

The social cop-out

Recently at a dinner party, a highly-educated and intelligent person leaned over and asked, "What's your number?" I was taken aback. I did not know whether it was a telephone number that was wanted or perhaps a Social Security number.

Or who knows; there are so many numbers in our society today. In fact, she was asking for my numerological number.

She put great faith not only in these magic numbers but in signs of the horoscope as well as predictors of human personality and activities.

Look about us. We live in a bumper sticker world. In the few letters that can be scrawled and pasted upon the outer limits of automobiles, we see calls for religious dogma and for radical-political action, statements for and against guns, demands for wilderness areas and at the same time for more ski lifts.

Our lives and times are motivated by slogans, 30-second commercials, headlines and the instant mass culture of superficiality.

Most people are strongly attracted to accepting a course of action or direction for their lives imposed from an external source. Such a relationship absolves the individual from the personal decision-making process.

He wraps himself in the security blanket of "inevitability" or dogma, and he need not invest the enormous amounts of time, effort and, above all, thought, required in making creative decisions, and meaningfully participating in the governance of his life and the lives of others.

Stop, stop, stop!

We are faced with modern "Luddites," the English handweavers of the 19th Century, who out of fear tried to destroy the power looms that threatened their livelihood. Now, we hear from every quarter cries to slow down or stop the scientific quest for new knowledge and its application through technology.

Leady writers and philosophers, including Lewis Mumford, Herbert Marcuse, Theodore Roszak and William Irwin Thompson, accusingly point to science and technology as the fundamental cause of the crisis of man today.

Archibald MacLeish has called for a moratorium on new science and research until we can cope with the enormity of the information that we now have and use so ineffectively.

And yet, this is the very moment when the fundamental problems of man have a base in science and technology and cannot be solved without them. On the other hand, how long have we been lulled into a sense of false security by our scientists and technologists?

They continually reach out for more moneys for their research projects, holding forth promises of everlasting health and life, smog-free cities, supersonic transportation and Elysian fields of a labor-free life—none of which are delivered.

Reason feeds unreason

There is a great similarity between the primitive tribes of New Guinea who practice the "cargo cults" and our contemporary American society.

Those primitive natives once experienced the windfall of crashing bombers in World War II, which would bring them unbelievable riches; now they build elaborate airplane-shaped totems hoping that planes will crash there again. Similarly, we in more "civilized" cultures continually are reminded that the building of atomic bombs and putting men on the moon symbolize the ability of science and technology to solve all of our problems.

One of the major factors contributing to our schizoid dilemma between mysticism and reason is the apparent crisis we face in handling the enormous amount of information which is generated, transmitted and received throughout the world. Each of us continually feels inadequate to come to grips with this superabundance of information—to understand it, to digest it and to utilize it.

We must have a "Fluency" with language which enables us to express our complex ideas both in quantitative and qualitative terms.

Challenge to communicate

We must have a "fluency" ceptual structures within which the language, both verbal and numerical, can be utilized. Scientists have too often neglected their social responsibility to communicate and explain their ideas and discoveries in language and in concepts which can be understood by interested citizens.

Those of us who work in the areas of science and technology must recognize the necessity not only to share our knowledge, but also to point out the diverse social consequences of applying this knowledge. Scientists and technologists must always recognize and identify where their "knowing" is scientific and where it is a function of personal value judgments.

I believe that our feeling of intellectual impotence may be built in to our approach to education. We have long been geared to the notion that education should impact facts and data, literally to fill up the biological data banks of our brains.

Get it all together

Rarely do we come to grips with developing the skills of mathematics and language, the ability to see fundamental relations and explanations within the data and the facts, and above all, the methods by which to seek and find new knowledge and new relationships. At a time when computers can store far more information for instant recall than can the human brain, it seems a shame not to use the intricacies of the human brain in a more creative and functional fashion.

Furthermore, within the process of education at all levels from preschool through postgraduate, we readily scuccum to the fragmentation of knowledge as described in C. P. Snow's "The Two Cultures." We fail to commit ourselves to the notion of an education for one culture in which the disciplines of science, the social sciences, the humanities and the arts interrelate and integrate.

Mysticism and reason need not be polarizing forces.

In all of our thoughts and actions these modes of perception are functioning together. How few scientists and technologists recognize and are willing to admit the acts of faith that underlie the very scientific methods that they employ. Conversely, some of the most basic contextual aspects of art, poetry, philosophy and music are closely related to concepts that are operational in science.

Articles of faith

There are three underlying assumptions of faith that every scientist must hold whether he knows it or not. These are: (1) There is order in the universe. (2) Man can understand that order. (3) It is good to understand that order. Indeed, it is the quest to understand meaningful relationships in the universe that drives all of us who practice science to continue searching.

Elizabeth Sewell, a creative poet and teacher, was educated as a mathematician, and she pointed out clearly that all great art and poetry have reason, form, simplicity and grandeur — the very elements of which great science is built. Miss Sewell went on to describe poetry in terms of understanding self and relationships to others, the foundations of many of our social sciences and the problems that they seek to understand.

My concern as a scientist, as a teacher, as a citizen and perhaps above all as a human being is to live and act in accord with the notion of the one culture of man. Science is only one way of perceiving the universe through its questioning, proposing hypotheses, experimenting and verifying the hypotheses, and ultimately extrapolating from present understanding to new questions and new ideas and new relationships.

I think we should bring this same sort of perception into everything we think about and do.

The "absord" embrace

At the same time, we must see that the fundamental issues of the future of man are not solely based on facts or data, but rather lie in the human and social values that we place upon our interpretations of these facts.

Jacques Monod, the French Nobel Prize winner and biochemist, spoke most eloquently when he said, "Man finally knows that he is alone in the indifferent immensity of the universe. No more than his destiny is his duty anywhere preordained. It is up to him to choose between the kingdom and the shadows."

What is to be man's choice? On what rational or mystical individual and collective premises shall it be made? For me, the answer lies in our commitment to knowing and understanding, our concern for self and others, our sensitivities to our own and our society's needs, and our belief in individual and collective man's ability to change and evolve.

Many years ago, I appeared on a panel program with a delightful and brilliant Canadian author, June Callwood. At that time, we were discussing our value judgments and concerns, and I refereed to the biblical credo, which has influenced greatly some aspects of my own life, "I am my brother's keeper."

On reflection, June Callwood asked me to reconsider that motto, slightly changed but far more powerful, "I am my brother." If each of us can recognize the reality of this paradoxical and dynamic interaction of existential self and societal others, and at the same time bring into dynamic equilibrium the forces of faith and reason, I believe that the future of man and the societies and nations of this earth will be better. We can and must make it so.

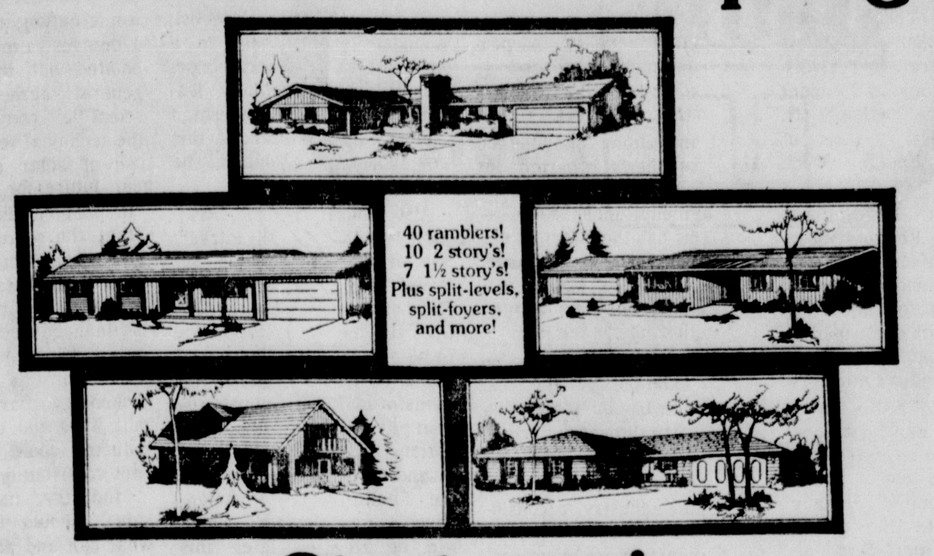
Dinosaur eggs or?

CHATEAUNEUF LE ROUGE, France (UPI) — Scientists in southeast France have found what they believe may be dinosaur eggs dug up in this village, museum official said.

Last August two local men opened a restaurant here and workmen digging a gas main found a nest of stone-like, eggshaped objects, weighing an average of 15 pounds and measuring seven to nine inches in length.

Natural history experts said dinosaurs were believed to range through nearby mountains and the objects could conceivably be fossilized eggs.

Plan to have your new home built this Spring.



Start now!

You can have your new home this Spring, and it's not too early to get started. Your Capp Homes Representative is ready and willing to help you.

Capp Homes has the exact home you want

Our 1974 Idea Book shows all 78 Capp Homes models, how you can modify any of them to suit your family's needs, or how we'll help you design your own home from your ideas.

You choose the kitchen, the bath, the carpeting, the exterior style . . . everything to make your home individually yours.

Capp Homes has low down payment mortgage plans

Don't let the things you've heard about today's big down payment make you put off your dream. Capp Homes has three different mortgage plans to choose from. The interest rates are competitive, and the down payment can be as low as one-half of one week's pay if you own your building lot free and clear. Stop scrimping and saving . . . you probably have all the cash you need to get started now!

You can even put off making your first payment until five months after your Capp home is delivered.

Save thousands on the finishing

With Capp Homes, you can save hundreds to thousands of dollars on the finishing work. Capp Homes constructs the sealed exterior of your home on your foundation, erects interior partitions, and can supply you with about everything needed to finish the home inside and out . . . from doorknobs to electrical fixtures, right down to the heating system and bath fixtures.

You can be your own "boss." You and your wife hire local craftsmen to do the finishing, and save middlemen's profits, or "hire" yourselves and your friends to do as much of the work as you want. It can make the difference between having only a home you can afford, or having the home you really want.

Capp Homes invites you to get the whole story

Engagements are announced

Fortin-Roller

The engagement of Miss Karen Fortin and Paul Roller is announced.

Miss Fortin is the daughter of Mrs. Jean Fortin of Chino and Larry Fortin of Ontario. She graduated from Chino High School and is attending Cal Poly Pomona.

The bride-elect is employed at Jade Machine.

The son of Mrs. Helen Roller of Chino and Harold Roller of Hesperia, the groom-to-be graduated from Chino High School and Chafffey College.

Klotz-Severin

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Klotz of Montclair announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathy Lynn, to Kenneth Scott Severin, a lance corporal stationed with the Marine Corps in Hawaii.

Miss Klotz is a graduate of Montclair High School and a student at Cal Poly Pomona. She is employed by Princess House.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Severin of Montclair, the groom-to-be graduated from Montclair High School and attended Chaffey College.

Thompson-Reber

Mr. and Mrs. Marion E. Thompson of San Dimas announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Jane, to Dennis Reber of Provo, Utah.

The couple will be married on April 27 at the Temple of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The bride-elect attended San Dimas High School, Cal Poly University and Brigham Young University.

Mr. Reber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Reber of Bunkerville, Nev., attends BYU. He graduated from Rancho High School in Las Vegas and spent two years in England on a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

McSweeney-Long

Miss Judith Ann McSweeney and Daniel Bruce Long will be married on April 5 in the La Verne College Chapel.

The engagement was announced at a family gathering at the home of the parents of the groom-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Long of Arcadia.

The daughter of Mrs. Lucille McSweeney of Montclair, the bride-elect graduated from Pomona Catholic Girls High School in 1969 and from La Verne College in 1973. She is employed by the Ontario-Montclair School District as a learning assistance teacher.

Mr. Long graduated from Arcadia High School, Pasadena City College and La Verne College. He is also employed by the Ontario-Montclair School District.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wagner of Pomona, the bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Ganesha High School. She is employed at the Naval Plant Representative of General Dynamics, Pomona.

Mr. Haluschak, son of Nicholas Haluschak of Pomona, graduated from Ganesha High School in 1968. He attended Cal Poly University and is employed by Synthane-Taylor of La Verne.

Blaming others—natural

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What blaming others does to you — did you ever wonder?

That tendency to blame others seems to be natural. It is done mostly in one's closest relationships, such as in the family.

In such situations, says psychiatrist Gary Singleton, "people's lives are more intensely and intimately involved with each other.

The more intensely focused your life is in others the more you are likely to have the tendency to blame others.

What can be done about it? A starting point, says Dr. Singleton, would be to start developing ideas about where you draw the lines of responsibility. What are you responsible for? What are you not responsible for?

"When you are more responsible for yourself, you don't blame others," says Dr. Singleton.

The Georgetown University authority notes that it is important to be aware of the problem "because blaming others is such an automatic — almost reflexive response — seldom do we realize what we are doing."

It is also important to remember that, "if you are going to face the important issues in your life, you can't avoid some discomfort and unhappiness."

"It is worth it in the long run, however," he said. "You'll never face these issues by blaming others."

Instead of blaming others, he said people would be better off concentrating on "being objective and handling problems more efficiently and effectively."

Reid-Bovee

Former Pomonans, Mr. and Mrs. Angus G. Reid of Phoenix, Ariz., announce the betrothal of their daughter, Dorothy Marie of Ontario, and Jeffrey Alan Bovee of Pomona.

Miss Reid was graduated from Ganesha High School in 1969 and attended Mt. San Antonio College. She studied ballet in Europe and danced with the Netherlands Opera Company for a year.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Bovee of Monterey Park, graduated from Ganesha High School in 1967. He served four years in the Navy as a helicopter rescue airman.

A graduate of MSAC, Mr. Bovee will attend the University of California at Santa Barbara this spring.

A June 16 wedding is planned by the couple.

Moore-White

Miss Linda Diane Moore and Dennis L. White will exchange wedding vows on April 13.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Moore of Montclair, the bride-elect was graduated from Montclair High School in 1971. She is employed at Upland Convalescent Hospital.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. White of Montclair, the groom-to-be graduated from Chaffey High School in 1965. He was a business major at Chaffey College and served three years with the U. S. Army.

Mr. White is employed at Safetran Systems Corporation, Cucamonga.

Baty-Maudlin

Miss Vickie Lynn Baty and Craig E. Maudlin will be married on July 14 with the groom-to-be's brother, the Rev. Michael Maudlin, as officiant.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie L. Baty of Upland, the bride-elect is a graduate of Upland High School.

Mr. Maudlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland B. Maudlin of Claremont, graduated from Claremont High School and attends Citrus College.

Litton-Dykes

Miss Connie Jo Litton and Mark Thomas Dykes plan to be married on Aug. 24.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Litton of Chino. She is a midterm graduate of Chino High School and attends Chaffey College. She is past honored queen of Bethel 191, Chino, International Order of Job's Daughters.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dykes of Chino, Mr. Dykes graduated from Chino High School and is employed by Whittier Engraving in Santa Fe Springs.

Helping a neighbor

Practice is being revived

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nosy neighbor can be the good neighbor.

The oldtime custom of those next door and nearby keeping in touch with each other is being revived in several parts of the country to cut the rising crime rate. All it takes for a start is one concerned citizen. If he or she looks for help, a lot can be found.

Typical of what one family can do to start the good neighbor policy is the case of Cedar Park in West Philadelphia. William Wegener, a Lutheran minister, and his wife, Ellie, decided they must do something about the rash of robberies, muggings, burglaries and auto thefts in the neighborhood of their church.

The Wegeners called a meeting and to their surprise 30 families showed up. The group organized the Block Association of West Philadelphia and its members now watch houses for one another, team up each evening to patrol the streets and hold monthly meetings on community security.

The only "weapon" the patrol teams carry is a gas-powered horn, which can emit a sound loud and penetrating enough to alert every household in a city block.

The walking teams make a point of saying hello to everyone and to encourage people to come back on the streets, Mrs. Wegener said. They also carry flashlights and notebooks to jot down descriptions of suspicious persons or cars.

Such block organizations have these aims—not to take the law in their hands but to help one another and to help the police perform better, and above all to prevent crime.

How to organize a community crime prevention committee is outlined in a special publication, "Guide to Home and Personal Security," which the Action for Independent Maturity (AIM) has compiled for persons in the 50-plus age group. But age really is only relative. Young, middle-aged, older—all could work together.

The publication describes similar projects in Portland, Me., St. Paul, Minn., Roanoke, Va., and Fall River, Mass.

Portland's Community Crime Check (CCC), for instance, was sponsored by the South Portland Police Department, the South Portland Board of Industry and the Altrusa Club.

Almost everyone got in the act—high school students made posters at no cost for display in stores; Boy and Girl Scouts groups distributed 6,500 doorknob hangers; every student in 18 schools was given a letter describing CCC to take home to parents; 300 letters went to South Portland merchants to enlist their support, and the city manager arranged for the Public Works Department to paint the CCC telephone number (police department) on school crosswalks and at shopping centers.

The public library acted as clearing house for tapes and cassettes on the project. Police officers and Altrusans gave talks to community groups, and newspaper, radio and television coverage of these activities kept telling the public what was going on.

South Portland residents were asked to be on the lookout for suspicious activities and to report them to the CCC number. In large print, they were told they did not need to give their names.

They were asked to report such things as:

Any suspicious-looking stranger going from door to door, asking for work, directions, or promoting an unheard-of organization;

Automobiles whose drivers apparently were scrutinizing homes while repeatedly cruising residential streets;

An unfamiliar car or truck in the driveway of a house where residents were believed away;

Teen-agers who didn't live in the neighborhood trespassing in yards, especially after dark;

The sound of glass breaking or the sudden jar of a forced door.

If you want to start a community crime prevention project, a good source for material is your county sheriff or other law enforcement agencies. Or contact the National Sheriffs' Association, which can outline a "Neighborhood Watch" program. Write the association at Suite 320, 1250 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036.

(For a free copy of "Home and Personal Security Guide", write AIM, 1909 K. St., N.W., Washington D.C. 20006).

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than five weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

Leading women to genuine emancipation is not an easy task

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Long before Betty Friedan, mother of the women's liberation movement, set America on a course toward equality of the sexes, China was treating men and women the same.

Li Su-Wen, representing the People's Republic of China at the recent meeting of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women, told delegates from several dozen nations:

"Through our own experiences, we Chinese women have come to understand deeply that it is by no means an easy task to lead women onto the path of genuine emancipation."

The commission met to consider issues affecting women everywhere: development, the struggle for peace, equality, rights over the decision to bear children or to refrain from bearing.

To an American writer— namely me—who has covered the women's movement since Ms. Friedan launched it, many of the issues, much of the rhetoric had a familiar ring.

The women were discussing also, some plans for 1975, the year the United Nations has designated as International Year for the Woman.

As the Chinese representative put it, however, the matter of emancipating women in many countries will not be an easy struggle.

Taking an historical perspective, she told of how the struggle went in China, saying:

"In the semifeudal and semicolonial old China, the broad masses of women, especially the toiling women on the lowest rung of the social ladder, suffered heavily from slavery..."

She noted that "slavery and oppression" was under the sway of the "political authority, clan authority, religious authority and the authority of the husband."

"Many progressive women had made continuous efforts to seek the way to the emancipation of women," she said.

"Others had tried to secure women's rights and status by tackling the women's problem alone, but to no avail.

"Having gone through these twists and turns, the Chinese women became aware that the women's movement was an integral part of the revolutionary movement as a whole; and that to win women's emancipation, it was imperative, first of all, to fight for national independence and liberation and socialism."

She said precisely because "millions upon millions of women...took an active part in the Chinese people's struggle for liberation, the dark rule of imperialism, feudalism and bureaucrat capitalism was finally overthrown, the Chinese people won their liberation and the broad masses of women stood up."

The way it is with women in China today, the delegate told the commission, is this:

"Women enjoy equal status with men in all spheres of life — political, economic, cultural, social, as well as in the family.

"Suppressed for thousands of years, the wisdom and strength of women masses are now set free.

"They are taking an active part in our socialist revolution and socialist construction, playing the role of 'propping up half the heaven.' "

The women of China were described as anxious to serve the people better. "They study hard, dare to think and act, link their work and labour with the building of socialism..."

The work of women and men —labor—"is a glorious and magnificent undertaking," the delegate said.

Women are working in all fields in China. They are equal with men in China. And, as the delegate from China put it— "Whatever men can accomplish, women can, too."

The Chinese delegate also made a prediction that would make feminists everywhere applaud. She put it this way:

"Women of all countries will, in the light of the specific conditions and circumstances of their respective countries, push forward continuously the cause of women's emancipation."

And to that, even Betty Friedan would respond:

PDQ unit books talk on center

A speaker from the Crisis and Suicide Intervention Center will address the Police Declaratory Quorum on Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the small auditorium at Palomares Park, Orange Grove Avenue and Arrow Highway.

The Crisis and Suicide Intervention Center is staffed by 55 trained volunteer workers. Dr. Howard M. Schuman and his wife train the volunteers.

The center was established in December, 1971, and offers assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Help is offered for all types of problems, including suicide, general emotional problems, depression, alcoholism, drug abuse, problem pregnancies and others.

All calls are confidential and services are free.

Travel film charted Friday in Claremont

CURTIS NAGEL

The fourth presentation of the Claremont Travel Film Series will be "Rhine Journey in the '70s."

The travel film will be presented by Curtis Nagel at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. Friday in Garrison Theater.

A long time favorite of the Claremont audiences, Mr. Nagel is widely known as one of the world's most traveled men, as well as a pioneer of theatrical motion pictures. He brings to the screen the perfection in color, composition, continuity and human interest.

After a number of years producing pictures in Hollywood, Nagel toured almost every part of the world with his camera filming his journeys.

He became associated with William Moore in presenting illustrated travel lectures. Together they have photographed 85 different countries. Mr. Nagel is currently celebrating his 25th anniversary on the American platform.

To the music of Wagner, the story of the Rhine unfolds tracing the river's course from Thomas Lake, high up in the glaciers of the Swisss Alps, down through Switzerland, to Lake Constance, to Schaffhausen Falls, past a corner of France, through Germany and Holland to the North Sea.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is sponsored by the Mt. Baldy Council of the Women's Campus Club of Pomona College and is a benefit project for the development fund of the college.

Mrs. Milo Tigner is chairman of the series and is assisted by Mmes. Wesley Leighton, Roy Miller, Alfred Ambrogi, Charles Gill, Earle Jones, Jackson Niebrugge, Jules Plautt, Cass Arthur Reed, Stuart Wheeler, Walter Whitney and Miss Esther Ballew.

Season tickets for the series as well as single tickets for each film may be purchased at the box office. Courtesy coffee will be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance.

Methodist prayer call issued

The Week of Call to Prayer and Self-Denial will be observed at the Chino United Methodist Church with two services on Tuesday.

The 2 p.m. service will be in the social hall. Light refreshments will be served. The 6:30 p.m. service will meet in the social hall for a sacrificial meal and program.

Miss Gertrude Case, mission coordinator for Christian Personhood for United Methodist Women, will be in charge of the meetings.

Residences use 19% of the energy

Did you ever wonder where our energy supply goes? According to information received from The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, residential usage accounts for 19.2 per cent of all energy consumption, the rest being utilized by the transportation, commercial and industrial sectors.

The demand for energy in the home can be broken down in the following way: 57.5 per cent is used for space heating while 15.1 per cent heats water. Refrigerators and cooking appliances each account for 5.7 per cent of the energy consumption pie. Air conditioning cools off another 3.6 per cent and dryers spin off 1.6 per cent. The energy that is left lights our homes and runs any other appliance—large and small.

OES officials plan dinner on Tuesday

The past matrons and past patrons and trailers of Star of the West chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday for a potluck dinner.

Those attending the meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Soden, 302 Albert St., are also asked to bring their own table service.

Teri Pankey is wed in home of parents

Miss Teri Lyn Pankey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dana Pankey of Big Bear Lake, and Steven Courtright Barr, son of the Rev. and Mrs. K. Stanley Wright of Fullerton, were wed in afternoon ceremonies.

The double-ring rites were performed by Dr. Pankey, president of Pomona Valley Christian Schools.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white dotted swiss fashioned with a square neckline and long sleeves. Yellow velvet ribbon and lace accented the bridal gown. She carried a single long-stemmed white rose.

Mrs. Lorne Gunther, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cindy Barr of Los Altos and Miss Susan Barr of Toronto, Canada.

Leeann Pembroke of Yorba Linda was flower girl.

Serving as best man was Douglas Pacius of Los Altos.

Sixty guests attended the reception which followed the rites at the Pankey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Barr have returned from a honeymoon and are residing in Fullerton while the groom attends Fullerton College.

Hypnotism topic set for meeting

The community improvement projects committee of the Montclair Vista Woman's Club is sponsoring "The Wonderful World of Hypnotism" featuring Harold S. Gaffney at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 17 at the Basque Restaurant, 9191 Central Ave., Montclair.

Proceeds will go for trees for Montclair and for related projects.

Awareness stressed by clubwomen

The Pomona Woman's Club will observe "National Awareness Month" at its meeting Monday at 1:30 p.m in the Wood Lounge of the Brethren Hillcrest Homes, 2600 N. A St., La Verne.

Members will respond to roll call with items concerning persons in educational or statesmen roles in the news.

Mrs. Alta Brown will review "The Hyatt Legacy" by Shirley Hyatt Gardiner. The book deals with an educator and his family and is set in the San Bernardino, Riverside, Hemet and San Jacinto communities beginning in 1883.

Thought for the Day will be given by Mrs. Winona Crow. Honorary hostesses will be Mrs. Gail Hormell, Mrs. Neva Westfall and Mrs. Brown. Serving will be Mrs. Esther Cox and Mrs. Agnes McVaigh.

Clarmeont women schedule program

Speaker of the meeting of Woman's Club of Claremont Wednesday noon will be Dr. Jessica Haskell, president of the Organization for After-Stroke Resocialization(OASR).

DR. JESSICA HASKELL

Dr. Haskell attended Pomona College and received her advanced degrees at Columbia University. She has had a career primarily as a school psychologist in New Jersey and California; as a consultant in research and guidance in the Los Angeles County Superintendent of School's office, as an administrator at Pomona High School, with responsibilities in counseling, guidance and curriculum. She has taught at Stanford University, La Verne College and Cal State Fullerton.

Mrs. Edward Jakowczyk and members of the February Service Group will be in charge of the noon luncheon at the clubhouse, 343 W. 12th St., Claremont.

Mrs. Robert W. Jensen is in charge of decorations. Reservations may be made with Mrs. A. W. Clarke, 624-6387, or Mrs. William Seanor, 624-9361.

The Travel and Landmarks Section will meet Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the clubhouse for a potluck dinner. Clemett Neibel, a member of the Pomona Valley Historical Society, will present the program.

The Book Section's meeting will be held at the clubhouse with Mrs. Ivy Hicks presenting a book review.

The annual spring party will be held at 12:30 p.m. Feb. 27 as a ways and means event at the clubhouse. Reservations for the latter event are to be made with Mrs. Etta Wilson, 624-8503, or Mrs. Kay Karr, 982-8523, by Feb. 22. Two bridge sections will sponsor the party. Mrs. J. R. Salsbury will be the chairman.

Officer election scheduled

San Antonio Chapter of the American Association of Medical Assitants will elect officers when the group meets at Orlando's Tuesday.

A social hour is scheduled at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8 p.m

The program will include "Pats and Pans", the result of a questionnaire sent to members several months ago.

Area AAUW to study oil crisis

"Multinationals and the Oil Crisis" will be the topic for the Thursday meeting of the Claremont Branch of the American Association of University Women at 8 p.m. in the Claremont United Methodist Church.

Coffee and tea will be served at 7:45 p.m.

The speaker is Dr. Franklin Tugwell, assistant professor of government at Pomona College. He will emphasize the role that oil has played in the political history of this country and project this information into the future.

Dr. Tugwell holds a Ph. D. from Columbia University in political science. He wrote his dissertation on "Venezuela and the Petroleum Policy" and has been to Venezuela several times to study the situation firsthand. A recognized expert in the field, Dr. Tugwell has written extensively on oil policy.

Campus Women to meet

Kimble Williams, director of personnel services at the Claremont Colleges will discuss T.I.A.A. and C.R.E.F., two retirement plans, when the Campus Women of the Claremont Colleges meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be held in Founder's Room of McConnell Center at Pitzer College.

The medical insurance program offers benefits that many members are not aware of.

YW Wives to create ornaments

The Eye of God (Ojo de Dios) is a religious symbol once used by the Aztec Indians in ancient ceremonial rites. It is now used as a decorative ornament.

Instructions for making the ornaments will be given at a craft session scheduled for Tuesday by the Pomona YW Wives, Las Companeras.

The two-hour session will be instructed by Mrs. Dodorthy Willard. It will be at 9:30 a.m. at the YWCA, 207 E. Monterey St.

For information, contact the YWCA office, 622-1269.

Judge to address secretaries

Carl B. Hilliard, retired Superior Court Judge, will address the Ontario, Riverside and San Bernardino Legal Secretaries interclub meeting on Wednesday at the Arbor restaurant, Upland. The 6:30 p.m. social hour will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

Attorneys, legal secretaries or law students, their husbands, wives, escorts and friends are invited. Dinner reservations are due Monday with Mrs. Rosie Relph, 985-2880.

The Board of Governor's meeting of California Legal Secretaries, Inc., will be held in San Diego on Feb. 15, 16 and 17. Attending from the local chapter will be Mrs. Betty Gustafson, PLS, Mrs. Marjorie Cantu, PLS, Mrs. LaRelle Donnelly, governor, Mrs. Wynn Carland, Mrs. Margaret Noland and Mrs. Ginny Cherry.

Rinse face

After you've thoroughly washed your face finish with an apple cider vinegar rinse — one Tb. vinegar to one-third cup water. Splash on and pat dry. This is an ancient remedy and results can be seen immediately with tighter, firmer skin.

Birthday celebration set by Emblem Club

Emblem Club 196 will celebrate its 23rd birthday at a 6:30 p.m. dinner and meeting Tuesday at the Elks Club.

Mrs. Edwin Adams and Mrs. Harold Edmondson are chairmen. Past presidents and charter members to be honored are Mmes. John Swaim, Milton Collins, Curly Moses, William Parsonage, M. J. Delafranc, D. Anderson, Leonard Mullins, Harry Pollock, J. V. Saari, Merle Morgan, Calvin Stafford, Henry Gunski, Art Graves, Lyle Kendall, Paul Knox, Willam Stark, Ed Huffaker, Paul Serna, Inez Stephens, Harold Stott and Marvin Mahowald. Mrs. Robert Pitts, president, will greet the guests.

Officers will be elected. Members of the nominating committee are Mmes. Serna, Knox, Frank Entler, B. Jones and Fred VanDer Linde.

New members, recently honored at a tea at the home of Mrs. Lee Anderle, will be introduced. They are Mmes. Joseph Landry, Donald Klock, Lee Livesay, Richard Dempsey, Phil LaPierre, Perry Ward, Leland Timoney, B. J. Gallant, M. J. Whittaker, Jack Bailey, Randall Miller and William Plute.

Members of the Pomona club attended a Quarterly Emblem Club meeting in San Diego. Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Parsonage were chairmen. Attending were Mmes. Pitts, Al Langlois, Stott and Plute.

Winterthur Museum to be described

"Winterthur's Rooms and Gardens: A Unique Contribution to the American Arts" is the topic for the meeting of the Fine Arts Foundation of Scripps College and the Friends of Pilgrim Place at Garrison Theater, Claremont, Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Guests are welcome to attend the talk by Dr. E. McClung Fleming, educational director of the Winterthur Museum, the former H. F. DuPont home in Delaware. The program will be illustrated with colored slides of the DuPont collections and gardens.

Dr. Fleming will be the honored guest at the FAF art opening in the Lang Gallery, Scripps College, following his lecture.

The Winterthur Museum includes a room from a house built around 1684 and spans the 200 years from the 17th through 19th centuries. Representing such periods as William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Federal and Empire, the collection was completed in 1840.

While in Southern California, Dr. Fleming will also speak at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art on Feb. 11 and at Pilgrim Place, Claremont, on Feb. 13.

Republican Women will hear speaker

CARL F. DAVIS JR.

The Pomona Valley Republican Women's Club, Fed., will meet Thursday at 11:30 a.m. at The Fountains in La Verne. Members of the board are preparing the luncheon.

The speaker will be Carl F. Davis Jr., a faculty member in the political science department at Claremont Men's College. Mr. Davis is also chairman of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee's candidate and research development committee.

He serves as director of a research project on Computers in Local Government and is a consultant to the federal government in this field.

Mr. Davis's topic will be "Bureaucracy versus Local Government."

College deans chart program for council

Dr. Jean Walton, dean of students, and Pamela Wrightman, assistant dean of students at Pomona College will discuss "Choices" at the winter meeting of the Mt. Baldy Council of Pomona College Women's Campus Club, Saturday.

The meeting will begin with a luncheon at noon in Olney Dining Hall. At 1 p.m. Dean Walton and Dean Wrightman will speak.

Dr. Walton's academic background is in mathematics with an undergraduate degree at Swarthmore College and a Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania. For several years she was dean of women and more recently took over her present duties.

Dean Wrightman attended Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis., majoring in philosophy and psychology. She received her M.A. in counseling from Stanford. She came to Pomona College from Grinnell College in Iowa.

The Mt. Baldy Council is open to friends, alumnae and mothers of students at Pomona College.

Well-baby clinic to open

A well-baby clinic will be open in Walnut on the second Tuesday of each month, beginning next week. The clinic will be operated in the Optimist Club building, 19180 Camino de Gloria.

Residents of Walnut may bring their babies in for monthly check-ups by the doctor and receive immunizations at no cost. The clinic is being coordinated by the Pomona Health Center and sponsored by the Walnut Junior Women's Club.

If the baby's records are at the Pomona Health Center, parents may wish to transfer them to the new center by calling 623-6811, extension 508.

Travelers will hear member

Miss Leona Sheridan, a member of Pomona Valley Travelers, will present the program at the group's meeting Wednesday at 2 p.m. at St. Ambrose Episcopal Church in Claremont.

She will show colored slides taken during her foreign and domestic travels and interpret them through poetry.

The Travelers have scheduled a tour through Mexico from Feb. 17 to March 2. They will travel by bus to Calexico, then by train to Guadalajara, Cuernavaca, Taxso and Mexico City.

Day trip scheduled in February include a visit to Lion Country Safari on Feb. 14, Busch Gardens on Feb. 21, Descanso Gardens on Feb. 25 and the Central City Mall and Arrowhead Springs Hotel.

Spring look

Things to look for this spring — blazers without vents; straight tighter legged slacks; small sweater vests with v-necks.

On electric ranges, cooking utensils should be essentially the same diameter as the top of the element used. The size of the unit is related to the size of the pan that goes on it.

Oficina ofrece ayuda con los impuestos

POMONA — En el City Hall se ofrece ayuda a las personas que aun no han llenado sus papeles relacionados con sus impuestos personales y del estado.

Un representante del Franchise Tax Board estara en una oficina provisional en el City Hall, 505 S. Garey Ave., desde el martes 12 hasta el viernes 15 de este mes, segun instrucciones del Sr. Martin Huff, funcionario de dicha oficina.

La oficina estara abierta desde las 8:15 A.M. a las 5 de la tarde.

Habra ayuda a la disposicion de las personas que lo necesiten en la preparacion de dichos returnos, pero, el representante no puede aceptar dinero en efectivo para el pago de su deuda. Contribuyentes que intentan hacer sus pagos en la oficina provisional deberan entregar cheque o giro postal.

El Sr. Huff sugiere que las personas que esperan llenar sus returnos en esta oficina deberan traer el formulario que recibieron por correo con su nombre en la etiqueta engomada, preparada por el departamento. El uso de esta etiqueta ayudara a tramitar sus papeles mas rapidamente y el recibir un cheque si es el caso.

Programa nuevo de seguridad entra en accion

El Seguro Social ha empezado a hacer pagos mensules a personas que tienen necesidad economica y tienen 65 anos o mas, o estan ciegas o incapacitadas.

Seguridad de Ingreso Suplemental, el nombre del nuev programa, pagara con cheques de color oro para distinguir-los de los cheques de color verde del Seguro Social.

El nuevo programa asegura un pago basico mensual a las personas de edad avanzada, y a los ciegos e incapacitados que tienen poca o ninguna otra entrada.

En California estos pagos ascenderan hasta $235 a una persona de 65 anos o incapacitada, $265 a una persona ciega.

De esta cantidad $140 son pagados por el gobierno federal y el resto por el estado de California. Para una pareja, estos pagos pueden ascender de $440 a $500, de los cuales el gobierno federal para $210.

A pesar de que el Seguro Social va a administrar el nuevo programa. Seguridad de Ingreso Suplemental no es lo mismo que el Seguro Social.

Este programa sera financiado por el tesoro nacional; el Seguro Social sigue siendo financiado por la contribucion de los trabajadores y patrones. Sin embargo, una persona que recibe un cheque pequeno del Seguro Social puede calificar tambien para recibir pagos del nuevo programa.

Servicios sociales tales como estampillas para la comida, ayuda a familias con hijos menores o ayuda domestica continuaran siendo prestados por el departamento de Welfare del Condado.

Para reportar combios de direccion, el no recibo de cheques, u obtener informacion acerca de Seguridad de Ingreso Suplemental, visite cualquier oficina del Seguro Social. Las oficinas estan abiertas de 9:AM to 4:30 P.M.

La oficina del Seguro Social en Pomona esta ubicada en 445 E. Holt Ave., Pomona CA., con telefono No. (714) 629-4021.

Fertilizer crisis facing U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Humphreys, who farms 600 acres near Herrin, Ill., is clinging to the hope held out by his fertilizer dealer that he will get the same 150 tons he got last year. But like a million other American farmers, he has his fingers crossed.

He is afraid both nitrate and phosphate fertilizer will be extremely scarce come April, when he has to buy. What frightens him most is that so many fertilizer dealres have gone out of business in his area that his dealer will have to ration his stocks to supply a lot more farmers.

Humphreys' doubts are thoroughly justified, says President Edwin Wheeler of the Fertliezr Institute in Washington. "It's the most depressing situation I've ever known." Wheeler told United Press International, "and it's global. Famine is threatened by the critical fertilizer shortages in underveloped countries like Vietnam and India."

The Soviet Union announced recently it became the biggest fertliizer producer in the world in 1973, surpassing the United States. But Wheeler said India, much of whose soil is so impoverished it is totally dependent on fertilizer to grow food, has not been able to get adeuqate supplies this year from the Communist nations.

The fertilizer crunch elsewhere in Asia is extremely acute and it is even worse in Africa. In the sub-Sahara region of Africa, Nigeria, Chad, Mali, Senegal and Upper Volta, the crisis comes after years of crippling drought caused by a cyclic change in the monsoon rain pattern. The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization said this may cause the death by starvation of millions.

Dr. Norman Borlaug of the Rockefeller Foundation, who sometimes is called "the father of the green revolution," told a conference in New York recently the fertilizer shortage could lead to 20 million deaths from starvation and malnutrition in the world in the next year.

The population of India is growing by 13 million a year and last year food prices spurted 22 per cent while annual per capita income dropped slightly to $91.20. The impact of the fertilizer crisis on such a weak economy is disastrous. Pakistan and Bangladesh are hit as badly.

Even in the United States, President Nixon has found it necessary to suspend for six months the import quotas on wheat and flour as a precautionary measure.

Oklahoma wheat growers are faced with a fertilizer shortage that cost them millions of dollars and drove up the price of bread in the United States, John W. Goodwin, the state's deputy commissioner of agriculture, said.

Farmer Humphreys of Illinois said, "If I don't get enough fertilizer, I'll just have to cut down my acreage. You might be able to get by for a year with soybeans, but corn and wheat won't tolerate a reduction in nitrogen." Humphreys grows all these crops and also raises hogs and cattle, which feed on corn.

A graduate in agriculture of the Unievrsity of Illinois, Humphreys farms the 600 acres with only one other hand. In order to cultivate such a big tract he has the dealer deliver the fertilizer directly to his fields in bulk, four to six tons at a time. That costs more but saves in the long run.

"Some farmers hereabouts bought fertilizer last fall by the sack," he said, "but it makes my back ache to think about all those bags they had to pile up and store for the winter and will have to lug and spread by hand this spring. That's enough to set farming back 15 years."

The United States has both short and long term fertilizer problems, Wheeler said. "Much depends on the weather in coping with the short term crisis. If we have a long, cold spring consuming a lot of fuel for heating, the fertilizer mills won't be able to egt enough natural gas feedstock and will be forced to cut the output of ammonia, the most important source of nitrates. Then there would not be nearly enough nitrates for the wheat, corn and cotton crops."

He explained that the United States has both a capacity and a raw material shortage in nitrates. Phosphate also may be somewhat short in supply this year, mainly because of high export demand. But only two new ammonia plants are being built in the country at present.

"We ought to have 10 building," Wheeler said, "but with raw material not available and with the price of building a 1,000-ton ammonia plant having skyrocketed in a few years from $35 million to $80 million or $90 million, there's not sufficient incentive to build new plants."

Like some other American industries, the fertilizer makers overexpanded and built too much new capacity for current needs in the 1960s, Wheeler explained. This led to very depressed prices in the late 1960s and European and Asiatic fertilizer producers even accused the U.S. industry of dumping fertilizer abroad below cost just to keep its mills running.

Then demand all over the world grew rapidly, caused partly by growing affluence that enabled people everywhere to buy more food and to some extent by soil deterioration, making it necessary to put more fertilizer into the ground to get a crop.

Next came the energy shortage, creating tight supplies of natural gas feedstock for fertilizer in the United states and of naphtha feedstock in other countries. Last year's fertilizer shortage in the United States was blamed on the Nixon administration's price controls, which held domestic prices down while inflation ran up costs. Meanwhile, the rest of the world bid up the export price of American fertilizer sharply.

The Arab oil embargo aggravated the shortage tremendously. The lifting of domestic price controls came too late to do any good for domestic fertilizer supply this year, Wheeler said.

For the present, there is little hope of rapid improvement in the situation, he said. "It has been suggested new ammonia plants be built in western Canada where there is plenty of gas, but hauling vast amounts of ammonia either in tank cars or by pipeline from places like Medicine Hat to the heart of the U.S. grain belt would be a terrific undertaking."

Man is much more dependent on fertilizer than in the past. Crop yields per acre must be maximized to feed a vastly increased populace that insists on ever higher standards of living.

The supply of natural fertilizers such as manures and Chile's sodium nitrate is grossly inadequate. Nitrates are by far the most important fertilizer. For many crops, mixtures of nitrates, phosphates and potash are used.

Nitrogen is abundant in the air and is relatively easy to extract but in order to mix it with the soil as fertilizer it must be fixed in liquid or solid form. It took chemists many decades to find satisfactory ways to accomplish this. Some ammonia is made as a byproduct of cooking metallurgical coal and there are a few plants in foreign countries making ammonia from ordinary coal but Wheeler said these plants are inefficient and troublesome.

Nevertheless, some American fertilizer producers are trying hard to develop processes to make ammonia cheaply from ordinary coal. American Metal Climax Corp., which owns coal mines, is working hard on such a process.

To make ammonia, you must combine nitrogen and hydrogen. Natural gas supplies the hydrogen and the heat to extract the nitrogen from air and to combine the two elements.

The question of whether, in the years ahead, the United States can rely on a supply of natural gas for fertilizer is not easy to answer. If the electric power industry converts to coal and nuclear energy and less gas is used for heating, and if vast amounts of gas are made from coal, then there probably will be plenty of gas ultimately for fertilizer feedstock. Also some petroleum experts claim that vast reserves of gas remain undiscovered in the United States, particularly under the Atlantic ocean along the continental shelf. But it will take a long time to find out.

Teamster chief sees independent truckers as threat to union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's political alliance with the Teamsters Union has complicated efforts by striking independent truckers to win concessions from the administration.

Teamster President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Nixon's staunchest labor supporter, condemned the strike and urged all of his members to keep their trucks rolling.

Perhaps as many as half or more of the independent drivers who own their own rigs are members of the Teamsters, often being forced to join in order to remain in business.

Most of them apparently are hostile or indifferent to the union, feeling that it is geared to benefit drivers who work for employers more than it helps the independent drivers who really are small businessmen rather than employes.

For his part, Fitzsimmons views the independents and their organizations as a threat to his union, as possible rival organizations that might take some of his members away. The Teamsters Union is the nation's largest, with 2.1 million members, but only about 400,000 of those are truck drivers.

Fitzsimmons' fears are well grounded, and may be heightened by the settlement reached between the administration and the independent trucker negotiations Thursday on the nationwide strike.

William J. Hill, president of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers, said the settlement had given the independents "recognition" by the government as a "separate and distinct" segment of the trucking industry, with special problems of its own that need special solutions.

For instance, the Teamsters' national trucking contract provides a per-hour or per-mile wage scale for employe drivers. But this scale is not applicable to the independent drivers who must buy, maintain and insure their own rigs.

Hill said he foresees formation of a coalition of independent truckers in the aftermath of the fuel strike. Eventually, he said, this coalition might in part function as a union, bargaining for the independents with their customers and before government regulatory agencies.

This would make it a rival to the Teamsters Union, and could bring on a battle between the two for the right to represent the independent truckers.

Leonard Fleet, an attorney representing some of the independent truckers, suspects that Fitzsimmons, seeing the danger to his union, put pressure on the White House to resist the demands of the strikers.

As Fleet put it, "The historical alliance between the Teamsters and the White House played some role in the lethargy and delay of response by the administration to the trucker demands. The White House acted only after the need of the nation for relief became paramount."

15 m.p.g.--or more--full-size cars expected in 3-4 years

DETROIT (UPI) — Full-sized cars that deliver no less than 15 miles per gallon in city and suburban driving will be a reality in three or four years, said General Motors Corp. chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg.

Facing threats that Washington will set a timetable to force Detroit to build cars that use less gasoline, Gerstenberg said Thursday the 15 m.p.g. goal is just a minimum. He said GM already is switching to more economical engines to meet customer demand.

"I think there still is a good market for a full-size car, but we have to be innovative enough to find some way to get a rather substantial improvement in fuel economy for a larger car," Gerstenberg said.

The standard-size car now gets about 9 or 10 m.p.g. in normal city and suburban driving, he said.

Gerstenberg met with newsmen following a conference on areas of public concern in which he told financial and institutional investors that the word "profit" has become a "grubby, selfish sound." He warned that none of our national goals can be accomplished unless business is allowed to earn a fair return on its investment.

The sharp drop in big car sales in the final three months of 1973 saw GM profits drop 22.5 per cent from the final quarter of 1972. GM, with its heavy dependence on standardsized cars, was hit hardest by the shift as people began worrying about keeping gasoline tanks full.

Switching its entire line of 1975 model cars, with the exception of the sub-compact Chevrolet Vega to catalytic mufflers to control emission should result in an average 13 per cent fuel economy boost, he said.

A high GM official confirmed that only the Vega's four-cylinder engine would be able to meet government emission standards without the catalytic converter. The emission control device is expected to add $100-$125 to the price of 1975 model cars.

The search for more economical engines, however, does not include buying V-6 engines from American Motors, Gerstenberg said. The smallest of the major automakers was considering reopening its Toledo, Ohio engine plant if GM had been interested in the V-6 engine.

Mao's problem

Revolution never ends

HONG KONG (UPI) — One of the cornerstones of Mao Tsetung's philosophy is that a successful revolution never ends.

The trouble the 80-year-old Chinese Communist party chairman had for years was finding a way to sustain revolutionary momentum after the fighting phase had ended.

"In the past," he lamented in the early 1960's, "we waged struggles in rural areas, in factories, in the cultural field, and we carried out the socialist education movement. But all this failed to solve the problem because we did not find a form, a method, to arouse the broad masses to expose our dark aspect openly, in an all round way and from below."

Then, in the mid-1960's, he thought he found the answer. He called it the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution. Once he set this movement in motion, it turned China into a political battleground that created widespread chaos and brought bloodshed.

The Cultural Revolution, Mao said at the time, "is a great political revolution against the bourgeoisie and all other exploiting classes; it is a continuation of the prolonged struggle waged by the Chinese Communist party and the masses of revolutionary people under its leadership..."

The party's theoretical journal (Red Flag Magazine) and newspaper (People's Daily) said in a joint editorial in 1967 that Mao's "important theory" had "solved the most important fundamental question, that of carrying on revolution under the dictatorship of the proletariat."

This, the editorial said, had advanced "Marxism-Leninism to a completely new stage, the stage of Mao Tse-tung's thought."

The next year (1968), Mao told the party leaders that "the current Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution is absolutely necesssary and most timely for consolidating the dictatorship of the proletariat, preventing capitalist restoration and building socialism."

Mao also said many more would be necessary if communism is to maintain its hold over China.

"The present Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution is only the first; there will inevitably be many more in the future. The issue of who will win in the revolution can only be settled over a long historical period...Let no one in the party or among the people in our country think that everything will be all right after one or two great Cultural Revolutions, or three or four."

Mao's Cultural Revolution dimmed but never really died.

When China entered the 1970s Peking swung sharply away from the radical policies that had prevailed during the most hectic period of the Cultural Revolution. One of the most dramatic developments in this swing towards moderation was rapprochement with the United States.

Even while the new policies were being pushed by Premier Chou En-Lai, serious infighting was going on behind the scenes. This was a continuation of the Cultural Revolution. Two victims of that struggle played key roles in the early, most critical stages of the Cultural Revolution. One, former defense minister and heir apparent to Mao, Lin Piao, died when he tried to overthrow the chairman. Another, Mao's former personal secretary, Chen Po-ta, was purged. Both were denounced by name at the party's 10th national congress last August.

In this political report that denounced them, Chou said, "we still face heavy tasks in our Socialist revolution. The tasks of struggle-criticism - transformation in the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution need to be carried on in a thorough-going way on all fronts."

"First of all," he added, "we should continue to do a good job of criticizing Lin Piao and rectifying style of work."

Wang Hung-wen, a youthful newcomer to the party leadership (he was elected as one of five party vice chairman), reminded his party colleagues that "we must have the revolutionary spirit of daring to go against the tide."

Wang's remarks were taken as a signal for stepped up political struggle, but in a controlled, non-violent manner.

At the same time, a long campaign against the ancient sage Confucius began to develop on a wide scale. It moved out of the realm of the intellectuals into more mundane areas.

The campaign against Lin, the criticism of Confucius, the program of "daring to go against the tide" provoked the most intense public debate since the height of the Cultural Revolution.

The scale and scope of the debate has widened considerably since the beginning of the year, when Mao personally warned intellectuals against going too far in criticism of party leaders and policies.

Mao's warning only fanned the fires of debate.

The criticism campaigns, all of which have become intertwined, are regarded by most China specialists here as a major power struggle, involving many factions.

A few see it as a "neo-Cultural Revolution," the beginning of a new upheaval, Mao's last fling.

It seems premature to describe it as a "new" Cultural Revolution. A better description probably would be to call it a more active and more public phase of the original, which many Chinese leaders have said is continuing.

There can be no doubt about the seriousness of the current struggle. It already has forced the leadership to postpone—at least once and possibly several times—plans for convening the long-delayed 4th National People's Congress (NPC), China's legislature.

There has been no violence or disorder so far. There are no signs that any can be anticipated. But in the upside-down world of Chinese politics anything can happen.

The most ominous development has been what one diplomat described as a "whiff of xenophobia," a characteristic of the most violent period of the Cultural Revolution in the 1960s.

Featherless canary needs warmer cage

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: What can you do for a canary who has suddenly lost most of her feathers? Parts of her look like a plucked chicken. I never saw such a sad-looking bird in all of my life. At least not one that was alive. Twitter seems perky, though, and eats and acts all right. Could I knit her a sweater or something? — F.O.

Dear F.O.: Unfortunately, Twitter is not the sweater girl type. She wouldn't wear it gracefully. What she does need, is a hospital-type cage until, hopefully, she is able to grow her own "sweater.' In other words, her cage should be covered with clear plastic on all sides except the front to minimize drafts, and the temperature should be plus or minus 80 degrees. . .You can judge more exactly by her appearance of comfort or lack of it. (She probably would not even be able to eat enough to keep herself warm at the currently recommended 67 degrees.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is there anything strange about a kitten that won't do anything but nibble at its food? It doesn't look sick or act that way, but it certainly is a strange eater compared to all of the dogs I have ever had. The kitten eats so slowly we throw out its food two or three times a day and give it fresh.

It seems to like this but it doesn't eat the fresh food any faster than the old food. Do kittens eat slowly because of baby teeth? Puppies I used to have never did. Is it just a matter of training a kitten to eat properly and, if so, please tell me how you go about it. —J.D.

Dear J.D.: A well-nourished kitten is much less likely to gulp its food than is a puppy. In fact, many normal kittens and cats nibble all day long rather than consuming their food in a single sit-down meal or two. There is nothing wrong with this approach, actually. In fact, it is desirable from the standpoint of digestibility and of giving them something to do. While kittens could be taught to eat more rapidly by feeding them only very tiny amounts when they are quite hungry, this is not to be recommended. The leisurely approach to the food is preferable, provided, of course, the over-all consumption is within the desirable range.

Passengers rave

Reno Fun Train–it's the only way to go

RENO (UPI) — Reno's tourist economy received a transfusion of 540 Californians recently — all of the m convinced the Reno Fun Train is the only way to go.

"I'm for the train," Betsy O'Brien, San Francisco, said.

"You see so much more on the train and it's very relaxing."

Her sentiments were echoed all around the AMTRAK depot here. No one even minded the 20 degree weather, although several passengers were surprised to find themsleves suddenly sitting down on the icy pavement.

The most common reason why they took the train: "It's a fun train. I took it for fun," Miss O'Brien said.

She was one of more than 200 retired employes of the city of San Francisco who came as a group.

But many of the passengers took their first ride on the train from San Francisco to Reno because of the gasoline shortage.

"I have two cars sitting at home with full tanks of gas," Norman Stoddard, Walnut Creek, said. He said he and his wife Miriam have visited their sons in Reno many times, but always made the trip by car.

And the train won them over: "There's no other way to go," Mrs. Stoddard said. "It was beautiful, but I didn't get to do any backseat driving."

He agreed saying he spent most of the time in the train's bar—a luxury automobiles cannot offer.

Ferrigno Nelder of San Francisco, said she also took the train because of the gasoline shortage, "but now you couldn't get me into flying or onto a bus again. It was great."

All passengers interviewed said the trip was almost without a hitch—good food, no problems and an almost forgotten spirit of camaraderie, all of which should provide a much needed boost for the trouble-plagued AMTRAK.

Even though AMTRAK officials said the train left San Francisco behind schedule, it arrived 10 minutes early at 5:20 p.m.

The train was the first of 11 Reno Fun Trains this year—the tenth anniversary of the Reno Chamber of Commerce sponsored excursion.

Police suspicious as muffler 'mooed'

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Police stopped a car with a noisy muffler and discovered four stolen calves hidden in the trunk.

"The trunk," explained officer Henry Yoneyama, "went 'moo'." The calves were set free at the county farm and cattle rustling charges were lodged against Thomas Wayman, 19, and Raymond Carter, 20.

Walton paces UCLA, 80-75, over Beavers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — All-American center Bill Walton scored 31 points and gathered in 19 rebounds as UCLA posted a hard-fought 80-75 victory over Oregon State in a Pacific-8 Conference game at Pauley Pavilion Saturday night.

The Beavers, who trailed by as many as 13 in the second half, closed it to 63-60 with six minutes left on a jumper by 6-7 freshman Don Smith and stayed within five points through most of the closing minutes.

Smith led the Oregon State attack wih 16 points. Freshman Marques Johnson had 16 for UCLA while his Bruin teammate Keith Wilkes and Dave Meyers had 15 and 13 each.

Down 19-14 after the first 10 minutes, the Bruins erupted for 14 straight points in just over three minutes and then coasted to a 40-30 halftime lead.

UCLA stretched its margin to 53-40 and threatened to make it a rout, but then Oregon State out-scored the Bruins 11-2 to make it 55-51 with 10:39 remaining.

The Beaver comeback was spearheaded by guard Rich Plante, who finished with 10 points, and guard Ron Jones, who wound up with 12. The win pushed UCLA's record to 18-1 overall and 7-0 in the Pac-8 conference, While Oregon State's mark fell to 9-10 and 2-5.

The victory was UCLA's 50th straight conference win over five seasons and its 63rd win in a row at Pauley Pavilion. It also was the Beavers' 15th straight loss to the Bruins, who lead 31-11 in a series which started in 1937.

The two teams play again next Friday night at Corvallis, Ore.

Trojans buck Ducks' rough tactics, 59-53

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — USC moved into a tie for second place in the Pacific Eight Conference basketball race Saturday night, but it certainly wasn't easy.

The Trojans had to battle the aggressive Oregon Ducks all the way in taking a 59-53 victory at the Sports Arena before 7,341 fans, the largest this season for a USC home game.

The close victory gives USC a 5-2 PAC-8 record to share the runnerup honors with the Ducks, who are now a full two games behind UCLA.

Things could change next weekend when the Trojans and Bruins go to Oregon. USC plays the same Ducks Friday at Eugene while UCLA visits Oregon St. to open the weekend trip.

Saturday's game was nip and tuck all the way with both teams exchanging leads after a 22-22 halftime deadlock.

The Trojans were in good shape after Bob Trowbridge sank two free throws with 1:34 left and Gus Williams hit for one with 1:12 remaining to make it 57-53.

Oregon had its chance to cut the margin but Ron Lee, the Ducks' top player, missed the first shot of a one-and-one with 11 seconds left in the game. USC grabbed the rebound and iced the win when Trowbridge scored on a layup with four seconds left.

Oregon was just as rough Saturday as it was Friday against UCLA, but the Ducks' aggressive tactics didn't upset the Trojans as much as the Bruins.

There were 46 fouls called Saturday—23 on both teams—but no technicals.

Oregon played the way I thought they would," said USC coach Bob Boyd. "We have no complaints about the way they played. As far as I'm concerned, it was a good rugged, solid basketball game. Who's to say it shouldn't be that way?"

Pomona's Greg Ballard, the freshman from Garey High, enjoyed a much better performance Saturday in the second game of his Southern California homecoming.

Ballard led both teams with 15 rebounds. He also scored 10 points in making 2 of 6 field goals and six of seven free throws before fouling out on a rugged collision with Trowbridge with 16 seconds left in the game. The officials ruled it a double foul as both players fell to the floor.

USC guard Gus Williams, who didn't play in the first half because of a bruised knee suffered in Friday's win over Oregon State, came through in the second half after being taped. He scored 12 points during the final minutes in making five of eight shots.

Dan Anderson, the other half of USC's talented guard corp, topped the Trojans with 18 points with Trowbridge and Biff Burrell both tallying 10. The Trojans two big men, John Lambert and Mike Westra were held to four and two.

Lee led the Ducks with 16 but he had a hard time getting any open shots against Anderson.

Oregon, which shot a miserable 25.9 per cent in the first half, ended up at 38.5 while USC shot 47.8 per cent.

"We didn't execute our offense very well tonight," Boyd said. "It's hard to against a defense as strong as Oregon's."

The Tojans will be risking their nearly-earned runnerup spot before the frenzied fans at Oregon Friday.

"It's going to be rugged and quite a battle," Boyd added.

Monzon wins, retains title

PARIS UPI) — Carlos Monzon of Argentina, swinging his massive right fist like a sledgehammer, pounded challenger Jose Napoles into defeat Saturday night and successfully defended his world middleweight boxing title for the ninth consecutive time.

Napoles, bleeding from the nose and right eye and clearly behind on points, failed to come out of his corner for the seventh round.

He thus lost his chance of becoming only the fourth man in the world to hold both the world welterweight and middleweight championships.

The Mexican, 33, outweighed and outreached by the 31-year-old Monzon, opened as the aggressor, but his strength failed to last under the Argentinian's hammer blows.

Monzon was totally unmarked and showed no signs of distress and when he sensed Napoles was tiring, he began to turn on the pressure—with predictable results.

Round four saw the start of Napoles' deterioration when, apparently disheartened by the lack of his effect of his punches, he let Monzon begin to take the initiative.

Doctor Ferdie Pacheco, who is one of Muhammed Ali's physicians, examined Napoles after the fight and said: "Napoles was hit in the eye with a thumb. He couldn't see any more. It was Angelo Dundee (Ali's manager who was in Napoles's corner) who stopped the fight."

Pachecho said: "It was the same thing that happened to Bouttier."

French middleweight Jean-Claude Bouttier failed to come out of his corner for the 13th round of his June 1972 fight with Monzon and complained afterwards he got a thumb in the eye.

Pacheco said Napoles also had a slight cut in his right eye.

Pacheco did not say when Napoles got his eye injury, but things began to go wrong for him in the fifth round.

Monzon occupied the center of the ring and refused to be moved by the Mexican's attacks. He returned punch-for-punch and his famous right landed time and again in Napole' face, at one time forcing the Mexican to retreat into a corner and use the ropes to get out of trouble.

It was the same pattern in the sixth round, the one that was to prove the last.

Despite cries of encouragement from 400-500 Mexican supporters, the sting had mostly gone from Napoles' blows and Monzon, towering four inches above Napoles, put his right fist to work with great effect.

Monzon weighed 159 pounds for the bout while Napoles weighed 153.

Monzon, a one-time shoeshine boy and now a Sante Fe rancher, recorded his 83rd victory against three defeats and nine draws. He has not lost since 1964 and he has never been knocked out.

He has now successfully defended his title nine times since winning it by knocking out Italian Nino Benvenuti Nov. 7, 1970. Benvenuti was at ringside Saturday night.

The loss was the seventh for Napoles against 72 wins.

Saturday night's defeat spoiled Napoles' dream of achieving what only three other world welterweight champions have done before —win the middleweight crown while holding the welterweight title.

The only fighters to accomplish that feat were Americans Sugar Ray Robinson, Carmen Basilio and Emile Griffith.

A total 11,000 fans paid between $30 and $140 to attend Saturday night's fight, which was promoted by French movie star Alain Delon.

Monzon, leaving his hotel later, said: "The fight was too easy. I was hoping to have a good match with Napoles but it was just too easy. I never really got started.

"My next fight will be against (Rodrigo) Valdez (of Colombia)."

His manager, Tito Lectoure, said the Valdez fight probably would be in May in Buenos Aires.

Bob Hope Desert Classic

Yancey maintains lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Bert Yancey didn't play well Saturday by his own admission, but he still managed a three under par 69 for a three-stroke lead on Hubert Green with one round to go in the 90-hole $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Yancey didn't make any bogies on his card of 36-33, and he had three birdies, just enough to hold off Green and Johnny Miller, both of whom shot 69s to set up a six-shot difference for Sunday's final.

"It was a very uneventful round," said Yancey of his play Saturday, and it probably was, coming on the heels of an 11 under par 61 the day before when he bolted into the lead. "Everything went in the hole Friday but not on Saturday. Really, it was a dull round. But I like my chances with a three-stroke lead."

Both Yancey and Green played Bermuda Dunes, the toughest of the Hope courses, on Saturday while Miller, winner of three straight events at the start of the year, got his 69 at easier Indian Wells.

Yancey thus had a four-round total of 15 under par 273, Green was at 276 and Miller at 279. Another shot back at 280 was John Mahaffey, who had a 68 Saturday, while Lee Elder, Mark Hayes and David Graham were at 281, and Mike McCullough, John Lister and Labron Harris were at 282.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer shot his best round of the tournament—a three under 69 —but was far back in the pack at 289, a shot ahead of San Diego Open Champ Bobby Nichols.

The cut was set at 293 and an even 70 players made it. Among those who didn't were former Masters champion Bob Goalby, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Dave Stockton, Gardner Dickinson, Bob Lunn, Orville Moody and Clive Clark, who got the tournament's only ace with a seven iron on the 15th at Indian Wells in the fourth round.

It was another perfect day for golf in the California Desert country and the play showed it. Ken Still had the day's best round among 53 players who broke par—an eight under 64 at La Quinta. That put him in a group at 285, 12 shots off the lead.

Green already was in the clubhouse with his 69 when Yancey went to the 17th tee. Yancey's lead was only a stroke at that point but he rolled in birdie putts on both that hole and the final one for his three-stroke edge.

Green had four birdies and one bogey on his card and said he could have shot better.

"I wasn't thinking real good," said Green. "I hit some good iron shots and I feel I'm in pretty good shape."

Miller, with six birdies and three bogeys, said he could have shot a 65 with more decent putting.

"If I drive it good tomorrow," Miller said, "I could shoot 60. I'd love to win this tournament. I'm not out of it."

Swann planning for bright future

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Wide receiver Lynn Swann wants to be a top pro player, a successful real estate dealer and an actor.

"But not necessarily in that order," said the All-American from Southern California, who was drafted No. 1 by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"The average life of a pro player is 4.7 years and I want to make the most of it. I'm confident I can be the best wide receiver with whatever team I play for," he said.

Which naturally led to the question if he was considering an offer from the World Football League.

"I did talk to Steve Arnold, one of the owners of the league," Swann said. "But I'm leaving all the financial matters to my attorney, Howard Slusher. I trust him and I know he'll make the deal that will best assure me financial security."

Articulate, and choosing his words carefully, Lynn said he must consider the benefits offered him.

"I'll do the playing, my lawyer will do the negotiating," he said. "I know he must weigh the advantages of a new league against an established league."

Swann said originally he had a desire to be first string.

"At first it appeared playing second string would not have provided the incentive as being first string. But I realize now I must play well at second string so I'll be prepared if I get the call for the first team," he said.

Lynn said he must look beyond football in his future.

"I must prepare myself so that I can get along without football someday," he said. "I have friends in California who are in real estate but I do want to play pro football. There are fantastic opportunities for real estate in California. I'm also interested in public relations."

Swann said acting appeals to him.

"I spent two summers in acting—doing bit parts at Universal Studios, Warner Brothers and MGM," he said. "I want to play roles requiring serious artistic interpretations. The role Al Pacino played in 'The Godfather' is one requiring talent and poise. That's my aim in the theater."

Memphis of the World Football League drafted Swann, and there is a possibility the franchise may be moved to Portland, Ore. Swann was asked if the move to the West Coast would have any influence in making a choice of what league he would sign with.

"Well, I just have not thought of that," he replied.

Asked what problems he anticipated if he joined the pros, Swann replied:

"I'll be meeting players who have gone through the learning process. Players of higher caliber. Many college receivers had trouble with zones—but I don't think I'll have that problem. One of my strengths in college was recognizing zones, knowing what moves to make."

A Steeler spokesman said Swann would not sign soon because his lawyer was not present.

"We have no idea when and if he will sign," he said.

Lionel Taylor, Steeler receiving coach, was asked what he thought of Swann's physical dimensions for a wide receiver —5-10, 178 pounds.

"If he can run, jump and catch a football, he'll be okay," Taylor replied.

Kings now tied for fourth, 2-1

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Bob Nevin and Butch Goring scored Los Angeles goals Saturday night to give the Kings a 2-1 National Hockey League victory over the St. Louis Blues.

The Kings moved into a tie with the Atlanta Flames for the fourth and final playoff position in the NHL's Western Division.

The Kings and Flames play Sunday in a nationally televised game.

Goring scored the winning goal at 2:23 of the third period on a 25-foot slap shot in front of the crease. The goal was scored 23 seconds before Butch Williams scored the Blues' only goal from a crowd in front of the Los Angeles net.

Nevin's goal past Wayne Stephenson came at 1:46 of the second period.

The first period was enlivened by a fight in which Los Angeles' Dan Maloney pounded St. Louis' Pierre Plante. Don Awrey of the Blues was given a game misconduct penalty for being the third man in a fight and Mike Corrigan of the Kings was given a game misconduct for leaving the bench.

Fuentes signs for $70,000

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Slickfielding Tito Fuentes, who set a National League record for fewest errors by a second baseman last season, became the highest paid player at his position with the San Francisco Giants Saturday when he signed his 1974 contract in excess of $70,000.

Fuentes, at 30 the oldest San Francisco player in point of service as well as age, committed only six errors in 1973 to better the NL mark of seven set by the late Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson 22 years ago.

Vet McKeever tabbed by WFL

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Marlin McKeever, a 13-year veteran of the National Football League, Friday was named director of player relations for the NFL's new rival, the World Football League.

McKeever will serve as a special assistant to WFL president Gary Davidson, it was announced. The new league is scheduled to open play in mid-July.

Marquette upset by Creighton

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Poised and disciplined Creighton, behind a 25-point performance from center Doug Brookins, upset fifth-ranked Marquette 75-69 Saturday night, handing the Warriors their third loss at home in six years.

The 18th-ranked Bluejays used patient passing to break the vaunted Marquette press and forced the Warriors into committing numerous turnovers themselves.

Creighton, 18-4, broke from a 32-32 halftime tie to build a seven-point lead midway through the second half and held on for the victory.

THE AGONY OF DEFEAT — Garey High's Sergio Godoy struggles to get off the mat as Upland's Jack Glasheen has the upper hand in their match in Saturday's SAL wrestling finals. Glasheen never did pin Godoy, but did score a 5-0 decision win over the Viking grappler.

Highlanders roll in SAL mat finals

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO—Upland High, backed by four first place winners, crushed their San Antonio League rivals Saturday to win the SAL team wrestling title.

But it was Claremont's sophomore Jeff Whitton who captured the Chino High crowd's applause, as he and Upland Highlander Richard Hermocillo staged a thrilling 194-pound battle in the championship finals.

Although the league finals saw few upsets and only two pins in the championship bouts, there was still plenty of excitement as second place in league rode on the performances of Claremont and Garey High.

The Wolfpack, thanks to a spirited effort topped by Whitton's decisioning Hermocillo, edged the Vikings in team scoring 81.5 to 80 to claim the second spot in SAL behind Upland.

The two teams had finished league matches with identical 3-2 records.

Host Chino wound up fourth in the finals, followed by Montclair and Ganesha.

In individual bouts, several standout grapplers got to exhibit their technique before the appreciative audience. Upland's Jim Copp won the 98-pound class by edging Garey's Randy Dexter. In the 106's Cowboy Larry Imbach scored an impressive decision win over Tim Farley of Montclair in their championship bout.

Perhaps the premier matchup of the afternoon occurred in the 115-pound division, where Jack Glasheen of the victorious Highlanders wrestled to a hard-fought decision over Garey's Sergio Godoy.

Two of the few setbacks Upland suffered took place in the 123 and 130 pound classes, where Gary Bronner of Claremont decisioned Upland's Doug Stone and Cowboy Randy Lako got the duke over Dave Barmakian of the Highlanders.

Don Fields got Upland back on the championship track with a big 13-5 decision over Tom Larry of the Vikes in the 136's, while Bruce Barmakian also scored for the Highlanders in the 141's, beating Ganesha's James Gadson in a rugged battle.

Barmakian's triumph virtually assured Upland of the team title at the finals, but there were still several interesting bouts on tap.

Chino's Mark Roberts defended his SAL title by scoring a tough decision over Randy Coste of the Wolfpack in a 148-pound match. In the 157's, Rob Chew of Claremont scored one of the few pins on the evening, nailing Garey's Scott Roque to the mat at 3:22 of their bout.

Ganesha had one of its few highlights on the afternoon when Charles Stewart of the Giants won the 168-pound division over Corey Chapman of Upland. Chapman had re-injured his shoulder in an earlier bout and did not want to risk that tender shoulder against the rugged Stewart.

Mike O'Connor of Claremont showed he is indeed the class of the 178's, decisioning talented Dave Allen of Upland in their battle.

The 194-pound match between Whitton and Hermocillo was a classic, with the two wrestlers finishing in a 6-6 tie after the regulation three periods. Whitton suffered a cut mouth very early in the bout, but gamely continued. Hermocillo also was showing a little red, as he incurred a bloddy nose later in the fray.

But Whitton finally broke the deadlock in the third overtime period to defeat his tired but game opponent.

John Surby had little trouble defending his heavyweight crown, as he pinned Gary Cravens of Ganesha at 1:36 of their title bout. Surby remains undefeated on the year.

Bucs tease MSAC again

WALNUT — Orange Coast College outlasted Mt. San Antonio, 68-63, Saturday night to keep pace with Santa Ana in the South Coast Conference basketball race.

While the victory kept Coast in a tie for first place with the Dons at 6-1, the loss eliminated MSAC from the title picture.

The Mounties are 2-5, four games off the pace of the front runners with only three games left on the schedule.

Six unanswered points by OCC at the outset of Saturday night's contest became the decisive margin of victory, but it was anyone's game until the final seconds.

The Mounties went to the wire with the Pirates in their first meeting in the first round of conference play before falling, 65-61.

In that one, the loss was the personification of frustration, and it wasn't any different for the Mounties Saturday.

If anything, it was harder to swallow. In the end they could have won it, but Coast got the points it needed when it needed them and MSAC didn't.

Sophomore center Gary Nash, in a brilliant first half, pepped the Mounties to a 35-35 tie at halftime by scoring 21 points and pulling in 16 rebounds.

His performance was effectively blunted in the final 20 minutes however, as the Pirates matched him up with 6-foot-7 Dean Bogdan who came off the bench to can 10 points on soft outside jumpers.

Nash managed only four points and five rebounds in the second half to finish with 25 points and 21 rebounds.

Guard Tom Crump complimented Bogdan's second half performance by pumping in his first five shots from the corner for 10 of his 14-point total.

Forward Bob Manker was high for the Pirates with 17, 13 coming in the first half.

The win was Coast's 20th in 27 games on the season, while the Mounties dipped to 8-17. Both squads return to action Wednesday. MSAC visits Cerrits (4-3) and Orange Coast hosts Fullerton. Santa Ana visits winless San Diego Mesa.

Whittier remains unbeaten, 77-68

Poets too much for 'Hens

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

WHITTIER — Defending conference champion Whittier had a little too much of everything for Pomona-Pitzer's young basketball team Saturday night at Whittier.

The "everything" included experience, size, and recent competition. While the Sagehens seemed to have to play three seasons with long breaks at Christmas and the semester, the 'Hen's recent opponents Azusa Pacific and Whittier, have been able to keep sharp through frequent competition.

Pomona-Pitzer led briefly, 4-2, at the beginning of the game. Otherwise the Poets were in charge most of the time. The Pomonans kept charging back, but whenever they got close, Whittier would spurt briefly enroute to a 77-68 victory.

"They were definitely ready for their zone," observed Pomona coach Les Nagler. "I'm glad we were able to come back like we did. I think we needed these two games to get back into form. We should be ready for Claremont-Mudd."

After a 16-day layoff, the Sagehens have met Azusa Pacific and conference leader Whittier back-to-back. Another conference game is on tap Monday night at Claremont-Mudd.

Pomona-Pitzer is now 2-4 in conference play, Whittier is 7-0.

The Sagehens opened the game in their usual 2-3 zone. But after the 'Hens had taken the 4-2 lead, Whittier scored four unanswered baskets and eventually spurted 15-point lead, 27-12.

At this point, Nagler switched to a man-to-man defense and the Pomonans gradually worked their way back to within two points 35-33 on Brandon Boyd's bucket with 3:50 left in the half.

But the Poets spurted again and led by eight at the half, 43-35.

Whittier couldn't hit when the second half began, missing its first seven shots. Unfortunately, the Sagehens weren't much better although they finally did close to within three points, 44-41.

Then the Pomonans went stone cold. Al Hardin hit for the Poets. Jeoff Northrup missed for the Sagehens. Caldwell rebounded and Hardin connected again. Northrup missed again and Paul Caldwell hit for Whittier. Carter and Stewart missed shots for Pomona-Pitzer and Hardin scored again for the Poets and was fouled. He made it a three-point play by sinking the free throw, 43-41.

That's the way it went the rest of the game. The Sagehens would charge back to within five or six points and Whittier would spurt.

Cougars down SCC, continue win streaks

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific utilized its balanced scoring attack Saturday night as four starters hit for double figures en route to an 83-72 win over Southern California College.

Dennis Vanzant (18), Rick Reed (17), Mike Leatherby (16) and Roger Cahoon (12) all recorded double marker performances as APC recorded its 10th straight win and 22 in a row at home.

The Cougars dominated every department including a 47-23 rebounding and a 53-43 field goal percentage advantage.

Vanzant led the victors with 13 rebounds while Cahoon hit four of five from the field to continue his torrid shooting streak. In the last six games, the 6-7 center has connected on 36 of 41 shot attempts.

Poly trio paces 4-3 win

SAN DIEGO — Cal Poly rallied for two runs in the ninth inning Saturday afternoon to nip San Diego State, 4-3, on the Aztec diamond.

The Broncos, 1-1 on the young season, visit Pepperdine Tuesday before playing Long Beach State a twinbill Wednesday.

Clay Harris and Steve Ludewig opened the ninth with singles and advanced to second and third on Steve Bruecker's sacrifice. Harris scored on a wild pitch to tie the game, 3-3, and Ludewig crossed home plate with the winning run by vitue of Dick Parkhouse's single.

Poly took a 1-0 lead in the third frame on Steve Thompson's single and Monte Cloward's double.

Tom Vickery put the Aztecs ahead, 2-1, in the fourth when he jumped on a Dee King pitch and blasted a two-run homer.

The Broncs knotted the game 1-1 in the seventh when Harris singled, Ludewig sacrificed and Parkhouse singled to plate Harris.

But the Aztecs scored a run in the home half of the frame to regain a momentary lead.

Parkhouse, Harris and Cloward all collected two hits each to pace Poly's eight-hit attack.

King went the distance, striking out four and walking two, to notch his first win of the campaign.

Chaffey wins; Citrus fails

Chaffey College found its trip to San Diego was worth while Saturday night, but Citrus College didn't enjoy it as much.

Chaffey, presently in second place in the Mission Conference, couldn't shake loose of San Diego City College until the second half and went on to claim a 98-81 over the hosts.

Meanwhile at Grossmont College, Citrus and the hosting Griffins played catch most of the night before Grossmont finally came away with a 36-17 victory over the Owls.

Bob Kovach led the Chaffey attack with 30 points, followed by forward Russ Williams' 20 and guard Pierre Rankin's 15.

Chaffey couldn't get away from San Diego City until the second half when the Panthers pulled out to a 15-point lead. City then rallied to get back to within 10 points in the last eight minutes of the game, only to see the Panthers win it going away.

Citrus didn't get onto the scoreboard for the first eight minutes of its contest against Grossmont, but fortunately for the Owls the hosts were only able to build up a 5-0 lead, Grossmont led the Owls at halftime, 18-8, and then duplicated its performance in the second half to win the extremely slow contest.

Chaffey is now 10-3 in Mission Conference play.

Locals take diamond wins

OCEANSIDE — Mt. San Antonio College trupted for 11 runs in the fifth inning Saturday afternoon enroute to a 16-1 drubbing of Palomar for third place in the 1974 Palomar-Mira Costa Baseball Tournament.

Citrus jumped out to a 7-2 lead and then held on to nip College of the Desert, 9-8, for the consolation title. And Chaffey rallied for two runs in the bottom of the eightth inning to edge Imperial Valley, 5-4, for seventh place in the tourney.

The Mounties were enjoying a 4-1 lead when they exploded for 11 runs in the fifth frame, sending 14 men to the plate and capitalizing on eight hits, three errors and two walks. Jeff Corkill highlighted the inning with a two-run home run.

In clubbing four Palomar pitchers for 15 hits, Don Cashen and Mark Bumstead paced the assult with three hits each. Cashen drove home a pair of runs while Bumstead had three runs batted in.

Southpaw Bobby Chaulk went five innings, striking out three and walking two, to earn his first win of the young season.

MSAC (3-1) will send Darrell Wetherbee (1-0) to the mound Tuesday against Rio Hondo on the Mountie diamond.

Randy Nall singled home the trying run and Dave Cates' sacrifice fly scored Jim Pearns with the winning run in the eighth inning as Citrus edged COD 9-8 to capture the consolation crown.

Neil Eskuri led off the inning with a single. Pinch runner Gary Bach moved to second on a walk to Pearns. Dave Moore beat out a bunt to load the bases and set the stage for Nall and Cates.

Cates collected two hits, to run his tourney totals to six hits in 12 at bats, scored twice and drove in two runs.

Phil Doktor went three-for-three and added three ribbies to run his tourney totals to 8-for-11 and six RBI's. Pearns collected two hits in three trips to the plate, scored twice, drove home a run and stole six bases in the contest.

The Owls, in winning two of three games, scored 25 runs and banged out 35 hits.

Chaffey scored twice in the eighth for a come-from-behind 5-4 win over Imperial Valley to claim seventh place.

Dave Chavez' pinch-double scored the tying run and Brian Francsco followed with a pinch-single to plate Chavez with the winning run.

Chris Evert defeats Casals easily in S&H Classic semis

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Petite Chris Evert, playing flawlessly in a chill wind that brought complaints from her older opponent, stopped Rosemary Casals 6-0, 6-1, in a semifinal of the $50,000 S&H Women's Tennis Classic Saturday.

In the other singles semifinal, Kerry Melville, Melbourne, Australia, seeded second behind the 18-year-old Miss Evert, beat Nancy Gunter, San Angelo, Tex., 6-1, 6-1, to gain a meeting with the hometown favorite in today's final.

Miss Casals was seeded third and Miss Gunter fourth in the tourney.

In the first of two doubles matches Saturday, Patty Hogan, La Jolla, Calif., and Sharon Walsh, San Rafael, Calif., came back from a disastrous opening set to overcome Wendy Overton, Ormand Beach, Fla., and Karen Krantzcke, Sydney, Australia, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

In the second match, Francoise Durr, Paris, and Betty Stove, Munich, defeated Martina Navratilova, Czechoslovakia, and Isabel Fernandez, Colombia, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3. The Durr-Stove team will meet Miss Hogan and Miss Walsh in today's finals.

Blonde Miss Evert, playing before a wildly partisan crowd in her home town, hit only three balls out of the Fort Lauderdale Tennis Club court in the first set and only one out in the second set.

The dark-haired Miss Casals, who lost a bet to aging tennis hustler Bobby Riggs on his handicap race with miler Jim Ryun Friday night, lost seven straight games to Miss Evert before winning the only game she took of the two set.

Miss Casals was heard complaining about the wind gusts which whipped across the court during the deep baseline match.

In the Melville-Gunter meeting, Miss Melville jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first set. Miss Gunter won the fourth game and the Australian girl took the next three and the set.

In the second set, Miss Gunter had her service broken in the first game and Miss Melville made it five-love before the Texas girl was able to win a game.

Ancient Title Strub winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Front-running Ancient Title carried his speed for 1¼ miles Saturday as he won the 12th running of the $130,200 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds at Santa Anita.

The victory gave Ancient Title a sweep of the Strub series for 4-year-olds as the gelding previously had won the Malibu and San Fernando stakes, becoming the first horse since Hillsdale in 1959 to take the trio of races.

Dancing Papa, who had forced the pace most of the way, held on for second with Prince Dantan third and La Zanzara fourth as her stablemate, Linda's Chief, finished seventh in the field of nine.

Although it was his first race at the classic distance, Ancient Title was timed in 2:00 4-5 for the 1¼ miles as he won decisively by 3 ½ lengths.

Ancient Title earned $85,200 to increase his career earnings to $357,020. Until he captured the San Fernando at 1⅛ mile, Ancient Title had never won a race at more than seven furlongs. But under the handling of Laffit Pincay Jr., the son of Gummo demonstrated he could go a distance under proper rating.

Second choice in the wagering, Ancient Title returned $4.80, $3.80 and $3.60. Dancing Papa paid $6.80 and $4.80 while Prince Dantan returned $5.60.

For only a few strides out of the gate, Carry The Banner had the lead, but by the time the horses came by the stands for the first time, Pincay had Ancient Title in front by a length as Dancing Papa fell behind, followed by Bahia Key, Prince Dantan, Out Of The East and Linda's Chief.

And that was the way the race was run as Ancient Title held his lead by a little more than a length until the horses turned into the stretch.

There, Pincay called on his mount for speed and Ancient Title responded smoothly to draw away from the field although he appeared to be tiring at the finish.

Ancient Title was bred and is owned by Mrs. Ethel Kirkland of West Covina, Calif., and has now captured eight stakes. It was the fourth time he had beaten Linda's Chief, second only to Secretariat last year in the money winnings.

Pincay, the Santa Anita riding champion, scored his third Strub Stakes victory with his ride on Ancient Title, while Bill Shoemaker was frustrated in his fifth attempt to score his 100th victory in a $100,000 stakes when Linda's Chief failed to respond.

Today's program features the $40,000 San Vicente Stakes for 3-year-olds with unbeaten Century's Envoy heading a field of eight Derby aspirants. The race marks the first start for Century's Envoy since last summer when he scored his fifth straight win by capturing the $100,000 Hollywood Juvenile.

Long Beach rips Aztecs

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Fourteenth-ranked Cal State Long Beach, shooting a blazing 64 per cent from the field, stormed San Diego State 98-72 in a PCAA contest Saturday afternoon.

Guard Glenn McDonald led the way with 23 points for the 49ers, who are now 16-2 on the year and 6-0 in league play. Roscoe Pondexter added 22 points and grabbed seven rebounds, while his freshman brother Clifton had 18 points and 11 rebounds. Leonard Gray added 12 points for the 49ers.

San Diego took a brief 10-4 lead before Long Beach reeled off eight straight points. The 49ers never again trailed, leading 45-37 at the half.

John Anderson and Dan Teague led San Diego with 21 points each, while Brad McNamara and Allen Bunting scored 11 each.

The Aztecs are now 4-16 overall.

11-game streak

Edmonton's oilers set a WHA record early this season by winning 11 games in a row. Winnipeg held the record last season with 10.

Professional teams keep multiplying like rabbits

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are no shortages in one field these days—professional sports teams.

They keep multiplying like rabbits. Apparently on the theory that they're cheaper by the dozen, the World Football Field seems ready to start a 12-team league this July.

With its first kickoff just five months and one week away, the WFL is still suffering birth pangs. Three teams don't have a stadium and six don't have a coach, much less players. And one franchise doesn't have a home. Owned by a San Francisco man, it is supposed to be located in Memphis or Portland.

But the WFL is in existence, has conducted its first collegiate draft and has started signing players.

Like generals, sportswriters often like to fight the last war over again so there's been much talk about how the WFL is faring against the National Football League compared to the way the AFL did when it first came into existence in 1960.

WFL officials insist it's too early for a comparison but at first glance, the AFL seemed to do better in getting big names —unless the WFL has some dramatic signings set in the future.

For example, on New Year's Day, 1960, Houston signed the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner— Billy Cannon of LSU. The AFL also signed the rest of the 1959 All-America backfield, Penn State's Richie Lucas, Mississippi's Charlie Flowers and Northwestern Ron Burton's besides Cannon's highly-rated teammate, Johnny Robinson.

By contrast, the WFL has signed only four of the 72 players it drafted in its first six rounds. The WFL signed UCLA running backs James McAlister and Kermit Brown, USC offensive tackle Brooker Brown and Oklahoma middle guard Lucius Selmon.

John Cappelletti, Penn State's 1973 Heisman Trophy winner who wasn't a collegiate star of Cannon's magnitude, hasn't signed yet but the NFL has already got the name of the linemen of the year, John Hicks of Ohio State, on a contract.

The big prize the WFL failed to get was Wilbur Jackson, the Alabama star running back who seemed a natural for the Birmingham franchise and was that club's No. 1 pick. Jackson decided to sign with San Francisco.

But a WFL spokesman is optimistic the league will have many more signings to announce in the next two weeks.

"Our representatives have been out talking to players around the country and they've been getting a very favorable response," he said. "A lot of the players are in the process of weighing offers from the two camps before making a decision."

Of course, the WFL doesn't seem to be ready to launch the kind of bidding war that enabled the AFL to sign the entire 1959 All-America backfield. "There aren't any Lamar Hunts or Bud Adams in this league," sports attorney Bob Woolf has noted. They were the oilmen who helped bankroll the AFL.

Coach, Walton eventually agree

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Forty-two years—two generations—separate UCLA basketball coach John Wooden and his young superstar, Bill Walton.

At 63, Wooden believes strongly in the establishment. At 21, Walton doesn't.

Despite their wide philosophical differences and their differences in ages, Wooden and Walton genuinely respect and like each other.

At least that was the impression the coach and his pupil gave at an hour-long Sullivan Award news conference this past week.

"I don't always approve of his actions and I don't always approve of his methods," said Wooden, "but we get along very well."

"Coach Wooden and I have very many different views," declared Walton, "but we have pretty much the same ideals. So even though we're starting from two totally different points, we seem to meet at the end.

"Maybe that's why we get along so well because we both realize this."

Although UCLA's 6-11 superstar would like to have long hair, he doesn't.

"When you're a high school student," Walton said, "you always have a lot of respect for authority. But as you develop more as an individual, you lose some of that blind respect for authority.

"You respect people who earn you respect. I can honestly say coach Wooden has definitely earned my respect. I really like the guy."

Walton turned down a $2 million offer from the Philadelphia 76ers to play his final year for Wooden.

"Bill exemplifies what you want in amateur athletics," the 26-year UCLA coach said. "I saw him to the surprise of other people turn down a number of million dollars over a few years and they couldn't understand it.

"I know he's truly interested in other people and it's no act.

"For a 6-11, conspicuous redhead with tremendous ability, Bill's one of the most unpretentious people you could ever find."

With Walton in the lineup, the Bruins have won their sixth and seventh straight NCAA championships. They expect to make it eight straight this year.

UCLA, its superstar contended, couldn't have done it without Wooden.

"He's just a great leader," Walton assessed. "He's able to bring 12 to 15 totally different people together and make them work toward a certain goal and stay away from things that would be detrimental to their success."

Tests slated for ABA star

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Carolina Cougar forward Billy Cunningham, out most of this season following surgery in December for a kidney blockage, entered Philadelphia's Pennsylvania Hospital yesterday for tests to determine if a second operation is needed.

The Cougars said Friday the tests on the 1973 ABA Player of the Year will be performed Monday and should a second operation be needed, it will be performed Tuesday by Dr. Cary Maloy, head of the department of urology at the University of Pennsylvania.

Cunningham first underwent surgery Dec. 19 in New York's Flowers Hospital. When he was lost, Carolina led the ABA Eastern Division by a game and a half and they now trail New York by two and one half games.

Relays preparations moving swiftly

WALNUT — The preparations for the 1974 Mt. San Antonio Relays are moving ahead swiftly and smoothly, according to 1974 Committee Chairman, Larry McMillan.

McMillan, of Walnut, believes that this year's Mt. San Antonio Relays, set for April 26, 27 and 28, will be very successful, judging by the preparations being made.

"We have an ambitious group of individuals working on this year's committee, and I am very pleased with the efforts thus far. Our ad sales campaign is now in full swing, and we need the help of all the communities in this area."

One of the major sources of income for the Relays is proceeds from sales of advertisements in the Relays program. According to McMillan, last year's ad sales campaign was one of the most successful in recent years. But the goal for '74 is to have even more new ads.

"Buying a program ad is one of the best ways that businessmen of this area can get behind and support the Mt. San Antonio Relays," says McMillan. "We have ads in all sizes, and despite increasing costs we have not raised our rates."

McMillan is being assisted by vice-chairman Don Tweedie and Earl Conn. Director of the Mt. San Antonio Relays is Hilmer Lodge, who founded the annual track and field classic during his tenure as track coach at Mr. San Antonio College. Now retired, Lodge is a citrus rancher in Pala, Calif. Assistant director is Don Ruh, the current MSAC track coach. Meet manager for this year's meet is John Norton, the Mounties' cross country coach. Ray Moon, MSAC ASB business manager is Relays treasurer, while Mae Havens serves as the Relays very capable secretary.

Sub-committee chairmen include: Joe Cenoz, advertising sales; Ray Moon, ticket sales; Dr. Oscar Edinger, Hall of Fame; Ernie Gregoire, student activities; Larry Stout, housing and transportation; Andy Lazzaretto, civic promotion and Ron Angle, publicity and program.

A very special project of the 1974 Relays committee is the Tartan Track Fund. Working to raise the necessary funds to install an all-weather track in the Mt. San Antonio stadium are Joe Cenoz, 1972 Relays chairman, and John Arrambide MSAC Athletic Director. The committee hopes to have an all-weather track in use for the 1975 Relays.

Persons interested in joining the committee or businessmen wishing to purchase program advertising can contact the Relays office at (714) 595-2211 or (213) 339-7331.

212 tests for your car at JCPenney Scientific Test Center.

In less than one hour we put your car through 212 electronic tests. We check your steering and front end. Engine performance, transmission, brake system performance, entire electrical system and lots more. You watch the results come out on our electronic typewriter.

The written report shows you the results. It indicates what tested parts of your car are strong and what parts need attention. A trained diagnostician will go over the report with you. If you wish, he'll give you an estimate of any necessary repairs. No obligation to have any of the work done. You decide what to fix and where to fix it.

Free parking will be granted to all vehicles carrying five or more passengers at today's final round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Indian Wells Country Club in Palm Springs.

Although parking accounts for considerable revenue which goes to charity, directors of the Hope Classic made the free parking move for all five rounds of the tournament in keeping with the spirit of energy conservation. The car pool incentive may also contribute to better distribution of parking spaces.

NBC will televise the action today at Indian Wells from 2-2:30 p.m. The 90-hole Hope Classic is the only five-round tournament on the PGA tour.

GOLF PROS and celebrities aren't the only interesting players in the Hope Classic. Take Danny Bernheim, for example.

Bernheim, director of the Cointreau Liquor company, is a New Yorker who has played in every one of the Bob Hope Classics.

Danny first met Bob Hope 20 years ago in New York. Both had the same New York tailor and were getting fittings for trousers. By mistake, Hope was given Bernheim's. After an unsuccessful attempt to get into the tight pants, Hope said, "This has got to be the skinniest guy in the world."

"Can I have my trousers now, Mr. Hope?" said Bernheim. "Hey, you're really not that skinny. It must be me," said Hope. They laughed and became good friends.

Danny is a solid 14 handicapper and has a perfect record going in the Hope Classic. He's never won anything, not even a bottle of his Cointreau, which is the official liquer of the tournament.

However, he and two amateur partners hold the dubious distinction of holding the highest score in the pro-am part of the event. Or at least that's the way it looked on the scorecard, when their pro inserted a 71 in the box for the 18th hole score, giving them a net 138 for the day. "Even a foursome best ball of 71 wasn't that hot. But a 138? That's really overdoing it," Bernheim chuckled.

FRANK BELLAMO of Pomona dropped the first ace of his nine-year golfing career this week on the 118-yard No. 3 hole at Claremont Golf Course.

A Prudential Insurance agent, Bellamo's hole-in-one was witnessed by Mike Tessitore of Fontana.

Frank used a nine-iron to pull it off.

OTHER HOLES-in-one were turned in by Jack Hoxny on Jan. 13 at No. 6 at Palm Lake, and just a week later Jack Sitearer scored on No. 8.

In other happenings at Palm Lake last month, Joe Haley's 52 and Ken Sousa's 54 were good enough to claim low net honors in separate flights of the monthly tournament.

Nicklaus getting ready for Open

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — With $45,051 already in the bank for only two weeks work in 1974, Jack Nicklaus, the reigning king of pro golf, makes his second start of the PGA tour in the $150,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open this week.

The LA Open Thursday through Sunday was supposed to be Nicklaus' second tournament of the year but he surprised his fellow pros by showing up at Honolulu for the Hawaiian Open.

He wound up winning in Hawaii Feb. 3, earning a $44,000 pot. He also equalled the late Ted Makalena's course record of 271, 17 under par.

For golf's all-time leading money winner, it was victory No. 52 of an illustrious career that began in the 1962 LA Open.

Nicklaus, just turned 34, is coming off back-to-back $300,000 seasons. He won $320,542 in 1972 and $308,362 last year to boost his career earning to $2,009,168.

The LA Open has to be the luckiest tournament of the tour. At a request by the Crosby, it switched dates for '74, making the Crosby the tour opener.

If there hadn't been a switch, there probably would have been no LA Open. It rained hard here that week and the event undoubtedly would have been cancelled because of the harsh weather.

Held at the Rancho Park municipal course 16 times in 17 years, the LA Open was moved last year to the Riviera Country Club.

Riviera is a long and difficult course that Nicklaus happens to fancy although he failed to win here while capturing seven of his 18 tournaments on last year's tour. He never went over regulation figures but he couldn't muster his typical birdie barrage to threaten for the LA Open title.

Instead, Rod Funseth became one of the longest shots ever to win the event and his eight-under-par score of 276 was only one stroke over Ben Hogan's record at Riviera, shot in the 948 LA Open.

Funseth's total included a sensational 65 on the third round, which provided him with a three-shot victory over Tom Weiskopf, David Graham, Dave Hill and Don Bies.

For Weiskopf, who followed Nicklaus to Ohio State, it was the start of a sensational year for him, a year in which he established himself as a superstar. He won $245,463 to rank third in money won on the tour in '73.

But the 31-year-old Weiskopf still is looking for his first official money of the year. After finishing out of the money in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am and failing to make the cut at Phoenix, Ariz., he returned home to Columbus, Ohio, admitting his mind wasn't where it should be—on golf.

King chosen to coach Amat

LA PUENTE — George King, a coach at St. Anthony of Long Beach last fall, has been named head football coach at Bishop Amat High, replacing Dennis McLaughlin, whose contract was not renewed.

A resident of San Dimas, King coached previously at Los Altos High. He resigned his position at St. Anthony following a 3-5-1 record in his first season. The three victories were the most won by a St. Anthony team since 1967.

King gave as his reason for quitting as the time and distance of travel between his home and Long Beach.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,

We will: At your option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of these above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

Use of fuel cut at Air Force base

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force at this large base reports it has cut aircraft fuel consumption by 28 per cent as a result of the energy crisis.

Ex-Sly bass player scores on his own

By BRUCE MEYER
United Press International

After seven years as bass player for Sly and the Family stone, Larry Graham didn't really want to leave the band. But finally it was obvious that the situation just wouldn't work any longer, and Graham split. With the possible exception of his decision to join Sly in the first place, it was the best move he ever made.

Graham got together with a group called Hot Chocolate, the name was changed to Graham Central Station, and they started playing the coffee house circuit in the Bay area.

That was just a year ago. Now Graham Central Station is challenging the Family Stone for the top spot in that nebulous brand of music Graham labels "progressive funk."

It's music that is hard-driving, mellow, exciting, soothing and subtle —all at the same time. And —on stage if not yet on record —Graham and his band are better at it than anybody right now, including his former mentor.

Most musicians would rather not be compared with others, but graham doesn't mind the comparison with sly:

"I don't mind comparing our music to anybody, really —As long as it's in the running, that's cool. I guess they can't help but hear things in this group that was in that one (the Family Stone), 'cause I haven't changed my style of playing."

Graham writes nearly all the band's material, sings with a powerful, three-octave voice and has one of the few really original bass styles in pop music. He shares lead vocal duties with Patryce "Chocolate" Banks. David Vega on guitar, Hershall Kennedy on clavinet and trumpet, Robert Sam on organ and Willie Sparks on drums fill out the group.

After seeing them live —they are as exciting and innovative visually as they are musically —their first album, "Graham Central Station" (Warner Bros. BS-2763), is rather a disappointment. The band's professionalism and stage presence comes across only intermittently on the album, at best.

The opening track, an a capella greeting to the audience (We've been waiting for so long —waiting to play for you some of our songs...."), gets the record off on exactly the right foot. The second cut, an Al Green tune called "It Ain't No Fun to Me," gets off to a good start, but by the end, a lot of the good vibes and momentum have been lost somewhere. The only other really outstanding tunes on the album are back-to-back on side two—"Can You Handle It" and "People," either of which would make a fine single.

But I have a feeling the shortcomings of the album are only temporary. The band is just one year old, and had been together only months when they went into the studio. Judgment on their ability to put themselves across on record can wait; their potential is enormous.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—I am one of your do-it-yourselfers and recently installed wall-to-wall carpeting. The instructions did not work nearly so well as my own idea. I ran a chalk line at the bottom of the baseboard and then when the carpet was in place pressed it along this crevice with the handle of my shears. This left a well-marked chalk line on the rubber backing that I followed while cutting. The same should work on hemp backing.—ANOTHER POLLY.

© 1974 by NEA, Inc.,

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—A quick, easy and colorful way to label school coats, hats, smocks, etc. is to use iron-on seam binding. It is washable, dry-cleanable and comes in many colors. Cut into strips, label with indelible laundry marker and iron on. Iron-on patches could also be used by cutting into strips or little designs.—CAROL.

DEAR POLLY — Before serving lemon wedges with tea, seafood, etc., cut a "V" in the center of each wedge to remove the seeds. The wedge folds into itself when squeezed, eliminating spatters as well as seeds in the food or tea. — A. R.

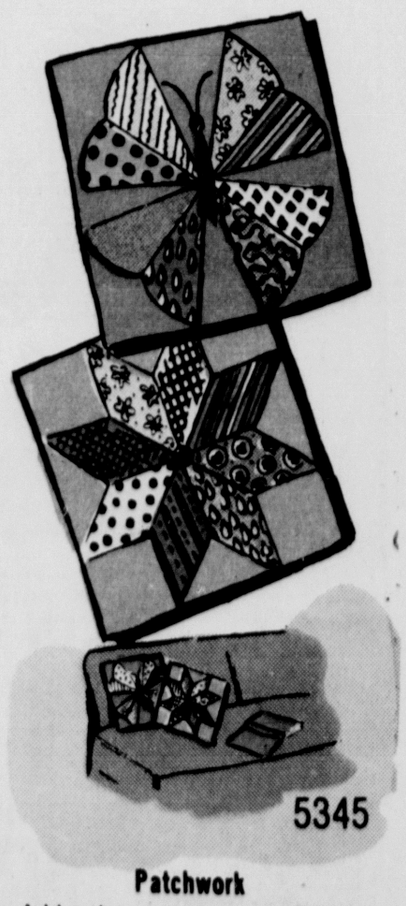
DEAR POLLY — Mine is a money-saver Pointer. Instead of BUYING expensive rattan holders for paper plates I SAVE aluminum plates of various sizes that come with TV (round) dinners, bit pot pies, regular pies and many other foods. Some are always kept in my picnic basket. — MRS. R. R. S.

DEAR POLLY — When knitting with two strands of yarn they often get tangled and twisted. To prevent this, I slip a thread spool over each strand before I start knitting. —TINA.

DEAR POLLY — Before winding the bobbin for your sewing machine try running colored crayon or chalk over the first few inches of thread and you will know when the bobbin is near the end. — LAURETTA.

DEAR POLLY — After playing volley ball at school my wrists were often red and sore. To prevent this, I cut off the tops of an old pair of socks just above the heel. These pieces are folded in half and put on my wrists. The remaining parts of the socks make great foot-warmers to wear to bed. — STACIE

DEAR POLLY — I wash and dry foam meat and produce trays and save them to cut to size for padding things to be mailed. — PAT



Patchwork

Add color and charm to the room with bright patchwork pillows. No. 5345 has applique pattern pieces for both designs; full directions.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

HARRY PAWLUK OF TORONTO, CANADA, ASKS:

"WHAT IS INDIAN CORN?"

THE CORN WE CALL "INDIAN CORN" OFTEN HAS BLACK, BLUE, RED, AND PINK KERNELS. ACTUALLY, INDIAN CORN IS ANY OF THE SEVERAL KINDS OF CORN GROWN ORIGINALLY IN AMERICA BY THE INDIANS. INDIAN CORN CAN ALSO MEAN SWEET CORN AND POPCORN. NO ONE IN EUROPE KNEW ABOUT INDIAN CORN BEFORE COLUMBUS SAILED TO AMERICA. TO THE EUROPEAN, ANY KIND OF GRAIN WAS CALLED CORN. "CORN" COULD ALSO MEAN WHEAT, RYE, OATS OR EVEN BARLEY. TO TELL THE NEW WORLD "CORN" FROM THE OTHER EUROPEAN "CORNS", OR GRAINS, THEY CALLED IT "INDIAN CORN."

High Voltage means straight-through-the-partition cell connectors deliver more initial starting power than an otherwise identical battery with up-and-over cell connectors.

Sears Battery Guarantee
Free replacement within 90 days of purchase if battery proves defective. After 90 days we will replace it with a new battery if defective, charging only for the period of ownership. Your monthly charges for ownership will be computed by dividing the current selling price less trade-in at the time of return, by the number of months of guarantee.

MILTON BERLE: STILL THE LIFE OF THE PARTY

Milton Berle, the inimitable exponent of brash comedy, has literally made a 60-year-long show-business career out of being "the life of the party." He continues that tradition in his best uninhibited style when he guest stars on Here's Lucy, Monday at 9PM on CBS, as the big attraction at one of Lucy Carter's (Lucille Ball) usually dull Saturday night parties.

In the episode, Berle, at a charity telethon, agrees to entertain for one night at the home of the viewer who bids highest for his talents. But the scramble to claim "the funniest comedian in show business" yields nothing higher than Lucy's bid of $7.50. Hence, his reluctant appearance as her "life of the party."

Milton Berle enlivens a party for Lucille Ball.

No stranger to the charity telethon, incidentally, Berle once stayed on the air 16 consecutive hours for the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, an effort he later described as "probably the longest sustained vaudeville performance on record." Besides comedy and his long reign as "Mr. Television" on "Texaco Star Theatre," Berle has won critical acclaim for such dramatic efforts as his portrayal of the dying agent in the film "The Oscar." Berle's dramatic skill perhaps ties in with his definition, "A comedian is an actor who does comedy, while a comic is a man who tells jokes." Berle, obviously, is a comedian.

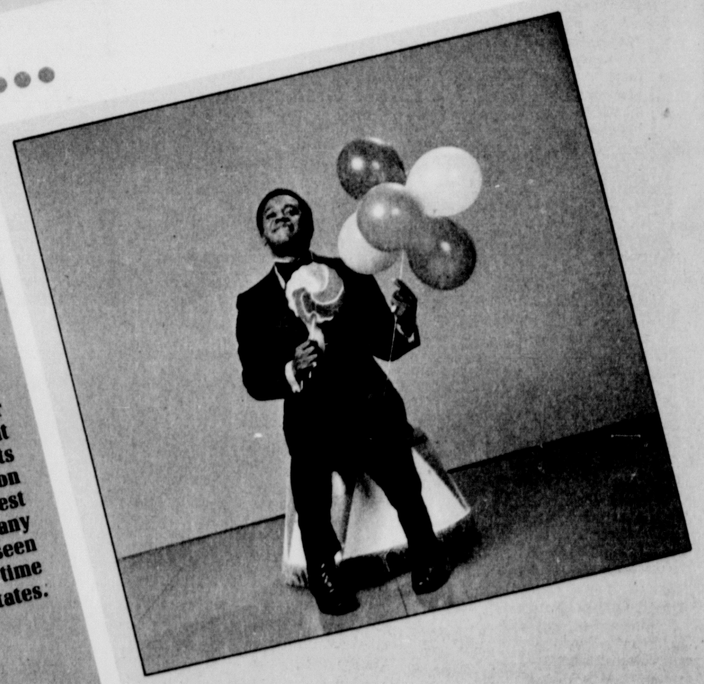
Sinister...

"The Phantom," the CBS Tuesday Night Movie on CBS (9:30PM), is a suspense thriller that deals with a mysterious phantom who hides out in the underground tunnels of a major studio, terrorizing all who dare trespass on his territory. Peter Lawford, Skye Aubrey, Peter Haskell, John Ireland, Jack Cassidy star, and a world renowned celebrity portrays the phantom. His identity will not be revealed until the climax of the film.

Circus-er...



Flip Wilson takes a short leave from his own series on NBC to serve as host of the all-new "Highlights of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus," on NBC, Thursday at 8PM. The one-hour special will present circus acts from the 104th edition of the Greatest Show on Earth, many of them seen for the first time in the United States.

'THE COWBOYS'

There has never been another Western series like The Cowboys, airing on ABC, Wednesdays at 8PM. Based on the novel by William Dale Jennings and the motion picture of the same name starring John Wayne, the half-hour dramatic series deals not with a steely-eyed lawman or Quixotic drifter, but with the seven youthful cowboys, aged 11 to 17, who made the long cattle drive with Wil Andersen. Now they've come back to the Longhorn ranch to stay. They've seen action and trouble and handled themselves as men, but they still have a lot of growing up to do. They're working the ranch for Mrs. Andersen, learning and squabbling and laughing and growing, under the watchful eye of Jebediah Nightlinger, the black man who was the trail cook, and is now the ranch foreman.

The times: the 1870s. The place: New Mexico, the land of limitless horizons and clean skies. A beautiful and unforgiving land, where an injured man can die trying to reach help, where a horse is man's most important possession.

The problems? All the problems of growing up on a big ranch in the early West. A long step back to a cleaner and less complicated time when a boy's worth was measured by his acceptance of responsibility, his eagerness and ability to learn, his honesty and his skills with horse and rope and cattle.

Starring in the adult roles of the series are Moses Gunn as Jebediah Nightlinger, deeply learned in the classics and the ways of men, who is the boys' friend and mentor as well as foreman; Diana Douglas as Mrs. Anne Andersen, warm-hearted and understanding with the inner toughness that belongs to those who settled the wild country; Jim Davis as U.S. Marshal Bill Winter, quiet, smiling, competent, who can be as rough as a year in jail when the occasion demands.

David Dortort, the producer of the series, was the creator and producer of Bonanza throughout its enormously successful 14-year run. He is proud of the seven boys in The Cowboys. "Viewers don't tune in just to watch plots unfold," he says, "but to get in touch with people they can like and believe in, people they would like to know. These boys are like that. I know that in the time I've worked with them, I've come to think of each one as a friend."

In the series, each boy has his own history and richly varied characterization. Slim, as played by Robert Carradine, brother of Kung Fu star David Carradine, is a quiet youth who listens and thinks and makes up his mind before he speaks. In times of stress and trouble, the other boys tend to follow his lead. Cimarron, played by A Martinez, is flamboyant and quick to move, and possessed of all the skills necessary to a cowboy. A troubled early childhood has made him something of a loner, though he wants to be one with all the others. He loves the smell of danger and challenge, and generates excitement.

Jimmy (Sean Kelly) is the promoter of the group. His goal in life is to be right and successful, and right now he's sharpening his wits and skills. Steve (Clint Howard) is a good hand, but he worries about everything.

Homer (Kerry MacLane) is a walking encyclopedia. He has an answer for any question—not always right, but he will defend it until he is out of breath.

Weedy (Clay O'Brien) weighs just under a hundred pounds, but is the crack rider and roper of the group, skilled in the handling of animals. His shirt-tail is always out; his pants and chaps are always about to fall off. Hardy (Mitch Brown) is the smallest of the group, always hurrying to catch up with the others.

The stories will reflect the wonder and joy and pain of these young cowboys, growing up in the rowdy, rambunctious West. Says David Dortort, "In this series, we have an opportunity to show the emergence of moral character in an entertaining story form that will hold up the potential good in man, rather than the reverse. I'm not the least bit ashamed to say that we hope to demonstrate solid moral values while we entertain."

UP-TO-DATE REFLECTIONS'

The phenomenally successful series, The Waltons, is based in large part on creator Earl Hamner's childhood, his recollections of growing up in large family in Virginia back in the 1930s. So it's small wonder that his new family series, Apple's Way, is an up-to-date reflection of Hamner's life, beliefs and values.

Apple's way stars Ronny Cox as 40-year-old architect George Apple, who moves his wife and four children from California to his hometown of Appleton, Iowa. It has its premiere Sunday at 7:30PM on CBS, a time period calculated to attract a maximum family audience. Naturally, Hamner has taken artistic license with his background to make the show work dramatically, but Apple's two older Hamner's own son, 17, and daughter, 14. "And I made up two younger children," he says, "who might very well have been mine, as I imagine them, if I'd had another daughter, 12, and a son, 10," Hamner says. "One of the delights of the show, however, is tailoring scripts to suit the personalities of the actors. They bring their own dimensions to the characters I created."

Ronny Cox and Lee McCain star as George and Barbara Apple. Co-starring as their four children are (clockwise) Patti Cohoon, Vincent Van Patten, Franny Michel and Eric Olson.

For example, Ronny Cox is an enthusiastic guitar player and jogger. So in "Apple's Way" Cox will be seen jogging through the countryside with his dog and playing guitar. Pretty Lee McCain, a stage actress who stars as Apple's wife, Barbara, is a home decorator by hobby. So in the series it's established that Barbara works as a department store interior decorator and is responsible for the attractive furnishings of the converted mill where the family lives. "We found that Eric Olson, who plays 10-year-old Steven, is an amateur herpetologist," Hamner says. "So we had him bring one of his own snakes, a little ruby boa, to use in a scene. You can believe we got a very realistic shriek from our little girls (Patti Cohoon, as 14-year-old Cathy, and Franny Michel, as 12-year-old Patricia). It was my favorite kind of dramatic action—absolutely based on reality."

Future episodes may use the real-life tennis skill of Vincent Van Patten, who plays 16-year-old Steven. Other plot points have been made of Franny's preoccupation with dieting and Patti's abhorence of being seen in public with hair in curlers.

"I sincerely hope we're not accused of being unrealistic," Hamner says, "because that just isn't so."

MARK DONOHUE COMPETES FOR LAST TIME

The curtain will come down on one of the most successful individual chapters in United States auto racing, when Mark Donohue takes the checkered flag at the conclusion of the fourth and final Goodyear International Race of Champions, on ABC's Wide World of Sports, Saturday (Feb. 16) at 4PM. Although he has only been racing since 1959, Donohue, a native of Newton Square, Penna., has won almost every major championship in which he has competed.

He announced after the third race of the International Race of Champions that the final race in the series would be his last as a competitor, and that he was stepping out of the cockpit and into the front office—as president of the highly successful Penske Racing Enterprises empire.

As a matter of fact, Roger Penske has been Donohue's employer, confidant and friend since 1966 when they teamed up—Penske, a former driving champion himself, as owner and builder, Donohue as his top driver. Their record of successes was capped this year with the winning of their fourth Can-Am Championship (the others came in 1968, 1969 and 1971) and the list of wins includes the Indianapolis 500 in 1972, the first Pocono Invitational 500 in 1971, the 24-hours of Daytona (teamed with Chuck Parsons) in 1969 and the United States Road Racing Championships in both 1967 and 1968. It was in '68 that Donohue won the coveted Martini and Rossi "Driver of the Year" award.

Donohue was one of 12 champion drivers selected from auto racing's four most popular divisions—Formula One, USAC Championship, NASCAR Grand National and SCCA Road Racing—to compete in the unique series of races. Each champion drove identical 1974 Special Porsche Carrera RSR three-litre racing cars through three races at Riverside (Cal.) International Raceway. Points were awarded on the basis of 12 for first, 11 for second, etc., down to 1 for last; and at the conclusion of the first three races, the field was cut to the top six drivers, who race for a total of $65,000—$35,000 to the winner.

Needless to say, Donohue was one of the top six finishers, and will be battling George Follmer, Peter Revson, Bobby Unser, A.J. Foyt, and David Pearson in a race that truly can be called—

The International Race of Champions.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

There are two popular network shows presently being filmed in Hawaii: the BRIAN KEITH SHOW and HAWAII 5-O. During a recent short vacation trip to the islands I decided to stop in on the filming of these shows that do so much to promote Hawaii to us haoles on the mainland. I arrived on a Sunday about noon, checked into the Hawaiian Village and went for a walk. About a block from the hotel, I passed a bistro from which poured some of the finest un-Hawaiian music. No steel guitars from Blue Hawaii wailed in this spot known as Muggs' Place. It was pure jazz.

The beautiful Hawaiian sun disappeared the moment I entered and groped my way to a small table that had once been a spool for a telephone cable. I ordered a martini. Then the piano player announced that it was time for Danielle. A hush fell over the room. A beautiful blond girl uncoiled herself from an adjoining spool, walked over to the piano and picked up a mike. She wore a thin red scarf around her neck with the ends tucked into the front of her pants, thus covering her vital statistics. A snake amulet encircled her upper arm. The hush was understandable, even if she couldn't sing a note, but believe me, she could. For a while I tried to recall of whom she reminded me. Then I decided her style was her own, but that there were small bits that brought to mind singers like, Yma Sumac one minute and Carol King on another.

A couple of days later I was on the north end of Oahu to watch the filming of a segment of the Brian Keith Show. A demure young lass in a pinafore who played a supporting role in this situation comedy looked vaguely familiar and I asked the unit man who she was.

"That's Danielle." He shrugged. "No last name, just Danielle." She looked a lot different in a pinafore than she did in a scarf. The following day I was nosing around the Hawaii 5-0 location. Danielle was there also. This time she was playing the role of a rather naughty young lady named Donna. She did indeed look naughty. I introduced myself. She was a very vivacious young lady.

"How did you wind up in Hawaii?"

"I was between shows in London and Zsa Zsa Gabor needed a companion", she explained rationally.

"You came here with her?"

"Oh, no. I came here to marry Bill Edwards. I met him in London where he had come to keep a date with Zsa Zsa that he had won on the Dating Game.

"Did you marry him?" I asked, disappointed.

"Oh, yes. We had a beautiful underwater ceremony."

'BEST EIGHTEEN'

"Arnold Palmer's Best Eighteen Golf Holes in America," a nostalgic and revealing 3-part series hosted by Palmer and featuring top performers of the links sport, will be colorcast on NBC, on successive Saturdays (Feb. 16 and 23 and March 2) at 2PM. This is more than a stroll down memory lane for Palmer, golf's most charismatic superstar. With a different opponent for each of the 18 holes selected from 17 of the nation's most demanding courses, Palmer and his partner will discuss the characteristics of the hole as they play it, will reminisce about it, and give their views on how to attack it professionally.

Action was filmed at championship courses whose names have a familiar ring to golfers and fans alike. The 4th hole at Baltrusrol (New Jersey), the 17th at Cherry Hills (Denver), the 16th at Firestone (Akron), the 15th at Seminole (Palm Beach), the 15 at Oakmont (Pittsburgh) and 11th at the Country Club (Brookline) are a sampling of those Palmer and his opponents will play.

Among Arnie's partners for these unique one-hole matches will be such luminaries of the sport as Lee Trevino, Gary Player, Bobby Nichols, Tommy Aaron, Ray Floyd and Dave Stockton. The three shows, each covering six holes, were produced for NBC Sports by Trans World International, Inc.

Arnold Palmer travels throughout America and does it the easy way, in his own jet, for the filming of a 3-part series in which Arnie and fellow pros play what he considers the best and most challenging 18 golf holes in the country.

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. ROBERT TAFT, JR. (R-Ohio)

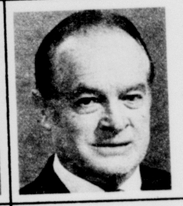
Just how far is the government going to go in pressing small businessmen about job health and safety?—M. Long, Ironton, Ohio

● Job safety is of critical importance. The Occupational Health and Safety Act, however, has been poorly administered. For example, the Department of Labor recently required a small business consisting of just a man and his wife to have separate employee restrooms. In another case, an employer who had used his fire extinguisher to put out a fire was fined $100 by an OHSA inspector an hour after the fire for not having a loaded fire extinguisher. In response to problems such as these, Congress has voted to exempt businesses with three or fewer employees from coverage under the act, and authorized the Department of Labor personnel to assist small businesses in complying with the act.

FOR BILLIE JEAN KING

Does wearing eyeglasses bother you while playing tennis? —J. F. T., Utica, N.Y.

● I'm nearsighted and can't see a thing without my glasses. They don't bother me any. They've become a part of me.



FOR BOB HOPE

I heard that you did not finish high school. Did I hear right? —Gene Patterson, Appleton, Wis.

● You did. I dropped out of high school to join vaudeville. A while back they named an elementary school in San Antonio after me, which was a nice gesture in view of my academic history. But I have a great regard for education. All my children attended college—and one even graduated from law school!

FOR LARRY CSONKA, Miami Dolphin football star and coauthor of "Always on the Run"

What part of football do you miss most during the off-season?—John Moore, Austin, Texas

● Body contact. During the off-season, I miss that. Too bad business executives can't organize their own football teams and pound the tar out of each other. I think that would help them a great deal.

FOR CAROL CHANNING

You and your husband [Charles Lowe, television producer-writer] are both in show business. Do you find this a handicap? Who's boss?—Larry Slanson, Detroit, Mich.

● It's marvelous, and he's boss. He doesn't like me to say that, but it's true. And it's great for me. I get up in the morning and he points me in a direction and tells me what to do. That leaves me free to concentrate on one thing at a time.

FOR VERA MILES, actress

I understand you're teaching your daughter how to become an actress. Isn't it difficult to train your own offspring?—Lester Wineglass, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Becoming an actress was Kelly's idea, and she got her first parts strictly on her own. One day she came to me and wanted to discuss acting. I told her I was the wrong person to come to because I never had any formal training. I said, "There are two ways to learn acting: Go to a school and take a crash course, or just do it." She decided to just do it.

FOR SEN. ALAN CRANSTON (D-Calif.)

I see you want the government to spend $50 million to tap the sun's energy. Isn't that reaching a bit far?—B. K., Medford, Ore.

● Have you tried to get fuel oil lately? It's our obligation to seek alternative sources of power. Solar energy for heating and cooling is among those alternatives that have a high probability of success. We do not have to invest untold millions in research and development.

FOR GAIL GOODRICH, basketball star

You've been quoted as saying that Ernie Di Gregorio, the million-dollar rookie of the Buffalo Braves, isn't worth the money. Why, since he was so great in college?—Dick Ryan, Canton, Ohio

● He lacks quickness, and that's the name of the game in the NBA.

FOR ARLENE DAHL

A friend of mine said he heard a funny anecdote about you, Marilyn Monroe and some chocolates. What was it?—Donald Reed, Durham, N.C.

● It happened at a party. Marilyn Monroe came over to a group—Cary Grant, Artur Rubinstein, Joan Crawford and I were in it—that was discussing the poet Walt Whitman. Suddenly Marilyn broke in and said, "Oh, I love him, and I love his chocolates, too!"

FOR SUZANNE PLESHETTE of "The Bob Newhart Show"

In a recent article, I saw you described as cute and alluring, charming or cunning, seemingly innocent, idealistic, crabby and base. What comes closest to the real you?—W. Donaldson, Santa Ana , Calif.

● I don't think I'm crabby or base. I suppose I am idealistic —to a fault. I expect people to behave in the best possible fashion, and often I end up being disappointed. But I'd rather look for the best and be disappointed than always look for the worst. But I think the one adjective that would describe me better than any other is logical.

Plant-Growing Magic:

Jerry Baker's 10 Most Startling "Tricks" to Brighten Up Your House

By Jerry Baker
"America's Master Gardener"

"'The only thing that grows for me is weeds!' Well, why not? Grow weeds, I mean."

He or she has a "green thumb"—that's what you hear about folks who have good luck growing things (usually spoken by those who have bad luck growing things).

To begin with, there is no such thing as a green thumb. No magic motions, potions or lotions. There's just pride, patience, persistence and practice. And what people call "luck" is just an unexpected opportunity disguised as a dying or awfully sick plant discarded by some unenlightened "green-thumber."

If you want to be a magic gardener, I'll let you in on some so-called secrets. But when I'm done you must promise not to bang your head on the wall and shout, "Why didn't I think of that—it's so simple!" Not that I'm afraid you'll injure your head or hands—it's just that I'm concerned about the plants on the other side that might be asleep or expecting.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Jerry Baker is founder and director of the American Garden Institute and author of the best-selling "Plants Are Like People" (Pocket Books, $1.25). He is often seen on daytime shows, such as "Dinah's Place" and "The Mike Douglas Show."

MAGIC TRICK NO. 1

Making plants grow taller or longer is a snap. You've heard all of your life that in order to grow you should eat hot meals, right? Same goes for plants. If you want them to grow, feed them warm plant food (not hot, just warm to the touch). It takes from eight to ten days for cold food to warm up to where the plants can digest it. Warm food is eaten within the hour.

MAGIC TRICK NO. 2

If you inherit, purchase, adopt or find abandoned on your doorstep a plant that is bent, broken or bowed to one side, give it a warm meal and place it in a dark closet with the door ajar about an inch and a half. Place the plant at the rear of the closet, with the stem bending away from the door. Now turn a light on in the room where the closet is (not your bedroom, or you won't get any sleep). Yes, daylight will suffice during the day, but turn the light on again at night. Do this for seven days. Soon, the plant will get so nosy as to what's outside it will straighten itself out to see. (In other words, plants grow to light—that's all there is to that "magic.")

MAGIC TRICK NO. 3

"The only thing that grows for me is weeds!" Ever heard somebody say that? Well, why not? Grow weeds, I mean. There's an old saying: "Weeds are just plants we haven't found a use for yet." I'm sure you've all heard of "baby's tears," a delicate little foliage plant that all women want to grow. Then again, I'm also sure you've heard of chickweed. That's a plant that men don't want to grow, but it does grow, everywhere—lawns, gardens, you name it. Guess what chickweed planted in a hanging basket or pot in your home looks and acts like? Baby's tears! Try it! Your friends will think you're a genius!

MAGIC TRICK NO. 4

More to grow: sweet potatoes covered with soil on three sides in a gravy dish, not straight up; carrots in a pot as mock ferns; potatoes in a waste basket as flowering plants (bonus!—you'll get seven pounds of real potatoes in the basket!); spinach as foliage plants. Let your imagination be your guide!

MAGIC TRICK NO. 5

Ever notice how pots get a white dust or crust on the soil and sides? This is salt. It builds up from use of tap water. Take the damaging salt out by poking holes in the bottom of a milk carton or plastic vinegar bottle and fill ¾ full of agricultural charcoal, available at most plant stores or dime stores. Then run tap water through this "filter." Ninety-five percent of the salt will disappear. So will the white dust.

MAGIC TRICK NO. 6

I'm sure that from time to time every dabbler has befriended a plant that's kept some unsavory company and picked up a louse or two. Well, you can decontaminate that plant by taking last summer's pest strip and cutting it into ½-inch squares, then placing a square on the soil and covering the plant for 24 hours with a brown paper bag. Voilà—deloused! Remember: Use gloves and a non-food knife or tin snips to cut the strip; also, do it outside in the fresh air, for safety's sake.

MAGIC TRICK NO. 7

Do your plants need a pick-me-up? Okay! If your plants are acid-loving, such as azaleas, pointsettia's, gardenias, or citrus plants, all you have to do is water them with weak coffee, three parts water. In the winter your plants can catch cold and/or dehydrate from the dryness in your home (tips of

At last! China reveals her 1,300 year old stay-young health secret.

MORE AMAZING THAN ACUPUNCTURE ?

by George Culbertson © Copyright 1974 by Good News Publishing Co.

The average American gets his only exercise walking from his house to his car. As soon as he gets in his car, the automatic transmission, power brakes, and power steering take over for him. In many cases he even has a remote control gadget that opens his garage door where he keeps his riding power lawn mower. In the meantime his wife is in the kitchen with her electric mixer, electric can opener, garbage disposal, and self cleaning oven.

It seems like machines do everything for us lucky Americans anymore. Is it any wonder then that almost 80 per cent of Americans are overweight? Did you know that the United States is ranked 11th in the world for life expectancy of women and 18th for men? Over 165,000 Americans die prematurely each year from heart disease.

It's a shame that such a rich and wonderful country like ours is losing it's health because of it's own richness. In an age where we are now worried so much about the ecology of our land, I think it's about time we worried more about the wasting of our bodies.

If you are an average American, chances are that you are well aware of the problem, and you are seriously willing to do something about it. The only trouble is, you've dieted umpteen times, but gained back every pound you lost after you quit dieting. And who the heck wants to be on a diet for the rest of his life, anyway. You've probably tried exercising too, but gave it up before it had a chance to do any good. After all, most exercises are hard and strenuous, and most Americans really don't have the time to do them. The fact is that we are in danger of becoming a nation of weak, fat slobs.

So where is the solution to our problem? Must we give up the good things of life we have struggled so hard for? Do we have to trade in our air conditioned cars for bicycles, and our rich foods for bland diets?

The answer is NO! Believe it or not, there is a way we can have our cake and eat it, too! There is a way to be fit and trim without working for it!

Strangely enough the answer to the problem isn't new. It is over 1300 years old. The Taoist monks of ancient China had a worse problem than we do. They were very intelligent men who sat and meditated continuously without hardly moving at all.

Although the meditation helped improve their minds, they realized that their bodies were suffering for it. As a result these thinking men developed a series of movements that exercised every muscle of the entire body in just a few minutes without strain. These exercises were called TAI CHI. They could be done anywhere anytime in just a few minutes without working up a sweat. It was the answer to their problem, and it is also the answer for us easy living Americans.

Doctors and physical educators have been extremely excited about TAI CHI since it arrived here in the United States. Here, finally, is an exercise that is easy enough for both young and old to do, but beneficial enough to help control your weight. TAI CHI has been enthusiastically endorsed in magazines like Newsweek, Vogue, Cosmopolitan and Harpers Bazaar.

Helping to control your weight is only one of TAI CHI's benefits. Here are some others:

- It tones all of the muscles of the body, giving you a slimmer and younger looking appearance.
- It increases your blood circulation, giving you a less tired or nervous feeling.
- It stimulates better breathing, supplying more oxygen to your body tissues. (It takes oxygen to burn up fat.)
- TAI CHI strengthens the muscles of your heart without straining them. (This may give you a much better chance against heart disease)
- TAI CHI has a relaxing effect, almost like a mild tranquilizer, letting you sleep better at night and feel better in the morning.
- It strengthens the lower back muscles. (weak back muscles are a major cause of backache)

Remember one thing... TAI CHI is not a gimmick. It has been recommended by hundreds of health authorities, and it really works. If you are really serious about losing weight and becoming physically fit, TAI CHI may well be the solution to your problem.

After the Taoist monks invented TAI CHI, they jealously kept it a secret for hundreds of years. Today it is no longer a secret. In fact, it is gaining wide popularity in the United States.

Good News Publishing Co., of Canton, Ohio recently commissioned a master instructor in the art of TAI CHI to write a course in TAI CHI simple enough for everybody to understand and perform. The result is a book that is simply worded and contains over 100 photos so that everybody can perform the simple movements. Again, let me remind you that these easy exercises can be performed in just a few minutes with absolutely no huffing or puffing.

Believe it or not, the price of this course in TAI CHI is only $6.95 complete. And The Good News Publishing Co. will make this unusual guarantee to you. After you receive your course in TAI CHI, take it to your family doctor and show it to him. If he says, for any reason, that it's not worth it, send it back and Good News will refund your money in full.

This book can only be purchased through the mail. It will probably never be available in bookstores. To get your copy, please send $6.95 to Good News Publishing Co., 7576 Freedom Ave., North Canton, Ohio 44720

The book will be sent to you promptly by return mail.

Again, if for any reason you or your family doctor are dissatisfied, you can return the book and your $6.95 will be refunded immediately.

When I look at my thighs here, I know why I used to want to hide them in slacks.

Everything I ate went straight to my thighs, before I lost 77 pounds.

By Randi Hoyt — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

At 208 pounds, I don't mean to say that my legs were the only big part of me. But food just seemed to settle in my thighs. I tried most times to hide them in slacks, but as I added pound after pound, it got harder and harder to find pants that would fit. As for wearing boots, that was something else again. I had to buy two sizes larger than I measured. Then my husband had to squeeze my calves together, while I tucked in the flab and pulled up the zipper.

Frankly, I blame the mess I was in on the way I ate. Plenty of junk calories during the day. Then at suppertime, I'd have gobs of mashed potatoes, maybe three or four pork chops, topped off with cake or ice cream.

You see, I lived with my grandmother and since she worked all day, she'd make it up to me at night. Sometimes for a late snack, she'd even cook french fries and chicken. Lots of love went into that food, but it sure showed up an ugly way.

Actually, when I think of the shape I was in, it's lucky I ever married. Maybe I wouldn't have, either, without the help of the telephone. You see, David (my husband) and I talked on the phone everyday for two weeks before we came face to face. A mutual friend had introduced us, thinking we'd have something in common. And we sure did. Fat. He weighed 240 pounds and I wasn't much less.

Soon after, however, David started to work in a steel mill which trimmed him down about 70 pounds. Seeing him lose like that made me turn to diet pills, until I was able to get into a size 17 wedding dress. But I'll tell you, the pills made me so nervous I developed more than my share of bridal shakes, so I had to give them up. Next thing I tried was counting calories. But, at the end of the day, if I was over my quota, I'd "wipe out" all the food in the house.

Finally, about a year later, I decided to try that reducing-plan candy, Ayds®. I'd been cutting out the ads of the people who'd lost weight on the plan and when I read that Ayds contained vitamins and minerals, no drugs, I bought a box of the chocolate fudge kind at the drugstore.

Well, I followed the directions carefully and those Ayds really helped curb my appetite. For breakfast, I had one Ayds with hot coffee, then juice, a soft boiled egg and toast. At noon, Ayds again and a very light lunch. Then for supper, I'd have Ayds and coffee, followed by broiled meat, a vegetable, salad and a small dessert. As for the evening hours, one or two Ayds made me happy enough to give up my usual fat snacks.

At first, not owning a scale, I couldn't tell how fast I was losing. But, later, when I bought one, I figured I was taking off one or two pounds a week on the Ayds plan. Honestly, it was just perfect for me. You see, I'm the kind of person, if I can't have something, I want it. But by taking Ayds, I was able to eat about everything I wanted, only I wanted less. I didn't feel starved or deprived at all.

Look! I'll bare my legs any time now that I'm down to 131 pounds!

And I lost 77 pounds on the Ayds plan.

Why, the change was so drastic, David's aunt, who'd met me once when I was heavy, said to him when she saw me slim: "Oh, you didn't marry the fat one!" To me, that was a great compliment.

As for my legs, they're the most beautiful thing that's happened to me. Now, thanks to the Ayds plan, I can find panty hose that'll fit over my fanny without creeping down. And I can even wear short shorts and make David feel proud walking downtown with me.

Plant-Growing Magic Continued

leaves will turn brown and droplets will form on the leaves). Take a tea bag and make some weak tea. Pour it into an old, clean window sprayer and spray the foliage two or three times a day.

MAGIC TRICK NO. 8

Plants are tough, but from time to time they get sick and need help. Bring several plants together and place them on a cookie sheet with an eight-to-ten-ounce glass of warm water in the middle. Next, take a plastic dry-cleaning bag and suspend it on a hanger from a floor lamp. Place the bag over the plants on the cookie sheet so it forms a tent. Anchor it down with phone books. The water glass gives humidity and the plastic bag keeps the plants warm. This is also a good plant baby-sitter when you go away for a day or two.

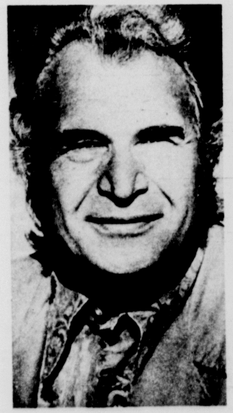
MAGIC TRICK NO. 9

Now if I say the measurements 74-65-75, all you men will say, "Wow!" Well, clear your heads, guys. The only place you're going to see that figure is in the centerfold of "Flower Grower" magazine. It means 74 degrees daytime temperature, 65 degrees night temperature, and 75 percent humidity. That's what plants need. Well, you say, the temperature is no problem, but that humidity could make the wallpaper curl! But wait a minute. Between each plant, place an inexpensive drinking glass filled with colored water (whichever color is in keeping with your decor). Under each pot, place a glass pie pan filled with colored stone (aquarium type) to correspond with the pot and the colored water. Fill the pan half-full of water. All this evaporation, along with the daily tea showers, will improve the humidity—both for you and your plant!

MAGIC TRICK NO. 10

Your garbage can is full of plants! Before you throw away anything of a growing nature, look at it to determine if it has any aesthetic horticultural value. For example, oranges, limes, lemons, grapefruit, pears, peaches, plums, apples, avocados—all these have seeds that can be planted in pots. Or how about carrots, beets, parsnips and pineapple tops, which grow great foliage when placed in a shallow pot of soil? There!—that'll keep you busy all winter!

Dave Brubeck: My Ten Favorite Records



One of the all-time jazz greats, Dave Brubeck, says of his list of favorites: "Composition is what is important to me. I don't have a favorite conductor—and in most cases I don't have a favorite commercial album. But these are my favorite works. In jazz, Duke Ellington was my biggest influence, though Art Tatum was and is my biggest influence in playing jazz piano."

*Recipe given

MAPLE BROILED GRAPEFRUIT

2 seedless grapefruit, halved and sectioned
4 teaspoons butter or margarine
¼ cup maple-blended syrup
4 Maraschino cherries, with stems

1. Dot each grapefruit with a teaspoon of butter. Drizzle 1 tablespoon syrup over each.
2. Place on baking pan. Place 4-5 inches from source of heat in preheated broiler and broil 10-15 minutes, until hot and bubbly. Garnish each with a Maraschino cherry.

Makes 4 servings

CHICKEN WITH PARSLEY, SAGE, ROSEMARY AND THYME

2 (1¾-2 lbs.) whole chicken breasts, halved
1 pkg. (2⅜ ozs.) seasoned coating mix for chicken
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
½ teaspoon sage leaves
½ teaspoon rosemary leaves, crumbled
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
1 can (10½ ozs.) condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
¼ cup chicken broth
¼ cup dry sherry, Chablis or dry vermouth
1 can (6 ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained, optional

1. Preheat oven to 400° F. Line a shallow baking pan with foil.
2. Coat chicken with seasoned coating mix as directed on package. Sprinkle with parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme.
3. Arrange chicken in pan and bake uncovered for 20 minutes. Drain off any fat from pan.
4. Combine soup, broth, sherry and mushrooms; pour a little sauce down center of chicken, pour remaining sauce around chicken. Bake about 15 minutes longer, or until tender.

5. Arrange chicken breasts on heated serving platter, spoon sauce over. Makes 4 servings

GOLDEN CORNBREAD RING WITH SPINACH

1 pkg. (6 ozs.) chicken-flavored or cornbread range-top stuffing mix
¼ cup butter or margarine, cut up
1½ cups hot water
1 egg, beaten
2 pkgs. (10-oz. size) frozen chopped spinach
1 hard-cooked egg, shredded, optional

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. and grease a 1½-qt. ring mold.
2. In 1½-qt. bowl combine contents of vegetable-seasoning packet from stuffing mix, butter and water. Stir just to blend and partially melt butter.
3. Add stuffing mix; stir just to moisten. Blend in egg.
4. Spoon into prepared ring mold. Bake uncovered 15 minutes. Unmold onto serving plate, keep warm.
5. Meanwhile, cook spinach as directed on package; drain well. Spoon into small bowl, top with shredded egg if desired. Place in center of stuffing ring. Makes 4-6 servings

WINE JELLY

3 cups (1¼ lbs.) sugar
2 cups wine*
½ bottle (6-oz. size) liquid fruit pectin
Paraffin

1. Measure sugar and wine into a large saucepan. Stir over medium heat, bringing mixture to just below the boiling point.
2. Continue stirring until the sugar is dissolved, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat Stir in fruit pectin at once and mix well.
3. Skim off foam, if necessary. Pour quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin. Cool.
4. Label and date glasses.

Makes 4 (6 ozs.) glasses

Editor's note: Recipe may be doubled.
*Use sherry, port, Burgundy, muscatel, claret, Tokay or fruit wines: loganberry, currant or blackberry.

MIXED GREEN SALAD WITH CHEESE CROUTONS

2 cups chilled, torn, bite-size pieces romaine
2 cups chilled, torn, bite-size pieces lettuce
1 cup chilled watercress sprigs
1 peeled tomato, cut into wedges
2 strips crisp bacon, crumbled
½ cup cheese croutons (recipe below)
⅔ cup prepared salad dressing

1. Combine greens in large salad bowl. Top with tomato wedges; sprinkle with bacon and croutons. Cover and refrigerate if not serving immediately.
2. Just before serving, pour salad dressing over salad and toss lightly. Makes 4 servings

CHEESE CROUTONS

1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup ½-inch bread cubes or herb-seasoned croutons

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. or 400°F. Combine butter and cheese; add bread cubes and toss lightly.
2. Place cubes on baking sheet; bake about 3-5 minutes, until golden brown and crisp.
3. Serve with salad or soup. Makes 1 cup

BEST-EVER CHERRIES JUBILEE

1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen sweet Bing cherries in quick-thaw pouch, thawed
2 tablespoons currant jelly
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
¼ cup brandy, rum or kirsch
1 pt. vanilla ice cream

1. Drain cherries, reserving syrup.
2. In small saucepan or top of chafing dish, heat cherry syrup and currant jelly, stirring until jelly melts.
3. Combine cornstarch and water smoothly, add to sauce. Heat, stirring, until mixture thickens and boils.
4. Heat brandy in separate pan. Ignite brandy with match at table. Pour into sauce.
5. Ladle flaming sauce over ice cream in dessert dishes. Makes 4 servings

LET'S HEAR IT FOR CHOLESTEROL!

Cholesterol is an evil . . . or is it? A new booklet, "Eggs. . . . Your Diet and Your Health," prepared by the National Commission on Egg Nutrition, gives the other side of the cholesterol story.

According to the booklet: "Cholesterol is absolutely essential for your nerves to transmit their impulses throughout your body. Your nervous system could not work without an adequate amount of cholesterol to act as a conductor. In addition . . . , the body must have cholesterol in order to make sex hormones."

The booklet also explains that advertising for drugs that lower the blood-cholesterol concentration must carry this warning: "It has not been established whether drug-induced lowering of serum cholesterol or other lipid levels has a detrimental, beneficial, or no effect at all on atherosclerosis or coronary heart disease."

Copies of "Eggs. . . . Your Diet and Your Health" are available free from the National Commission on Egg Nutrition, 205 Touhy Avenue, Park Ridge, Ill. 60068.

KNOW YOUR ICE CREAM

The government has ruled that you have the right to know whether or not you are getting the real thing when you buy ice cream. For example, a product labeled "Vanilla Ice Cream" must be flavored completely with real, natural vanilla (from extract or beans). If it says "Peach Ice Cream," it must be all real peach flavor. However, if the label says "Vanilla Flavored Ice Cream," this means artificial vanillin is being used. Up to 49 percent of the flavor may be artificial. And if the label says "Artificially Flavored Vanilla Ice Cream," this means that more than half of the flavor is artificial.

Here's a real bargain.

Mary Tyler Moore: "Let Others Complain About Entertaining... Me—I Love It!"

"I'm not knowledgeable about health foods, but my ears are much more open now than they used to be. I'd like to become a vegetarian, but it seems to involve a real commitment—almost a way of life."

By Mary Tyler Moore
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

Working every day makes cooking practically nonexistent for me. I have a cook. But occasionally on a weekend, I'll rustle up some kind of vegetable casserole. My favorite is a tomato-zucchini dish. During the last five minutes, I spread grated Cheddar cheese over the top. It comes out nice and gooey! I'm a real Cheddar cheese nut anyway!

I'm not knowledgeable about health foods, but my ears are much more open now than they used to be. I'd like to become a vegetarian, but it seems to involve a real commitment—almost a way of life.

People like myself, who are diabetics and particularly calorie conscious, want to know about easy ways to plan low-calorie menus. I'm surprised nobody has put out a low-calorie vegetarian menu-planning booklet. I think it would go over like crazy, particularly now, with meat prices the way they are. Besides, I've found so many of the vegetarian recipes are very fattening because they often call for nuts, butter and rice.

I have a beach house designed for entertaining. I like to give buffet dinners for 24. My friends sit outside on the deck overlooking the water if it's warm enough, or they just bring the plates into the living room.

Building this house has really brought me out of my shell entertaining-wise. The house is just the way I want it. I feel easy enough to be able to enjoy entertaining and not get uptight. I certainly don't hate it as so many hostesses apparently do.

HOT FRUIT

2 fresh Bartlett pears
2 cups fresh plums, figs or other fruit in season; or 2 cups canned, dark, sweet cherries, pitted
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup arrowroot
¼ cup sugar
3 cups apple juice

1. Halve, core and slice pears. Combine with the other fruit, which has been pitted and cut into halves or quarters, and lemon juice.
2. Blend arrowroot with sugar in saucepan. Gradually stir in apple juice and cook, stirring, over medium heat until sauce comes to boil and is thickened.
3. Add fruits; cook until just heated through.

Hot Fruit is a light and tasty dessert that goes well on any menu.

Your baby's first foods should be plain and simple.

When your baby nears his first month, his world begins to broaden. Eyes begin to follow light . . . tiny fists unfold . . . as he discovers the world around him.

And soon it's time for one of the most unique experiences of all . . . the introduction of solid foods.

It's important that your baby begin on the simple foods. Traditional starters are single-grain cereals . . . one-fruit juices . . . plain strained meats. They'll make up the basic diet for your baby, not only helping to provide adequate nourishment, but also helping to broaden his tastes.

Keeping to the simple varieties at the beginning is important, too, in helping you and your doctor note any unusual reaction to certain foods.

How do you know your baby is ready for solids? It depends on individual needs and your doctor. Now the question is, which food will be used as a starter? For most babies, it's cereal.

Starting with cereal. Gerber single-grain cereals are excellent choices. They have an especially smooth texture. And the flavors are pleasantly bland, the way babies prefer them.

Rice and Oatmeal are the traditional cereals recommended. Like all Gerber dry cereals, each is enriched with iron, thiamin, and other important B-vitamins.

When first introducing cereals, it's a good idea to make the mixture quite soupy (4 or 5 tablespoons of milk or formula to 1 tablespoon of cereal). As baby gets used to the mixture, you can gradually make the cereal thicker.

Meats provide important protein. Simple strained meats are the best starting meats. And Gerber meats are high in the body-building protein that your baby needs during his first year—his fastest year of growth.

Gerber meats are lean and moist. They're processed the Gerber way to retain natural juices and lower the fat level, when necessary.

Time for variety. Your baby's interest in food at 6 months is likely to be higher than it will be at one year, so this is an ideal time to introduce him to a variety of foods.

Let your baby try one new food at a time. Small portions at first, then gradually increase the serving. And if you serve the new food at the beginning of a meal, when he's hungry, he'll probably be more ready to accept it.

Work for a balanced daily diet, including milk and milk products; meat and other protein foods; vegetables and fruits; cereals.

Feeding tips. Should you heat the baby food? Unless your baby likes it that way, it's not necessary. Try warming vegetables and meat, serve fruit and dessert at room or refrigerator temperature. Fruit juices should not be heated; it might destroy the Vitamin C.

Remember, too, that at the beginning, your baby will probably not be eating a full jar of food. So when you don't expect to use it all at one feeding, transfer the portion to be fed to a serving dish. Cover and refrigerate the unused portion. Try not to feed your baby directly from the jar.

And do relax. These are the times when your baby will form associations with food that will stay with him all his life. When mealtime is a happy sharing time, your baby will have a feeling of security and belonging.

Babies are our business...

MARY'S GROUND-BEEF STROGANOFF

1½ lbs. lean ground sirloin
Salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (4 ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
½ cup chopped white onion
1 small clove garlic, pressed
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1 can (10½ ozs.) condensed beef broth
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons dry white wine, optional

1. Brown beef, seasoned to taste with salt and pepper, in melted butter until loose and crumbly. Lift out meat.
2. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic. Cook over low heat 3-4 minutes, or until onion is transparent and soft. Remove from pan.
3. Add flour to pan, stirring to make a smooth paste. Blend in tomato paste. Gradually stir in beef broth. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until thickened and bubbly.
4. Return meat and mushroom mixture to skillet. Stir in sour cream and wine. Cook slowly until heated through. Do not boil, or sour cream will curdle.
5. Serve at once over hot buttered noodles or rice. Makes 4 servings

HERBED TOMATO-ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

1 pound zucchini
4 medium-sized tomatoes
½ cup instant minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt, or 1 teaspoon salt plus ½ teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning, or ½ teaspoon each dried oregano and basil
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup Italian herb-flavored bread crumbs

1. Preheat oven to 300°F.
2. Cut zucchini into ½-inch thick slices and tomatoes ¼-inch thick. Place zucchini in a medium-sized casserole.
3. Combine onion, salt, Italian seasoning and pepper. Sprinkle half over zucchini.
4. Arrange tomatoes over seasonings. Sprinkle with remaining seasoning mixture.
5. Cover, bake for 20 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender and almost all of the liquid has evaporated.
6. Combine cheese with crumbs; sprinkle over all. Bake 5 minutes more, or until cheese is melted. Makes 6-8 servings

Men Go For Hearty Pot Roast

FIRESIDE FAVORITE POT ROAST DINNER

4 lbs. boneless beef rump, chuck or round roast
1 bottle (18 ozs.) all-purpose barbecue sauce
1¼ cups dry red or white wine (or a combination)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1¼ cups water
¾ lb. white onions, peeled
1 lb. carrots, peeled, cut in 2-inch chunks
1 lb. white turnips, peeled and halved
1½ lbs. potatoes, peeled and halved
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

1. Place beef rump roast in bowl. Pour barbecue sauce and ¼ cup wine over. Cover with plastic film or foil. Refrigerate overnight, turning once.

2. Next day drain roast well, reserve marinade. In 6-qt. Dutch oven heat butter and oil. Brown meat slowly on all sides. Pour off fat.

3. Pour marinade, 1 cup water and remaining wine over roast. Bring to boil. Cover; reduce heat and simmer, covered, 2 hours.

4. Place prepared vegetables around meat. Return to boiling; reduce heat and let bubble slowly about 30-40 minutes, until meat and vegetables are tender.

5. Mix remaining ¼ cup water and flour smoothly. Stir into sauce; heat, stirring, until sauce boils.

6. To serve: Arrange meat on platter, surround with vegetables. Sprinkle with parsley. Pour a little gravy over, serve remaining gravy in sauce boat. Makes 4-6 servings

New way to put fruit on your cereal.

Scrumptious Apricot Beauty Pie made with California Apricots and Kellogg's Special K.

If you've been looking for a truly new dessert idea, you've found it. Kellogg's® Special K® puts crisp in the crust—nutrition, too. Apricots flavor the filling with delicate tartness. They're also a rich source of vitamin A. Apricot Beauty Pie is a winner your whole family is likely to like.

Apricot Beauty Pie

2 tablespoons regular margarine or butter
1/4 cup corn syrup
1 6-oz. package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
2 cups KELLOGG'S SPECIAL K cereal
* * * * * * *
1 17-oz. can apricot halves, well-drained, reserving syrup
1 3-oz. package orange flavor gelatin
1 pint (2 cups) whipping cream, chilled

1. Place margarine, corn syrup and chocolate morsels in medium-size saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until chocolate is melted and mixture is well-blended; remove from heat. Add Special K cereal; stir until cereal is well-coated. With back of tablespoon press cereal mixture evenly in bottom and around sides of lightly buttered 9-inch pie pan to form crust. Chill.

2. Reserve 8 apricot halves for top of pie. Cut remaining halves into small pieces for filling. Set aside.

3. Place gelatin in small mixing bowl. Measure one cup of the reserved apricot syrup into small saucepan; heat until boiling. Add hot syrup to gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until gelatin is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Meanwhile, place whipping cream in large mixing bowl; beat until soft peaks form. Set aside.

4. Whip chilled gelatin until thick and foamy and double in volume. Gently fold gelatin and apricot pieces into whipped cream. Spoon filling into piecrust. Chill one hour or until set. Cut each reserved apricot half into 2 pieces; arrange on pie just before serving.

Yield: 8 servings

Note: To cut pie and remove pieces easily, place hot, wet towel under bottom and around sides of pie pan; allow to stand a few minutes.

For additional apricot recipes, write California Apricot Advisory Board, 1295 Boulevard Way, Walnut Creek, California 94595.

VIENNESE COFFEE

4 tablespoons instant coffee
2 cups boiling water
½ cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened
Nutmeg
¼ cup orange-rind pieces, optional

1. Combine coffee and water in coffee server.

2. Pour into small cups. Top each with a spoonful of whipped cream and sprinkle with a little nutmeg.

3. Serve with a twist of orange rind, if desired. Makes 4 servings

HONEY AND DATE SUNDAES

1 cup honey
1 cup maple-blended syrup
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup slivered crystallized ginger, optional
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts
1 pkg. (8 ozs.) diced or pitted dates, snipped
5 tablespoons brandy or rum
1 pt. vanilla or coffee ice cream
½ cup heavy cream, whipped, optional
Whole dates for garnish, optional

1. Combine honey, syrup, butter and ginger in heavy saucepan.

2. Cook over medium heat, stirring, until mixture boils and reaches 225°F. on a candy thermometer. It will take 3-5 minutes.

3. Cool slightly. Add nuts, dates and brandy.

4. Ladle warm sauce over ice cream in dessert dishes. Top with whipped cream if desired, and garnish each with a whole date. Makes 3½ cups sauce, enough for 4 servings with some left over

Dessert of Kings: Caramel Flan

Simple ingredients—canned evaporated milk, sugar, vanilla and eggs—are transformed into Caramel Flan.

Caramel Flan is basically a custard dessert—that is, milk and eggs combined with flavoring and baked. This recipe imparts more "body" to the custard because it is made with evaporated milk. (Using evaporated milk in making flan is typically Latin American.) The shimmering golden-brown surface comes from heating granulated sugar until it liquifies and turns a golden-amber color. This caramelized (actually burnt-sugar) syrup has a unique flavor that is essential to the dessert.

CARAMEL FLAN

1¼ cups sugar
6 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 can (13 ozs.) skimmed evaporated milk, undiluted
1 can (13 ozs.) evaporated milk, undiluted

1. Preheat oven to 350°F.

2. In heavy saucepan, cook 1 cup sugar over medium heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Continue cooking and stirring until liquid sugar turns a golden-amber color.

3. Pour syrup immediately into a 6-cup ring mold or 1½-qt. shallow baking dish, turning mold to completely coat sides.

4. In medium bowl, beat eggs with ¾ cup sugar, vanilla extract, and the 2 cans evaporated milk. Pour into prepared mold.

5. Set mold in a larger baking pan. Place in oven; pour boiling water into larger pan to 2-inch depth.

6. Bake for about 1 hour, or until the tip of a knife inserted 1 inch from edge of custard comes out clean.

7. Refrigerate immediately until completely chilled, about 2½-3 hours.

8. At serving time loosen custard around edge and center of ring with a knife. Cover firmly with a deep serving plate, and invert. Let stand a minute or two to let syrup run out of pan on to custard. Makes 8 servings

You might like to try this recipe for Evaporated Milk Custard, a simple custard also made with evaporated milk and eggs.

EVAPORATED MILK CUSTARD

4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 can (13 ozs.) evaporated milk, undiluted
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract
Ground nutmeg or cinnamon, optional

1. Preheat oven to 350°F.

2. In medium bowl with wire whisk or electric mixer at medium speed, beat eggs, sugar and salt together.

3. Stir in water, evaporated milk and vanilla extract. Beat until well blended.

4. Pour into 8 (6 oz.) custard cups. Sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon if desired. (No custard cups? Use oven-proof coffee cups.)

5. Place in baking pan about 2½ inches deep. Pour hot water around cups to 1 inch deep. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 40-45 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean.

6. Remove cups from water. Serve custard warm or chilled. Makes 8 servings

Concerned about heart attack?

If you will get your husband to quit smoking...

exercise regularly...

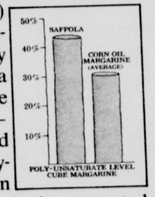
Saffola® will help lower his cholesterol.

Following the doctor's orders isn't always easy. So when he recommends a low saturated fat diet, it's nice to get some help. Unlike the high-priced spread, Saffola (and, in fact, most margarines) contains no cholesterol. But that's only the beginning. Saffola Margarine is made from safflower oil — lower in saturated fats, higher in polyunsaturates than corn oil. In conjunction with a low saturated fat diet, Saffola actually helps reduce the level of blood cholesterol.



It's reassuring to know that if your doctor recommends cutting down on saturated fats, you don't have to cut down on flavor.

Saffola tastes so much like the high-priced spread, chances are your family won't notice the difference.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

When You Were Born:

How It Affects Your Future

True or False: There are peak periods in the year when people of certain occupations are most likely to have been born. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. You're likely to have a better relationship with your parents if you were born before your brothers or sisters.

2. The time of year you were born has a bearing on your intelligence.

3. If you're the middle child in a large family, it's harder for you to tread the straight-and-narrow path, easier to succumb to temptation.

4. There are peak periods in the year when people of certain occupations are most likely to have been born.

5. The time of year you were born can have a bearing on how long you're likely to live.

6. You have the best chance of being successful in politics if you are either the oldest or the youngest child in the family.

ANSWERS

1. True—as evidenced by university studies which show that firstborns tend to be the most accepting of parental authority, "more adult-oriented, more sensitive, serious and conscientious." These qualities make it easier for them to establish a rapport not only with their own parents but with other grown-ups as well.

2. True. At Colorado State College, more than 1,600 men and women students were subjected to a battery of standard intelligence tests. The results were then carefully compared with the month and season of birth. The findings are reported as follows: "The individuals in this study tended to score higher on intelligence measure if their birth months fell in the warmer months of March through August. The colder fall-winter birth months, September through February, tended to produce lower test scores. The order of birth seasons, from most to least favorable test performance, was summer, spring, winter, fall."

3. True—as shown by a University of Melbourne study of thousands of youngsters. It was found that middle children in large families were the most likely to yield to various forms of temptation and to participate in activities frowned on by parents.

4. True—according to recent findings of research sponsored by leading British scientists at the University of Bradford. An extensive survey of occupations and birthdates was made from volumes of "Who's Who." The list was divided into four classifications: soldiers, doctors, artists and musicians. It was found that peak birth periods—far beyond chance expectation—for each occupation occurred at a specific time of the year. The peak periods were as follows: "For soldiers – midsummer to late autumn; for doctors—early summer to mid-autumn; for artists—late winter to late spring; and musicians—late autumn to middle spring."

5. True—according to studies cited by a team of medical researchers which show that persons born from January through March average somewhat longer lives than those born in the spring and summer. Research has also shown that the health hazards to which we are subject in infancy vary widely according to season of birth. Some ailments and afflictions that present a danger at one time of the year pose little threat at another.

6. True. A study of candidates in general elections showed that "more firstborn and last-born candidates won their contests than did middle-born candidates." Other investigations have shown strong leadership qualities associated with firstborns, and that the youngest child is most clever at finding ways and means of getting what he wants.

Sports Mini-Profile

HOCKEY'S PHIL ESPOSITO:
He's Laughing, But the Black Hawks Aren't

Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins is a happy-go-lucky guy who will cut up even after his team has lost a tough game. Most hockey players are grim and tight-lipped. Not Phil. His attitude so infuriated the manager of the Chicago Black Hawks that he traded Esposito to the Bruins in 1967. Espy combined with Bobby Orr to transform Boston into a steady winner. Now that he is making a bid for his fifth scoring championship in the last six seasons, Black Hawk executives ruefully admit their mistake. . . . Esposito is unusually successful in scoring goals against the Black Hawks' goalie—Phil's younger brother, Tony. They're devoted to each other, but this makes no never mind when the game begins. The combativeness between the two goes back to their childhood in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. . . . Unlike Phil, Tony is a worrisome goalie who tends to brood and takes every defeat hard. . . . The 31-year-old, six-foot one-inch Esposito moves with a lumbering style that belies his ability to get past and around defenders. . . ."If not for hockey, I'd be driving a truck—something I used to do in the Soo during summers when I was getting low pay from the Black Hawks," he says. . . . Espy is privately superstitious. He always laces up his right skate before his left, will immediately uncross hockey sticks if they're crossed, and keeps wearing the same suit when the Bruins go on a winning streak. If the streak goes on too long, his wife has to plead with him to let her take the suit to the cleaners.

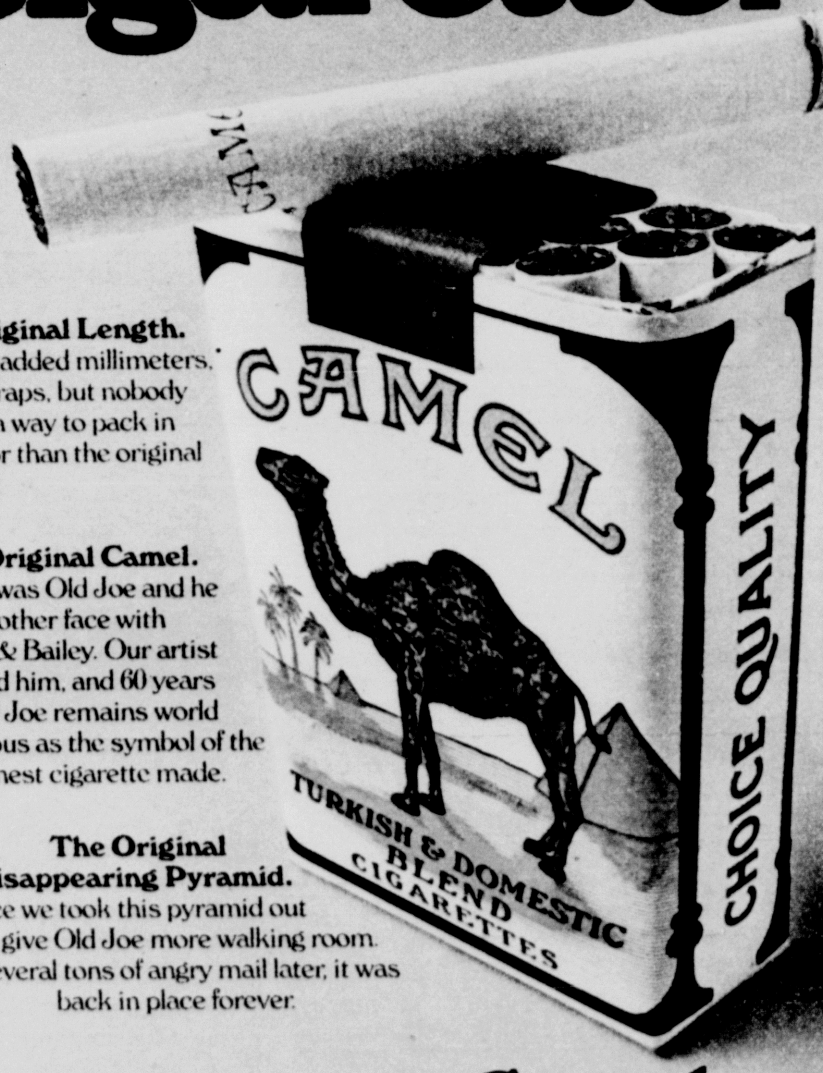
The original cigarette.



The Original Length.
Others have added millimeters, filters and traps, but nobody ever found a way to pack in more flavor than the original Camel.

The Original Camel.
His name was Old Joe and he was just another face with Barnum & Bailey. Our artist sketched him, and 60 years later Old Joe remains world famous as the symbol of the finest cigarette made.

The Original Disappearing Pyramid.
Once we took this pyramid out to give Old Joe more walking room. Several tons of angry mail later, it was back in place forever.

The Original Blend.
The original measure of a cigarette was taste. So we blended the Burley, Virginia and Turkish tobaccos that deliver the most taste. Result: Camel, still the best tasting cigarette in the world.

Camel. You don't change a good thing.

Jobmanship

Wanted: Eight Million New Managers

Between now and 1975 your chances for promotion may expand. In that time, approximately eight million new jobs will open up in the U.S. for supervisors and managers. So if you're serious about eventually moving up to a manager's desk, you may want to go back to school part-time and earn a college degree. Does a college diploma really make that much difference? The plain truth is, yes! Though workers without college degrees are still promoted from the ranks, especially in smaller companies, the trend is clearly against it. Nowadays three-quarters of all people in management have completed college. If the thought of years of part-time study discourages you, investigate the two-year junior colleges. And don't worry about your age. In college classrooms of the '70's you'll find many serious adults, ages 25 through 75.—By S. R. Redford

The Diet Watch

How Fatigue Can Affect Your Diet

When to "stop and relax" is something every dieter should know. Fatigue lowers our resistance, and when we continue working despite fatigue, we're more susceptible to turning to a quick coffee-and-doughnut (or other high-calorie food) to pick up our energy. So at the first sign of fatigue, it's smart to stop. If you're home, turn on the radio for a few minutes and have a refreshing cup of tea. At the office, taking a turn down the hall, drawing a few deep breaths (oxygen helps) and having tea or coffee are all good. Fatigue also comes from negative emotions like frustration, anger, anxiety, hostility, resentment. If you're in this kind of emotional bind when you're dieting, be extra cautious. Find out why you're angry or resentful or whatever—and get rid of the negative emotion before it sabotages your diet. —By Harriet La Barre

People and You

Do Americans Really Neglect Grandma and Grandpa?

"Families used to be much closer. Nowadays older people have to manage for themselves." This is one of the clichés people repeat to each other. Recently, sociologist Ethel Shanas set out to discover if the cliché was really true. Her surveys, financed by the U.S. government's HEW and Public Health Service, revealed that when people move from farms to cities, there is less family visiting. But families remain very interested in each other's welfare. Moreover, the attention Americans give older people ranks right up there with the other countries of the world. Ms. Shanas found that almost 80 percent of Americans 65 or older see at least one of their immediate family every week. Even when an older person in the U.S. has no grown children, often a niece or nephew steps in and becomes a regular visitor and helper. People may think "the good old days" were better in this regard, but apparently this isn't true. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

GROW CARPETS OF BLOOM WHERE OTHER PLANTS DESPAIR

STRONG-GROWING WIDE-SPREADING Penngift CORONILLA (VARIA)

TRANSFORMS PROBLEM AREAS INTO A SPRING-TO-FALL CARPET OF BLOOMS

Once established, Coronilla, a recently discovered groundcover that spreads vigorously in poorest soil—beautifies banks, slopes, foundations, borders, edgings and driveways with a dense foot-deep blanket of solid blooms. Controls erosion even on steep gullies—turns almost vertical slopes into living walls of flowers. Defies drought, needs no maintenance. As a nitrogen-fixing legume, it conditions and improves any soil it grows in. Nothing else like it! Here is the outstanding groundcover discovery that turns hard-to-plant problem areas into sweeping vistas of floral beauty . . . and once the roots take hold and plants are established, provides faster coverage, better and more colorful results with less care or cost than any other groundcover we've ever seen or heard of!

This plant marvel shoots out dense mats of bright, green foliage which lies low to the ground and covers itself with brilliant pink flower masses from spring to fall. Talk of "picture beauty"! Equally important is its dense, fibrous, deep root system which grips sandy or rocky soil, even washed-out gullies so tenaciously that it binds and holds together poor subsoils or eroding cliffs under severe conditions where other plants can barely survive . . . much less form a thick, solid stand!

Ideal For New Homes & Hard-to-Mow Areas!

Rarely needs any soil preparation! Set 3 ft. apart for strong growth and dense coverage. Neat, low growing. Winter-hardy. Thrives from Texas to Canada! Chokes weeds. Ideal for steep banks!

HELPS 4 OUT OF 5 QUIT SMOKING!

of all the leading smoking deterrents only Bantron has stood the test of time

Most likely that smoking deterrent you tried and didn't get any help from isn't in your drug store any more. But Bantron® is. It has been there for over twenty years . . . helped thousands quit smoking. In actual clinical tests among smokers who wanted to quit 4 out of 5 (83 percent) did so easily and pleasantly in 5 to 7 days with its help. Bantron is not habit forming and does not affect the taste in any way. This little pill simply acts as a substitute for the nicotine in your system, thus curbing your desire to smoke. Don't be discouraged if other smoking deterrents have failed you. Try Bantron, the clinical tests prove it works. You can get it at any drug store.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

This Exclusive Formula Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief In Many Cases from such Pain. Also Helps Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due to Infection.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting, named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice.

This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Just see if doctor tested Preparation H doesn't help you. There's no other formula like it. Ointment or suppositories.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method–which you can use, too–called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment–all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."–Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find ... improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old." –Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method.... I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." –Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." –Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." –Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" –Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old... Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" –Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology–after a single treatment–that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback–a huge, ugly bulge–received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers... I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them.... For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

– CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results. And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon–TODAY!

A FUTURE MARK SPITZ?
Arthur is a nine-day wonder

Some people take to water like ducks and eight-month-old Arthur Parshin is one of them. When he was only nine days old, his parents, who are engineers in Moscow—and keen swimmers—took him to the Children's Polyclinic pool and introduced him to their sport. It was obvious to the Parshins that Arthur was in his element, for he has been splashing away happily (with the help of his rubber ring) ever since. Arthur's parents also report that with all the splashing around he gets a good deal of exercise and has never had a sick day in his life. Parents of the world take note!

The adventures of Me! A new concept in children's books developed by the Me-Books Publishing Co. in California can make any child the subject of a story. Using a computerized process similar to the one that prints your name on form letters, these personalized children's books (which also include the names of the child's actual friends, relatives and pets) increase a child's interest in reading. According to tests at the University of Southern California, children reacted with "sustained interest and high motivation" after reading one of the colorfully illustrated books. In fact, 99 percent wanted more Me-Books. There are presently four on the market: "My Jungle Land," "My Friendly Giraffe," "My Birthday Land Adventure," and "My Special Christmas." For more information, write: Me-Books Publishing Co., 11644 Victory Blvd., North Hollywood, Calif. 91609.

RICARDO & CARLOS MONTALBAN
Which is "The Demanding One"?

"To me Carlos J. Montalban is a friend. To millions of others he is El Exigente—The Demanding One—the Crowned Connoisseur of the coffee samplers. The entire nation of Colombia depends upon his nod of approval, without which that Land of the Coffee Bean would disintegrate and starve to death. But once he nods and smiles his approbation, an entire city goes delirious with joy. . . . Not only is he El Exigente, Carlos is a well-known Spanish-speaking actor; and when he is not performing, he plays the role of United States representative of Madrid's Suevia Films. It is not generally known that the Coffee Cognoscente is a brother of film actor Ricardo Montalban." From: "They Call Me the Showbiz Priest," by Father Robert Perrella, OFM (Trident Press, $7.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

HARK, HARK THE BARK

The bark of a dog gets me all upset.
I may lunge for the throat of some yapper yet.
And that's why it's good for my peace of mind
That the bark of a tree is the silent kind.
Were it otherwise, I just couldn't win,
Driven mad as I'd be by the constant din
And begging my neighbor with all my might
To keep his trees, please, in the house at night
And muzzled, as well, when he walks them around
Or they'll all wind up in the local pound.
But a lot like a tree, at times, is a dog:
There's no noise to his bark when he sleeps like a log.

Today a car is almost automatic. This leaves your mind free to worry about how to make the payments.
—Lucille J. Goodyear

Two Martians landed on a rooftop in a residential area and began to survey their strange surroundings. "Look," shouted one of the Martians excitedly as he pointed at the TV antennas all about them. "Girls!"
—Thomas LaMance

Before this Administration, I was plagued by irrational fears. I still have the fears, but now they're rational.
—Robert Brault

Have you heard about the IRS cocktail? Two drinks and you don't withhold a thing. —Lane Olinghouse

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Recently my husband returned from the hospital following surgery. His instructions were to lie still in bed. When our seven-year-old daughter said her prayer that evening, I heard her murmur: "Please, God, don't let it hurt my daddy if anyone jumps on the bed because it will probably be me." —Mrs. Eric Beals
Corpus Christi, Texas

Wife to husband: "Now, don't go buying me anything expensive for my birthday. I'd much rather have somethings you made yourself."

Husband: "What did you have in mind?"

Wife: "Money."
—Lucille J. Goodyear

What a great way to encourage your child's creative talents! And what a wonderful source of pride and delight for your child . . . to fashion, with his own hands, beautiful and accurate replicas of famous aircraft and spacecraft . . . steamships and submarines . . . historic sailing vessels . . . high-powered racing cars . . . and so much more! Which is exactly what your child will be doing—when you enroll him in Parents' Magazine's YOUNG MODEL BUILDERS CLUB.

A New Model Builders Kit Each Month

Besides the pleasure and inspiration, think of the educational benefits as your child becomes familiar with a new and different object of present-day or historical importance . . . through each month's package of precision-built parts, ready to assemble into a handsome, durable model that will long occupy a place of honor in his own room, or in the family living room or den . . . and in your youngster's heart.

A Fascinating Background Booklet with Each Month's Model Kit

With each new model your child assembles, his deftness and skill will increase. And so will his knowledge—for with each month's model kit he will receive a booklet outlining the history and development of the original of the model to be constructed.

Imagine the rich fund of knowledge your child will develop—as he builds models and learns interesting and important facts about a fantastic modern day spacecraft, or some historic sailing vessel, or famous racing car, or early model automobile!

Think of the hours of instructive and constructive fun for your youngster! Think how his life will be enriched as his collection of models grows and he points with ever-increasing pride to the products of his handiwork. Then, finally, consider what enormous dollars-and-cents value you are getting in being billed the member's price of only $1.95 (plus postage and handling) for each month's complete Model Builders package.
